

VARSLITY LINES UP FOR ANOTHER GAME

Alumni Will be Hosts at a Banquet to the Winning Team.

A POST SEASON CONTEST.

Utah Has a Bright Outlook for Next Year Against the Eleveens of Stanford and Berkeley.

The football season is not over yet for the University of Utah. One more game is scheduled that promises to be lively right from the kick-off, and in which the whole football squad will have a place in the scrimmage line.

The committee of Alumni who are preparing the feast is as follows: Jos. L. Hawkins, Samuel W. Stewart, William H. King, James H. Moyer, Henry J. Wallace, William H. Edrington, Horace G. Whitney, Walter Kingsbury, Ray Van Cott, Jos. T. Kingsbury, Thos. D. Lewis, E. A. Smith, Joseph H. Coronto, William R. Wallace, Leslie W. Snow, William W. Ray, E. M. Allison, Ernest Van Cott, and Waldemar Van Cott.

It is the intention of the hosts of the evening to provide everything that the team has longed for and left alone during the long period of its training.

NEXT YEAR'S OUTLOOK.

As the season passes into history, the talk of the town is making a glorious place for it. It is regretted that every hand that Utah could not meet bigger teams than those of the mountain states, but the cooler judgment of the men who made the team was in favor of waiting and turning seasoned men loose on the negotiation of the winter.

The outlook for next season in the line-up is entirely satisfactory. Captain Jimmy Wade graduates, and Carlson may be back. But with these exceptions the lineup will not change, so far as can be ascertained now.

A list could be made of the qualities of the big teams of America and few would be found to combine in such ideal proportions the elements of a winning team, as does Utah. In Carlson, Robinson and Barton, Utah has a heavy center trio that can protect the backs till they play like the line. These are the only heavy men in her team, and keep up most of the advantages of weight.

Russell, Brown, Benjamin, and Peterson, Utah has a set of line backers that are effective and powerful. In Wade, Pitt and Anderson, the team has a set of runners who, once free, will be hard to stop.

With Benjamin able to kick goal from the 9 yard line, and Russell able to fight his way through a broken field for ten or fifteen yards, a defense system that makes the line puncture proof, and Pitt and Anderson to oversee any runner that may free himself from the scrimmage, Utah's prospects for a brilliant season next year against the big east teams, is surely more than promising.

IT ALWAYS HELPS.

An ailment like consumption that has been months and years getting a foothold cannot be relieved in a week or day. Scott's Emulsion will always afford relief and often cure, but not over night. The consistent use of Scott's Emulsion will positively help the consumptive at any stage of the disease. We guarantee nothing beyond this, but we know that right living and Scott's Emulsion have done more to cure consumption than anything else.

JIMMY MICHAEL DEAD.

Famous Little Bicycle Rider Expired Suddenly at Sea.

New York, Nov. 25.—Jimmy Michael, the noted Welsh middle distance bicycle rider, died suddenly last Monday morning on board the French liner Les Saxons of congestion of the brain, Michael was coming to the United States to race again, and was accompanied by a number of leading distance riders, who are to enter the six-day contest to be held here in December.

Michael complained of being ill Sunday, saying to the ship's doctor that he was suffering from a severe headache and nausea. He told Dr. Moore that his illness was due, he thought, to the after effects of a severe fall he had received in Berlin two years ago.

"Since then," said Michael, "I have had partial paralysis of the left side of my face and am frequently subject to lapses of memory. I do not feel at all myself. Do what you can to relieve me of this awful pain."

Mr. Moore attended the bicycle riders faithfully during the remainder of the day, and by night had succeeded in relieving his pain. Michael was able to get his dinner that evening and was the happiest member of the party.

He retired early and did not complain of feeling ill about 6 o'clock in the morning his companion heard Michael struggling violently in his stateroom. Dr. Moore, who was at once called, pronounced his condition dangerous. It was in a violent delirium until 9 o'clock in the morning, and an hour later he died. Dr. Moore said that death was caused by congestion of the brain.

Michael's companions were unnerred by his sudden death. They said that when they embarked he had been the life of the party.

