

GOVERNMENT TO BUILD RAILROADS.

That is What is Suggested by Ex-Congressman W. J. Coombs In an Address.

SAME AS THE PANAMA CANAL

Would Have Steel Tracks Constructed Across the Continent on Same Principle as Big Ditch.

Ex-Congressman William J. Coombs delivered an address before the Manufacturers' association of New York a week ago tonight on "The Regulation of Interstate Commerce and the Control of Railroad Transportation."

According to New York exchanges, he predicted that within the next 10 years there would be a necessity for doubling the trackage of roads in the United States in order to accommodate its rapidly increasing commerce, and asked his hearers to consider the best plan for effecting this. The question of consolidation of railroad interests into a few hands he said was a possible menace to the freedom of commerce if unchecked. The absorption of small and weak lines into systems—the combination of systems into groups according to locality, as in the case of the three great systems absorbed by the Northern Securities Co., with the almost certain result that the groups so formed would finally be consolidated under a similar arrangement into one great controlling company from whose decisions there would be no appeal—was not right.

DANGER OF TRAFFIC COMBINE.

"If this great controlling company also had control of the ocean marine," he said, "there would be nothing to control its control of every important industry of the country. That some such great business enterprise has been contemplated is evident from the fact that the combination of steamship lines recently effected is in the hands of the same group of capable men."

He said government ownership of railroads at present is impossible and impracticable and if it could be effected it would put too much patronage in the hands of the administration in power. But he thought it right for the government to build and control the Panama canal and he added:

"It has occurred to me of late to ask, 'Why, if it is legitimate for the government to construct a waterway through land in aid of commerce, through which any citizen or company can upon paying toll and complying with strict regulations convey his or its boats or barges, is it not just as legitimate and feasible for it to construct a steel way over land, upon which any railroad company, new or old, any corporation or private individual can convey a car or train of cars to the desired market?'"

WOULD PROTECT LOCAL LINES.

"It would stop the absorption of local lines into the great systems, for as soon as they reached the main line they would have use of the public way to the great markets. This, he said, would also stimulate the building of new roads into sections that need them, and thus build up the unsettled portion of the country."

He then made for purpose of illustration, tentative suggestions for a route, as follows: Beginning at about 41 degrees latitude on the Atlantic coast due west on that parallel, through to the Pacific ocean. At a point in the center of the state of Pennsylvania a branch southward to Washington, and another northeast to the New England States. At a point in Utah another northwest to Puget Sound. Other routes doubtless as practicable can be devised, supplementing the great waterways of the country. This, he said, would solve the question of regulating commerce between the states by opening it up to equal privileges.

He deprecated the growing socialistic tendencies which were caused in part by the extreme charges of the railroads and their impotence or restraint, which he thought was very unwise on their part. He thought that any practicable scheme that could be devised to lessen the charges and consequent friction and secure individual rights would be in the direction of patriotic effort.

Express Companies Assailed.

Texas has again assailed express companies doing business within its borders for alleged violation of the anti-trust statutes, says the New York Commercial. Suits have been instituted by the attorney-general against the Wells-Fargo and the Pacific companies for revocations of their charters because of alleged exclusive contracts with certain railroads over which they operate. The movement of interstate business is expected in the petitions. The filing of these suits is not exactly understood, as the same allegations were made in the suits to cancel the permits on the alleged failure of the express companies to maintain general offices in Texas. It might also be inferred that the attorney-general is taking this course to prevent conflicts in the various anti-trust suits filed against the express companies. It also indicates that the suits recently filed by District Attorney Moore to recover enormous penalties on account of these alleged exclusive contracts will likely be of no force and effect, as he failed to obtain the consent of the attorney-general prior to the filing of his suits.

MEETINGHOUSE DEDICATED

The Dedication Prayer Was Offered by President Smith Who Also Spoke.

(Special to the "News.") Bountiful, Utah, Feb. 22.—The West Bountiful meetinghouse, recently erected at a cost of $14,000, was dedicated with imposing ceremony yesterday afternoon, the services being presided over by Bishop Dan Mair. The house, which has a seating capacity of over 600, was taxed to the utmost and presented an inspiring sight. Appropriate music was rendered by the ward choir after the usual preliminaries, the building committee, consisting of Bryant Stringham, W. S. Pack, James Eldredge and Bishop Mair, rendered its report which showed that the entire building had been completed and paid for. The dedicatory prayer was offered by President Joseph F. Smith, who also made a short address. Other speakers were President Anthon H. Lund and Joseph H. Grant, who paid tribute to the efforts of those who had been instrumental in erecting such a beautiful structure.

Amusements

A delay on the Southern Pacific came near resulting in a cancellation of today's matinee of "The Chinese Honeycomb." About noon Manager Pyper of the Salt Lake Theater was notified that the company was late and that no afternoon performance was among the probabilities. That was good news to Mr. Pyper. The house had been sold out and a great audience would be sorely disappointed. Accordingly he put the wires to work and in an hour or two was notified that a belated matinee might be given. The company arrived at the depot and was hurried up town, while two car loads of scenery was transferred from the cars to the stage and a great gang of theatrical employees, special and regular, worked like Trojans to get it in position. The result was the curtain went up about a quarter to three o'clock on one of the biggest matinees the Theater has seen in many a day. The scene of this evening is exceedingly heavy.

