Championship Season Closes on September 25th-Two Ladies' Days Each Week-The Schedule.

At a meeting of the Pacific National pague officials held at the Wilson hotel yesterday atternoon, the championship chedule was formed and adopted, and the management of the four teams comprising the organization declared themselves satisfied. The meeting was devoid of bickering and strife and while each representative was auxious for certain dates, matters were so adjusted that all got a "square deal." The session was attended by President Lucas of the league, C. H. Williams of Spokane, John J. Mc-Closkey of the Boise club, Walter Wilmot of Butte and Director C. H. Griffin of the Salt Lake club. In arranging the schedule the officials had considerable trouble when the question of some of the teams making long jumps came up. This could not be avoided, and it had to be done in order to balance the schedule. A plan to pool the railroad rates over a certain figure was hit upon to offset this difficulty, and after it was at first suggested that five games igned the schedule and congratulated each other upon the splendld prospects of the league.

The vote of thanks was ordered gread upon the minutes of the meeting. McCoskey was offered compensation for his work, but he declined to accept it. Walter Seebree, president of the Boise pables, was chosen as the league's representative in Boise, and in the future all league matters arising there will be referred to him for adjustment. C. H. Los Angeles, Cal., March 31.—Wheeler pitching and the splendid fielding of the champions were responsible for the string of ciphers in the Portland score to day. The home team fielded cleaner an string of cipners in the Portland score te-day. The home team fielded cleaner and quicker than the visitors and batted when hits were needed. Thielman pitched a strong game for the visitors, but was not given good support. The enthusing feature of the game was a remarkable catch by center fielder Bernard of the Los Angeles feam. Castro sprained his leg in the fifth inning and gave way to Francis, Baxter going to third, Score:

Batteries-Wheeler and Spies; Thielman and Steelman and Shea.

San Francisco, March 31.—Magnificent throwing from the outfield and the effective pitching of Schmidt resulted in the whitewashing of the local team today. Whalen pitched a good game, but his support was poorer than the number of errors indicate. Score:

Oakland Batteries—Whalen and Leahy; Schmidt and Lohman.
Fresno, Cal., March 31.—Seattle won today's loosely played game, but an exciting one on account of the closeness of the score. Sample was easy for Seattle, being batted out of the box in the fifth inning after Seattle had piled up five runs. Fitzgerald, who succeeded Sample, was hit frequently, but the hits were scattered and no runs were made while he was in the box. In the fifth inning Hughes became a little wilder, Tacoma running three men over the plate. Another run in the eighth inning made Tacoma four, while Scattle had five to her credit. Score; Batteries-Whalen and Leahy; Schmidt her credit. Score;

Seattle Tacoma Batteries-Hughes and Wilson; Sample, l'itzgerald and Graham. GRANEY DEFENDS HIMSELF.

Declares He Was Honest in Giving the Decision to Britt.

Eddie Graney, who refered the fight between Young Corbett and Britt last Friday night, has seen fit to defend his position by the following statement:

I realize that it is bad form, from a sportman's standpoint, for a referee to discuss his decision, but there has been so much talk by the people against whom I decided in the recent fight between Britt and Corbett that I feel it incumbent upon me to explain my position. If I live for 10 years or for 1:0 years nothing will be able to convince me that I did not renear a just decision when I gave the fight to Britt.

I think that it is generally recognized that I have some ability as a boxer. I think the people cannot conscientiously say that I am not thoroughly familiar with the practical side of the ring game. Now, so far as my honesty is concerned. I think it is not necessary for me to speak upon that point. The people who know me and like me will say I am honest and those who do not like me are likely to say that I am dishonest. That is one of the results of occupying that most ungrateful of all positions in the sporting world—a referee.

Now, as to punching in the clinches—that is the only argument that I have with Young Cerbett's first contest with young Hanlon he never struck a blow in a clinch during the 20 rounds they fought. In his second fight with Hanlon he had a man against him who was not aggressive, who used what is known as the processing of Hanlon's weakness arrived Hanlon did—the holding on. While he held on in the clinches Corbett's two hands were free and he used them to the best of his ability. By so doing he lived up to the Marquis of Queensberry's rules, which Eddle Graney, who referred the fight stipulate that a man with two hands free may punch in the clinches.

During Friday night's fight Britt did all the forcing. At times he compelled Corbett to clinch. I did not compel them to break for the first 14 or 15 rounds. After that it became practically a wrestling match in spots; neither of them had both hands free. Therefore, according to the rules under which they fought, they could not punch in the clinches, and when I told them to break they would not break, and the only times I forced them to break were when they were wrestling or holding.

to break were when they were wresting or holding.
Corbett, while unjustly criticising me, has said that I grabbed his hand from the right side, or, rather, that in breaking the clinches, I interfered with his right hand, as he claims, I must have also interfered with Britt's left, which is his heard hand.

his best hand.

Corbett said that I never separated him during the clinches of any of his other contests. That is not true. In so stating, the little chap is very much mistaken. Any one with a memory who saw him fight Terry cGovern knows perfectly well that I had to partially disrobe in the ring in order to force the fighters to break from the second to the fourteenth round.

In the fight with McGovern Corbett was forced to clinch, just as he was with Britt. Both Britt and McGovern cut out the pace for Corbett, so that if I hadn't broken the men in both fights the battles would have degenerated into mere wresting matches.

would have degenerated into mere wrest-ing matches.

I sincerely hope that Britt will give Corbett a return match in the near fu-ture. He ought to give Corbett first chance. I hope they will select some good California referee. There are quite a few here, and if they are afraid of th native son I think it would be a good idea to import an outside referee.

ANOTHER RACE TRACK. Plans Under Way for the Erection of a Course Here.

After all it is quite probable that Salt Lake will yet have a mile race track; one that will be modern in every respect, with thoroughly up-to-date grand stands, sta-bles, paddocks and a club house. thoroughly up-to-date grand stands, stables, paddocks and a club house. For about three years or more the question of a mile track has been agitated in this city and on one or two occasions it seemed that the fond dream of local horsemen would be realized. Nothing came of it however, but now the prospects for such a track are good.

For some time those who are deeply interested in the movement have been working quietly to perfect their plans and get the project under way. The leading spirits in the movement are Sam Porter. W. C. Hall, Sam Lawrence and a wealthy horseman of San Francisco. A wealthy Sait Laker whose name has not been made public is also interested in the scheme. That these gentlemen mean business is evinced by the fact that they have secured an option on a tract of land of 60 acres or more between State and First West streets and bounded by Twelfth South on the north. The option is good until May 15, and it is expected that before that time an association will be formed and the project pushed to completion.

A lady in India tells this story of an elephant's skill as a nurse. "Thou are hungry, doubtless, big mother,' said Remmia, emerging presently from the hut with the baby in her arms. 'Ishta, beautiful elephant, take care of baby; I am going to see to your dinner.' She put the little restless brown bundle down on the ground between Ishta's two feet. Then she fetched the earthenware jar of unglazed red clay, and filled it with five charcoal, setting it down to get heated through while she mixed flour and water into dough. With the skill of frequent practise she spread the rough mixture three or four inches thick all over the outside of the jar, While the dough was slowly baked by the heat from the embers inside, Ishta, patient and doelle as was her wont, cared for the baby; gently restraining the little truant, who would have crawled away. Now and again when the baby limbs moved quicker and would have achieved a few paces of freedom, Ishta's trunk would carefully wind round the little body, and lift it back to safety between the huge barriers of her feet, and the tip would gently pet and fondle away baby's fretfulness and impatience of control."—Chicago News.
