

PROVO MAN ELECTROCUTED

Frank Conover Meets Instant Death While Making Electric Light Connection.

(Special to the "News.")
Provo, Nov. 4.—While connecting the new residence of William Phillips with the wires of the Provo Electric Light company, Frank Conover, an electrician, met instant death at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. A current of 1,000 volts passed through the man's body from the shoulder, and he apparently never knew what struck him.

Conover was highly respected and leaves a wife and a child. He was about 40 years of age.

CHIEF TO INTERVIEW THEM.

Will Hold Conference With the Bitter High School Students.

Chief of Police Tom D. Pitt stated today that he would hold a conference with high school students with reference to their riotous actions on Friday night last. Chief Pitt has already had a conference with Prof. Eaton and the two thoroughly understand each other.

Chief Pitt said he proposed to see if possible to get some of the leaders of Friday night's affairs and warn them that they will be held responsible in the future, as he did in the case of three leading university students.

The public is entitled to protection and will receive it, said Chief Pitt. "Of course it is impossible to always pick out even the most guilty," he said, "but we have committed the other night, but it is not hard to find the ring-leaders. They will be warned and upon a repetition of the offenses, will be landed here in jail."

THREW HIS RIDER.

Fraction Horse Created Excitement On East Second South Street.

A fractious horse and a slippery street were the cause of much excitement on east Second South street early today. For a time it looked as though one or more persons would be hurt, but the worst that happened was that the rider had a severe shaking up, as he went down and mutton was in imminent danger of going down too.

The horse, a dark colt, was now its regular mount of the Wilson hotel. No sooner was the man out of the saddle than the animal slipped on the wet pavement and went sliding toward the south sidewalk. At the curb it regained its feet, but again started the skidding and went broadside against a row of dressed trees that were hanging in front of a butcher shop. It was a case of "up again, down again" for the slippery shod horse, and as he made a lunge for the plate glass of the Log Cabin saloon next door, he landed on his side with his feet against the panel immediately below the glass. Here he was caught by the rider, who was un-hurt, assisted by two or three bystanders.

SOUZA'S BAND ARRIVES.

Although Three Hours Late, Men Are In Excellent Spirits.

Souza's band reached this city from the west at 12:30 p. m., three hours late. The men were in excellent spirits, after their triumph on the coast, and ready to give a good account of themselves.

Mr. Souza and the principals went to the Knutson hotel. There has been a strong wish expressed here that the band and Prof. McClellan play the "Cavalcade" march, particularly when the success the "Handle Large" met with on the occasion of the band's last visit to Salt Lake, when the band and the organist played that selection together. Herbert L. Clark, the solo cornetist, recited this afternoon, to a Salt Lake audience, the pleasure he experienced at the performance.

Souza stated at the time his satisfaction with the way the organ was handled.

DEATH OF MRS. TAYLOR.

Well Known Young Salt Lake Woman Passes Away at Provo.

The many friends of Priscilla Smith-Taylor will be grieved to hear of her death which occurred at Provo last evening.

She was the wife of Geo. S. Taylor, being married to him Oct. 25 last year. The direct cause of her death was an acute attack of Bright's disease, brought on by cold bath.

Her husband, Mr. Taylor, and his son, Geo. A. Smith and Susan Woods, and survived by her baby girl six weeks old, her husband, mother, sisters, Miss W. N. Williams, Mrs. Edwin F. Party and Mrs. T. H. Cartwright and Mrs. Mary A. Wimmer, Mrs. Sarah M. Cottontail, Mrs. Grace L. Cheever, Mrs. Hatchet, Mrs. M. M. and Mrs. Henry Morris, and friends, to whom she was greatly endeared. She was educated in the public schools, University of Utah and Agricultural college of Logan. She

She was a member of two social organizations—the Sunshine Circle and the Old Shakespeare Club.

Her home had always been in Salt Lake, until her marriage, since which time the residence in Provo at which place her funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 11 a. m.

MARTELL IS DISCHARGED.

Judge Diehl Releases Him on Showing Made by Attorney.