The Grand theater was again crowded last night, by an enthusiastic audience in attendance on the usual concert by the Heild band, which was made more entertaining by the presence of Miss Agatha Berkhof as the vocal soloist. She gave great satisfaction, as she always does, and her singing of the Mignon number was as clear and true as the sweet and melodious, as well as a well trained voice, and a good command of herself on the stage. Miss Berkhof was, however, handicapped in the Mignon song by an indifferent band accompaniment, due it is claimed, to a too hastily prepared band score. Goose neck rests in a score do not inspire confidence, and suggest the line from Bret Harte, "The same with the intent to deceive." However, with this exception, the concert went off very well. Earl Mackay went off very well, his saxophone and the quartet of two cornets, saxophone and euphonium were pleasing, particularly in the "Der Erlkoning" number. The "Zampa" overture was well given.

Ben Stern, the well known theatrical manager, is in the city. This year Mr. Stern is plotting John C. Fischer's big production, "The Silver Slipper," which is to appear at the theater for three nights, beginning one week from Thursday. The company is larger than Weber and Fields', numbering 100 people, and travels from coast to coast by special train. The show is on the same order as "Floradora," and was written by the authors of that noted musical play.

The Sun minstrels opens at the Grand this afternoon and evening.

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system. Pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, bad headaches and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen, tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt rheum on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued its use till the sores disappeared." Mrs. J. A. BROWN, Bunker Falls, Me.
Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keep the promise.

PROMOTION FOR IRA O. RHOADES.

General Purchasing Agent for the Oregon Short Line is to Be Advanced.

WILL LOOK AFTER SAN PEDRO.

Is to Be Joint Purchasing Agent for the Harriman and Clark Roads Here.

Still another appointment is slated on the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake wherein the plum will fall to an official of the Oregon Short Line. The announcement is forthcoming that in the near future I. O. Rhoades, general purchasing agent for the Oregon Short Line, will have his jurisdiction extended to the Salt Lake Route, so that the purchase of and expenditures for anything from a lead pencil to a consignments of locomotives for the Clark road will have to be O. K'd by the Harriman employee. The change will be made without any flourish of trumpets. Ira O. Rhoades has been with the Union Pacific and Short Line since 1880, when he first entered the railroad service as a messenger in the supply department at Omaha. Later he was chief clerk to storekeeper and general agent of the purchasing department. On March 17, 1897, he was appointed general purchasing agent for the Oregon Short Line, with headquarters in Salt Lake, which position he holds at this time.

MERELY A FEAT OF STRENGTH.

It was a most peculiar case, so the insurance men said, with wages of the head that meant much more than they might easily be induced to say, with a little more provocation.

The building had been destroyed by fire and its occupants, one Theodore Tidewell, testified that he had held the office safe suspended from a window until the firemen came to his relief.

The attorneys for the insurance companies who were contesting the claim on the building looked scornfully at Theodore Tidewell as he testified.

"Mr. Tidewell, will you kindly tell the jury what your approximate weight is?" "About 150 pounds."

"Have you ever been known as an athlete, sir?" "Have you ever before performed any noteworthy feat of strength?"

"Yes, well, sir. Now, what is the weight of the safe you claim to have held suspended from the second story window for five minutes with one hand unassisted?"

"One ton."

"That will do. The witness may step aside and Fireman O'Rourke will take the stand. Ah, Mr. O'Rourke, will you tell the jury whether Mr. Tidewell was assisted by the aid of strength he has just sworn to?"

"Sure, sir. It weren't in his fate, but in his hand that it 'strangely' were, sir. I mean, did he hold this safe as he says he did?"

"Yes, sir. Yes, sir. Yes, sir. You don't know Mr. Tidewell like 't'rist av us does, or you wouldn't be surprised. Yes, sir, the safe had money in it, an' Tidewell was never known 't' it go av anything but money in it, sir."

Seeing that they were defeated by overwhelming evidence, the insurance company at once arranged for the payment of the claim in full.—Baltimore American.

WIFE MURDERER'S TRIAL TOMORROW.

Frank Rose Still Indifferent as to What Becomes of Him In Court.

SHOCKLEY IS MUCH WORRIED.

Percy Prothero Pays His Compliments To the Police at Whom he is Very Sore—Other Prisoners.

Frank Rose, the self-confessed wife murderer, will be placed on trial tomorrow in the Third district court for his heinous crime. His case will be called at 10 o'clock in the morning by Judge Morse and the work of securing a jury will be commenced. Just how long it will take to secure 12 men who are in every way qualified to hear the testimony and give the defendant a fair and impartial trial, is a matter of much speculation. It may take three or four days and it may take a week to secure a jury.