The first news of Michael's death was a wireless telegram to P. T. Powers, manager of the six-day race. Mr. Powers and several friends met the ship at the pier and took charge of the body. Mr. Powers said he sent a cablegram to Michael's mother in Wales, informing her of her son's death. The body will be sent to Wales on the first available steamer.

DAVIS AND PRICE DRAW.

Terry is Evidently the Tougher Proposition of the Two.

If the bout between Terry Davis and Jack Price for the amateur featherweight championship of the state, at the Utah A. C. gym last night had gone three or four rounds more, the probabilities are that Davis would have scored a complete victory. These little fellows mixed it pretty lively for four rounds, and at the end thereof Price was growing decidedly weary from the onslaughts of tough little Terry. Price displayed more cleverness, but Davis is a trifle too tough for him and on more than one occasion had the "kid" in distress.

The mill was witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiastic ringsters, and judging from their expressions of delight they thoroughly enjoyed the program.

"Spook" Smith and Joe Young pleased the crowd with their four round set, but their bout, like the main event, was declared a draw.

The wrestling bout between Driggs and Gregory was a fierce affair, and after the middleweights had struggled on the mat for about an hour, they were ordered to quit, and will settle their dispute some other time.

The fencing contest between Bartell and Aldrich was won by the former. The entire program was clean and highly entertaining.

COST OF RACING.

Associations in New York Have Given Close on to $4,000,000.

This season has been a most profitable one for the American turf. During the seven months devoted to racing in the state of New York, the racing associations have given away to horsemen in overnight purses and stakes nearly $2,000,000.

The various jockey clubs split up $1,000,000 between them, the receipts from track admissions, restaurant and betting privileges and rentals to the telegraph companies. The cost of transportation to and from the courses easily footed up $200,000 to racers. It therefore cost the racers of New York from $3,000,000

TITUS AN AUTO DRIVER.

Husband of Edna May Has Entered the Racing Game.

Fred J. Titus, the husband of Edna May, the actress, who has been connected with the Pope-Toledo Automobile factory, in Toledo, is getting ready to enter the racing game. Titus entered the factory as an apprentice, and by hard work and careful study during the past six months has gained a fair idea of automobile construction, which, combined with his unquestionable nerve, as proved by his record in working the bicycle racing game, should fit him for the position of pilot of a fast car.

HAVE SOFTENING OF BRAIN.

Jero Delaney Declares That Football Players are So Afflicted.

Football players, according to Jero Delaney, trainer of the Northwestern university eleven, are subject to an ailment similar to softening of the brain, which leads not only to the making of peculiar statements, but causes strange actions which sometimes are amusing.

The exact cause of the trouble, Trainer Delaney said he is unable to fathom. He declared, however, that it is similar to softening of the brain, which leads not only to the making of peculiar statements, but causes strange actions which sometimes are amusing.

Clarence Draws, Harry Wins.

Denver, Nov. 25.—Clarence Forbes of Chicago and Martin Devaney of Denver boxed ten hard rounds to a draw tonight before the local fans. Forbes was much the cleverer of the two, outboxing Devaney throughout the contest, but the latter made some harder hitting and landed many telling blows.

In the preliminaries Kid Gardner of Louisville knocked out Kid Eversly of Omaha in the first round with a right swing to the jaw, and Kid Garvey of Omaha knocked out Kid Weber of Denver in the first round.

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 25.—Harry Forbes of Chicago knocked out Joe Cherry of Saginaw in the thirteenth round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout tonight.

Victory for Vesuvius.

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—The six-and-a-half-furlong handicap at Oakland today resulted in the victory of Vesuvius, the 5 to 2 favorite, who showed some of his old form, winning handily from Albulia.

He was the only choice to land, but most of the winners were well played. In the third race, the favorite, Honey beat Telephone a nose. A claim of foul made by Larson, rider of Telephone, was not allowed. Results:

First race, six furlongs, selling—Dr. Sherman won; Troy second; Skip Mo third. Time, 1:14 1/2.

Second race, Futurity course, purse—Callaghan won; Platt second; Cardinal Sarto third. Time, 1:12 1/2.