Frank Martell, the man who was shot Saturday by Alex Dales, in the saloon owned by the latter, was brought before Judge Diehl this afternoon on the charge of drunkenness. Upon representation by Martell's attorney that it had been seven or eight months since his client had given the court any trouble, it was determined to discharge him. Martell will be arraigned this afternoon, and when and where he is found guilty of assault will be landed here in jail.

WANTS OBSTRUCTION REMOVED.

Exalted Ruler of Elks Visiting His Former Home.

(Special to the "News.")

Townsend, Md., Nov. 4.—W. P. Cooper, exalted ruler of Salt Lake City Lodge No. 88, B. P. O. E., was in town yesterday, visiting friends. Mr. Cooper is a nephew of Mrs. Samuel E. Butler, who formerly lived in Townsend.

The above refers to W. P. Cooper of Salt Lake, manager of the Polk Directory company of this city. Mr. Cooper left some weeks ago for a business trip to the east. He went to New York, and from there visited various eastern cities. Mr. Cooper is exalted ruler of the local Elks' lodge and is most highly esteemed by all who know him. Mr. Cooper will return to Salt Lake in the near future.

BARN BURNS DOWN.

Fire destroyed a barn owned by S. C. Dallas, 1832 Tenth East street at 7:15 this morning, causing a loss of $200 to building and a like amount to contents. Bishop Whitaker first discovered the fire, and giving the alarm, he proceeded to the premises and succeeded in getting a fireman and horses out of the building. It is suspected the fire was of probable incendiary origin. There was no insurance on the property.

DEATH OF C. F. RUNDQUIST.

One of Salt Lake's Substantial Citizens Answers Final Call.

In the passing of Carl Frederick Rundquist, who died this morning at his residence, 304 C street, Salt Lake loses one of its good citizens. Mr. Rundquist exhibited many qualities that helped to make the city what it is today, and his death will be sincerely mourned by his neighbors and friends.

With his wife Johanna, Mr. Rundquist pulled a handcart for the poor many years he conducted a blacksmith shop just north of where the Knutson hotel now stands, and for many years had a hand in the paving of such of the streets which place he made beautiful with vines, shrubbery, etc., although it was necessary to carry every bit of soil from the original prairie ground from the Fourth street ditch. His place is one of the prettiest spots of the town and Mr. Rundquist's efforts in this direction merited much notice. Notice of funeral will be made later.

BURNED TO DEATH.

John Woolsey, charged with failure to provide for his four minor children, was arraigned this morning in Judge Diehl's court. He entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was set for Nov. 20 for trial. The complaint was sworn in by Mrs. F. M. Mead, and alleges that for several months Woolsey has refused to provide for his children.

The papers were in the marshal's hands shortly after 12 o'clock and will be served at once. The trial of Mrs. Bradley will commence Monday, Nov. 11, and the witness can lose but little time in beginning the journey.

TRAINS PUT END TO ALL SERVICES

Twenty-Second Ward Asks $10,000 Damages from Oregon Short Line.

The Twenty-second ward, an ecclesiastical corporation of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has filed suit against the Oregon Short Line Railway company in which $10,000 is asked as damages. The complaint alleges that the trains passing the ward meetinghouse on Third North street between Third and Fourth West streets disturb the services held there and that by reason thereof the noise caused by the defendant's trains disturbing the editor of the building has been rendered wholly unfit for services. It recites that formerly there were but two tracks on the street, but that there are now three. The building was erected at a cost of $20,000 each.

BOND REDUCED.

Alex Dales Held in Sum of $1,000 for Shooting Frank Martell.

It is more than probable that this afternoon Alex Dales, the saloon man who on Saturday shot one Frank Martell in the shoulder during a row in a west First South street saloon, will be admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000. The bail was first fixed by Judge Diehl at $10,000. At that time it was not known how seriously hurt Martell was. Both men are still in jail and neither will discuss the shooting affray.

At noon Dales, a member of the Salt Lake City police force, was released by Judge Diehl, and the latter, making no proper showing, got the bond reduced to $1,000, and is now engaged in securing the same.
