NOTABLE UTAH WOMEN.

MRS. DELILAH KING OLSON.

MRS. DELILAH KING OLSON was the only daughter of Thomas R. King and Matilda Robinson King, who are of English descent, and whose ancestors were among the early settlers of the New England States. Later her grand parents moved to the State of New York, (her parents' native State) and here they accepted "Mormonism" in 1840, and the following year emigrated to Nauvoo. It was during this journey on the Northwestern prairie of the State of Ohio, in an unnamed place, the subject of this sketch was born, hence her early years were one scene of Pioneer life. Arriving in Salt Lake September, 1851, later in the same year, she was one of the Pioneers of Fillmore, Millard county, which has been principally her home and place of development into the actual duties and realities of life. Prosperity attended this little colony. Good schools were established, and the following ten years of her life were spent in the school room. Having acquired quite a liberal education and being a lover of books and a promoter of education, she has been led to follow teaching as an occupation at intervals during life. It has ever been her greatest pleasure to guide the young to higher ideas and loftier ambitions in social life, and she has received many pronounced eulogies for her efforts in this direction. She became the wife of the late Daniel Olson in 1861, and though a devoted wife and mother, has found time to devote to public service, working in the various offices of the Relief Society since its organization, in 1865, in Millard State, and is at present its State secretary. She was chosen president of the first Primary association in Fillmore in 1880, and later became the State president of that association. She has also presided over the Y. L. M. L. A. for the past seventeen years, and is an active worker in the Sunday school.

She served eighteen years on the board of examination of teachers in Millard county; has ever been a strong advocate of woman's suffrage, contending that mind capacity rested upon its development, and that a nation's progress depended largely upon the equality of the sexes in the privileges of its governmental laws, and she took an active part in petitioning the State Convention for its adoption into the State Constitution. She was one of the first women of the State to realize the benefits of the franchise, being elected to the office of county recorder of Millard county, November 17, 1898, and re-elected in 1899, on the Democratic ticket, to which party she became affiliated and served as vice chairman in the Fillmore precinct.

ated with a profusion of calla lilies, charming tokens of remembrance from friends in California, and the evening was delightfully spent with music and other social pastimes. Prof. Anderson being amongst those who contributed to the enjoyable program. Refreshments were served during the evening, the dining room being presided over by Miss McMillan, Miss Griffin, Miss Alf and Miss Florence Tarbune.

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Hamner Beattie entertained at a delightful dinner party, the event being in honor of the birthday anniversary of the host. The rooms and table were decorated with carnations and smilax and a delicious menu was served. The guests were: Governor H. M. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. Rolan Wells, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Pyper, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. The social week began with the ball given by the officers of the National Guard at Christensen's, the card party given by the ladies of the Democratic club at the residence of Mrs. George Romney and several smaller home events on Monday night. The first was in celebration of the sixth anniversary of the Guard's organization, and was a brilliant affair. The hall was artistically dressed in military emblems, the stage as a mimic encampment with tents stacked, arms and a lighted campfire with kettle and two Gattings standing at each side. In front of the orchestra stood the Spanish gun recently sent from Manila. Flags, guidons, sabres and other military emblems decorated the dancing hall. War music prevailed during the evening, the opening number being "Soldiers' Life," the theme of a night before the battle and including the battle scene. At 9 o'clock Adj. Gen. Burton made an address to the guard, reading the order as to State medals for those who have served five years and over, and naming those entitled to the honor. As the names were called the officers formed a line, those who received medals being Brig-Gen. John Q. Cannon, Col. N. W. Clayton, T. J. Stevens, George A. Penrose, E. W. Tatlock, Lieut.-Col. R. C. Naylor, Maj. H. M. H. Lund, George F. Downey, George W. Gibbs, Capt. J. W. Alford, A. A. Smith, J. A. Greenwood, O. H. Hasting, W. C. Webb, A. C. Larsen, First Lieut. C. G. Forslund, W. H. Hobbs, Second Lieut. C. O. Winkler, A. P. Goodman; enlisted men, Fred G. Durst, A. B. Hulse, J. G. Winkler, Charles W. Krogh, S. H. Lund, Neil Jensen, Louis N. Fehr.

Three cheers and a tiger were given the officers by others of the guard, and then followed a rousing cheer for the State.

After the presentation dancing was renewed till a late hour.

Another wedding celebration of the week was that of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Evans, who also celebrated their twentieth anniversary on Tuesday evening. The rooms were handsomely decorated with pink and white carnations and smilax, and the evening was most delightfully spent. Amongst the features was a musical program by Prof. Giles of Provo, Miss Ruth Wilson and others. Many handsome presents were received, the tokens being of china in remembrance of the anniversary. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening.

The guest were:

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Giles, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lewellyn, Mr. and Mrs. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bouck, Mr. and Mrs. R. Cahoon, Mr. and Mrs. H. Davis, Mr. Jensen, Miss Clara Davis, Miss Millie Davies, Miss Etta Davis, Bishop Morgan and wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. Badger, Mr. Nephil L. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. J. Backman, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Bond, Mr. J. R. Ashburn, Bishop and Mrs. Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Griggs, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford, Mr. Von Stetter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Chalkier, Mr. and Mrs. T. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wilson, Miss Ruth Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Williams, Mr. and Miss Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Billings, Mr. and Mrs. Kessler, Mr. and Mrs. Holding, Mr. John Morris, Miss Nellie Morris, Mr. Barrett, Mr. and Miss Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown, Mr. Thos. Giles, Miss Kate Giles, Miss May Thomas, Miss Maggie Thomas, Mr. Bissett, Mr. Roll, Miss Ures.