There are at present about 60 jurors on the regular panel to select from, but it is not believed that a jury will be secured from that number, so it is very likely that a special venire will have to be issued before the jury is secured. The fact that Rose confessed to murdering his wife and has repeatedly stated that he is ready to pay the penalty for his deed, has been so widely published that it will be almost impossible for anyone to say that they have not formed an opinion as to the guilt of the defendant. That being the case it will be no easy matter to secure a jury if the attorneys for defendant are going to be very particular about that one point in the examination of the jurors.

BOTH SIDES ARE READY.

District Attorney Elchorn, for the state and Attorney Soren X. Christensen, who, with D. N. Straup will defend Rose, both stated today that they are ready for the trial and that it will be proceeded with tomorrow according to schedules. The testimony in the case will not take more than three days, and, if a jury is secured without much delay, it is thought that the case will be completed by the end of the week at any rate. The only defense to be put in in behalf of Rose is insanity, and the evidence for the defense will be mostly expert evidence.

PRISONER STILL INDIFFERENT.

Rose, who so brutally murdered his wife on last Christmas day and left her in their room, unattended save by their three-year-old boy, for two days when he gave himself up to the police, appears to be in as good spirits as the day he was arrested. When seen at the county jail today, he said that he was ready and anxious for his trial. He stated that he was ready to pay any penalty which might be imposed upon him by the jury. He did not seem to know much about what his attorneys intend to do for him in the way of a defense and, on all appearances, he cares very little about it. His health has been good since he has been in jail and he looks a great deal fresher than at the time of his arrest.

Now that he has signed the necessary papers by which his child is given into the custody of Miss Page, Rose says that he is ready for whatever comes, for he knows that the boy will be well cared for. He said that he much preferred for the boy to be given to Miss Page than to his mother-in-law, for the reason that the latter has several children to care for and is poor and unable to give the child an education or to bring him up properly. The trial of Rose will no doubt be followed with much interest by the public and the final result it is expected will be a conviction of murder in the first degree.

SHOCKLEY IS WORRIED.

John M. Shockley, who, on the night of Jan. 6 murdered two street men at the end of the East First South car line in an attempt to rob them, seems to be much worried over the outcome of his trial, which is set for hearing in the district court on March 22. When seen at the jail today, Shockley looked ill in mind and body. He shows signs of a great deal of worry and his confinement in jail has been subject to indigestion, and last night had a little attack of fever, which he said he never usually feels and haggard today. He seemed pleased to think that his relatives are going to assist him in his great trouble and said that he had heard from several of them and that they had offered him sympathy and aid. Shockley said that he knew he deserved severe punishment, but, knowing his mind as he alone could know it when he committed the crime, he did not think that he deserved it. He still insists that he was the victim of most unfortunate circumstances in this affair.

PROTHERO'S PLAINT.

Percy Prothero, the room-mate of Shockley who gave the police the information which led to Shockley's arrest, is still held in jail to be used as a witness for the state. He will be very happy indeed, he says, when the trial is over and he can be given his freedom. Prothero is very indignant over the testimony he has given at the hands of the police. He says that after he gave them the tip and planned Shockley's arrest, the police officers then made statements to the newspapers to the effect that he was a gambler and had a police record. He also feels very much hurt to think that the police handcuffed him to Shockley when they brought him into court from the state prison. In concluding, he said that the police even kept a pair of handcuffs on him which were taken from him at the station. Prothero states that his father will be here shortly from Harburo, Wisconsin, and that he intends to have some retractions of statements made concerning his character before he leaves the city.

THE BEUTLER GANG.

Tomorrow is the date set for the preliminary hearing of Jack Rice and Abe Hunter, who are charged with the murder of Fred Beutler, which occurred more than seven years ago. The hearing will be held before Judge Diehl in the criminal division of the city court. Rice and Hunter both seem to be taking life easy at the jail and are looking better than when they were arrested. Muncy, who gave the sheriff information which led to the arrest of Rice and Hunter, says he is getting tired of jail life and is anxious to gain his liberty. J. L. Wade, who killed a Chinaman at Alta on Dec. 13, is taking life easy in his cell at the county jail awaiting his trial.

DIDN'T SWALLOW CANNON BALL

But Stomach Felt Like It—Needed Rexall Tablet.

Even an omelet soufflé will feel like an iron casting to the dyspeptic stomach. Nothing, however light and dainty, can be eaten without the positive knowledge that hours of suffering will follow.

Until recently little could be done to relieve dyspepsia—the old-fashioned remedies were built on the wrong lines. They aided digestion temporarily, but did not cure the disease.

Science, however, has come to the rescue. Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a positive and permanent cure for all stomach troubles. If you will take a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal, you can eat what you please and when you please without fear of discomfort. SOME STRONG TESTIMONY. For years I suffered with indigestion in its chronic form. I tried everything for relief without success. Hearing of the Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets I resolved to give them a trial. As a result I am cured. My appetite is now good, my sleep undisturbed, I no longer suffer with distress and belching of gas on retiring, and my general health is better than it has been for years.—J. M. Farrington, Springfield, Ohio. Our proposition is not to merely sell you dyspepsia tablets, but to sell you a cure for your dyspepsia and indigestion. If Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets do not effect this cure, we will give you back your money. That shows how much confidence we have in this new remedy. Price 25 cents per large package. Sold only at our store or by mail.
