

NEWS OF THE WEST.

Tramps are Said to Party Overas
Some Portions of California.

BACCHANAL AND MERCHANTS' WAR.

Breakfast Scores in the Southern Part of the Territory.—Schools Closed on Account of Diphtheria.

It is rumored that the southern Pacific has decided to use alternate cars on the distance to the front gate car on the west side of the mountains. The road was made of iron and the other side of wood. It was well served with mail. The two parties were even on different days. The iron road was surrounded by trees, while the wood road was surrounded by bushes. The iron road was easily accessible, while the wood road required a great deal of labor.

Night is well to see the striking picture, composed of thirty-five cattle, sheep and other stock. They were well served with mail. The two parties were even on different days. The iron road was surrounded by trees, while the wood road was surrounded by bushes. The iron road was easily accessible, while the wood road required a great deal of labor.

The citizens of San Leandro, Cal., have closed the public schools of their town because of the prevalence of diphtheria. The schools will remain closed for a month. There are no cases to be seen in the city or the surrounding towns. The school board has voted to close the schools until the majority of young people are recovered.

Start the New Education Classes Near Friday the 5th of October will open to the Missouri river which will consist of a membership of 300 or 400 students at a time. Thirty days of the course will be given. The course is now offered here. Write to the general manager, agents of all the educational ones.

John Davis, a native of Denmark, about 50 years old, was drowning in the stream at the upper end of Stevens' Creek, about one-half mile from the mouth of the creek. He was swimming with his children, who were about 10 years old. The children were swimming across the creek, and was with others coming down the slope in a boat to work on the bank. They came down the west side of the slope and found themselves under the water. At first they could not get out, but after some time, the water became up to their necks, and when he was brought to the surface with a pile-pole, he was extinct, although they tried hard to resuscitate him.

James O'Donnell, alias Bend, fugitive, was last night captured by police in the penitentiary at Sacramento. O'Donnell, called a "noble savage" months ago, and when released from the gates had there in a sorry case for several weeks. He has served several terms in the penitentiary, and was condemned out of the state. The manner in which he planned and led in the almost successful attempt to break out of the county jail entitles him to this reputation.

Frank Sodille, a Mexican, Tom Murphy, Marcellus, general of the Picnic Indians, and Frank Wiss, a white man, and an ex-convict from San Diego County, engaged in a bloody quarrel a few miles east of Julian, San Diego, last night, while under the influence of liquor. Tom Morrissey cut the general with a long knife, which entered between the lower ribs on the left side, ran up and out, the blade being about six inches long, cutting the bowels in two. A second blow struck the man in the abdomen, and the physician says his case is hopeless. Morrissey and Wiss have escaped. The others are in jail.

Practically never before in the history of California was there so many instances of tramps as there are now. Frank C. Ormsbee. They are divided into two classes, the old-timers, who have tramped across the continent a dozen times, and who have not done so since early in life; the "jungle" boys, who make their way out of work; half of these are on the tramp now. They are also eating into California from Colorado at the rate of thirty miles.

Hannah Soderstrom, who has just returned from the country, said that thousands had become very scarce down there. The cargo of flour which he took down would have sold off like hot cakes, but money was as scarce as flour and salt had, indeed, become quite a struggle for the people to buy. John J. Stetson (see the same paper) has just received from a trip to Oregon. That同志 reports the country as being better looking and more interesting than ever. The southern mines have closed down and thrown out men out of work; half of these are on the tramp now. They are also eating into California from Colorado at the rate of thirty miles.

The war between the miners and mechanics in the timber country of Cal., and the tramps seem to favor the latter. The timber men have complained that the hawks standing in front of their stores have been a great detriment to their business, especially on Main Street, where the timber trade is the greatest. At McWayne Winery, five miles south of Fresno, Cal., the body of John Pugh, aged thirty-five, the foreman, was found dead, hanging by a long cord. He was found with his hands bound behind his back, and his mouth gagged shut. But he had the gag removed by pulling his hands apart. A gash had been cut in each side, and both wrists had been cut.