A notable event of the week was the anniversary celebration held at the home of Mrs. Amelia Folsom Young on Monday night in honor of the 50th birthday of her father, William H. Folsom. Invitations had been sent to relatives throughout the State and elsewhere, and eighty-seven members of the family, including representatives of four generations, were present to honor the occasion. Amongst these were Mrs. Henry Payne, of Decorah, Iowa, an aunt of Mrs. Young's and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Herbert Payne, also of Decorah, who made the trip especially for the event. One of the many interesting features of the evening was the christening of a great-grand child of Mr. Folsom's by the great-grand father—an event not often to be witnessed by four generations. The rest of the evening was devoted to charades, tableaux, music and recitations—the rear parlor serving as a stage. This and the large front parlor, halls and dining room, were decorated with a profusion of potted plants and cut flowers, American Beauty roses, calla lilies and marguerites being used in the parlors and vases in the dining room. Dollies and centerpieces done in violets carried out the floral idea. An elaborate supper was served at 11 o'clock, there being five tables set with fifteen seated each time. The event was a most successful one and will doubtless be memorable to all present.

On Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Jed Clive celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary at their home in Canyon road, about seventy-five guests being present.

The entertainment of the evening was sixty-three, the winners of the first prize being Miss Alice Clawson, and Mr. Ellerbeck, and Mr. George Pyper and Miss Moyle winning second.

The game was followed by a delightful musical program, including vocal solos by Messrs. George Pyper, Alex Campbell and Wash Young, and selections by Professors Cal Carrington and Will Clive on the piano and violin. A number of anniversary tokens were presented by friends of the hosts, and the evening was altogether delightful.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Hamner Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. Will James, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Pyper, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Orson Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Badger, Mr. and Mrs. W. Young, Mr. and Mrs. George Ellerbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Squires, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. Nathan Sears, Mrs. Mary A. Sears, Miss Clara Clive, Miss Ida Moyle, Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Campbell,

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE POETS' ROUND TABLE.

O, members of the table-round,
As you sit at the feast today,
What is the meaning of the sound
That is borne on the wind away?
With tinkle of glasses,
The merry jest passes,
Come, these from sacred Parnassus?

O, know you not the newest way
The ladies learn the poet's song?
They meet together some rare day,
Once as each month doth roll along,
And the physical new,
Is a small part indeed
As we learn from those who the many read.

One treats the "humor" of a man,
By another a love tale's given;
Others a tragedy will scan,
With sorrows some are riven;
The voices of Miss Preston
Put console table zest on
The poets original plan.

Thus Mrs. Boggs' soft, mellow tone
Doth charm the ear, and tear drops start,
'Tis quaint "any old afternoon,"
(Moral: Avoid her eyes, my hearty friend,
If she doth tell a tale,
Or sing of a "Dale.")
'Tis all the same, her charms never fail.

And all of them are fair to see,
But two of them are Brown I trow,
And how will you explain to me
That this is so? 'Tis true I know,
Each loves good for good's sake,
But diverse paths they take,
Both read in tones your heart to break.

One, Mrs. Spencer is a blonde,
Charming to see and to hear;
Reads aloud from a poet profound,
His thoughts on the death of the year,
If you should heed the theme,
Watching her gold hair gleam,
There are none would blame you, I ween.

And our Mrs. Rachel Miller, whom
To know well is to love,
Kind acts are hers; and friends
Give her heart joy as they approve
(Moral: Avoid her eyes, my hearty friend,
If she doth tell a tale,
Or sing of a "Dale.")
'Tis all the same, her charms never fail.

And our cheery, Mrs. Bradley, the little Abroad doth roam, but always at home
Stays sadly (in rainy weather)
Good nature, energy, and pluck fill out
her measure,
Always her friends will find in her a treasure.

One we call Mrs. Peyton is a soul whose worth time shows
To her true friends (who are legion)
But only the Father just knows.
Patient, enduring, calm,
Cheering all with the balm
Of her presence. Her life is a psalm.

When I see Mrs. Hemphill's face I think of a line that doth cover
Some part of her soul's perfect grace:
'Tis "None know her but to love her," Lifter, not leaner, she; helpful, loving and free
With good deeds—as sweets to the bee.

But I am becoming serious and that's a bad sign,
So I must cease this delicious scribble.
Pray don't tell that it's mine!
Now just finish dicing
And I'll end this rhyming
With a wish done in metric time.

Spirit of good King Arthur's reign; let slip the reins and come upon
These hearts that list to this refrain,
And stir their souls. Then still do thine.

Into the lives of those Whose hearts are like the rose,
Warm, sweet, full of all that love
bestows.

Oft' may they meet at time doth fast,
Still may they scan the poet's verse,
Long may their circle be complete,
Long be their joy and sweet converse.

May Peace with you abound,
Friends at the "Table-Round"
And "flow of soul" be always found.

Monday you "at home" stay at the Reviewers, the club meeting with Mrs.
C. D. Moore at her residence, on Thirteenth East street.

The rooms were artistically decorated with pale pink and dark red, the club colors, carnations in those shades being effectively used.

Mrs. Nelden reviewed Mary Johnston's notable book, "To Have and to Hold," and Mrs. Stanley followed with a recital of interesting reminiscences of the late Mrs. Stone, who held a position as one of the three vice presidents of the National Federation, together with Julia Ward Howe, and Mrs. J. C. Royce of this city. After the program, refreshments were served and the rest of the afternoon devoted to social chat.

The guests were Mesdames Pearson,
Lecheart, Rickford, Weir, Blunt, McMahon, Eugene Lewis, Dracht, Frankson, Ira Lewis Sprague, Markland, Baumgarten, Mayer, Brattain, John Reese,
L. U. King, Tracy, T. B. Beatty, Henderson,
Jennie, J. S. Kinkead, Patrick, H. E. Cary, Hough, Oswald, O. E. Cary, Misses Nelden and Sherman.