Third race, six furlongs—Berendson won; Doublet second; Mocorro third. Time, 1:11 1/2.

Fourth race, mile and fifty yards, selling—Faint won; Major Tenny second; Play Ball third. Time, 1:45.

Fifth race, six and a half furlongs, handicap—Vesuvius won; Albulia second; Venator third. Time, 1:39 1/2.

ON THE RACE TRACK.

Only One Favorite Got the Money at Ascot Park Yesterday.

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—Only one favorite was successful as Ascot park today, the other five races going to second or third choices with the exception of the first race, which was won by Devon H. as good as 9 to 1 in betting. The weather was perfect, the attendance good, and the track fast. Results:

First race, five furlongs—Devon H. (15, Sirodot), 7 to 1, won; Ralph Reese (18, Lawrence), 2 to 1, second; Sportman (16, Kent), 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:24 1/2.

Second race, five furlongs—Eli Chihuahua (12, H. Smith), 4 to 1, won; Wager (16, Lawrence), 4 to 1, second; James J. Corbett (15, McCue), 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:13 1/2.

Third race, one mile—Alec Brang (16, Hildebrand), 3 1/2 to 1, won; Chub (12, Lawrence), 4 to 5, second; Judge Denton (16, Kent), 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:42.

Fourth race, one mile—Alec Brang (16, Hildebrand), 3 1/2 to 1, won; Chub (12, Lawrence), 4 to 5, second; Judge Denton (16, Kent), 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:42.

Fifth race, one mile and seventy yards—Merwan (12, Hildebrand), 3 to 1, won; Helgerson (12, Lawrence), 5 1/2 to 1, second; Jerry (10, H. Smith), 7 to 1, third. Time, 1:56 1/2.

SKIN DISEASES

I was afflicted with Tetter in bad shape. It would appear in blotches as large as my hand, a yellowish color, and scale off. You can imagine how offensive it was. For twelve years I was afflicted with this trouble. At night it was a case of scratch and many times no rest at all. Seeing the good the medicine was doing a friend who was taking it for Eczema, I commenced it, and as a result the eruption began to dry up and disappear, and today I am practically a well man. Only two tiny spots are left on the elbow and shin, where once the whole body was affected. I have every confidence in the medicine, and feel sure that in a short time these two remaining spots will disappear. S. S. S. is certainly a great blood purifier, and has done me a world of good. I am grateful for what it has accomplished, and trust that what I have said will lead others who are similarly afflicted to take the remedy and obtain the same good results that I have.

125 East Fifth Ave. JOHN F. LEAR.

While washes, soaps, salves and powders relieve temporarily, they do not reach the real cause of the disease. The blood must be purified before the cure is permanent. S. S. S. contains no poisons, arsenic or mineral of any description, but is guaranteed purely vegetable.

Send for our book on the skin and its diseases, which is mailed free. Our physicians will cheerfully advise without charge any who write us about their case.

IS DID LOOK LIKE IT.

A college professor was talking about the late D. W. Flake, who left to Cornell University $50,000. "Flake," he said, "had a streak of humor. One day he was talking about a certain fashionable physician, a tall and rosy man, all ways beautifully dressed, a flower in his buttonhole, his hair polished by a manicurist, his handkerchief perfumed—you know the type. I guess

"Flake" said the gentleman impressed women profoundly with his manner, at once hearty and delicate. He said the man among his brother physicians was looked at for an egotist. Few of his brothers, though, had so lucrative a practice as he. All the women of wealth for ten miles around about employed him.

"One afternoon he called on a lady, the young wife of a millionaire, to treat her for some slight indisposition. She sat on a sofa in her drawing-room. Her little daughter, a child of seven or eight years, played by the window. The physician, with his well-known manner, seated himself beside his pretty patient, looked sympathetically into her eyes, took her hand and laid his finger on her pulse.

"Grave and tender, in this attitude, he sat there, and then he happened to glance at the little girl. She was regarding him curiously.

"You don't know what I am doing, do you?" he said to her.

"Yes," said the little girl. "You are making love to my mamma."

THE BEECH CAPTAIN'S RETORT.

Beach Capt. A. M. Ruffu of Atlantic City dresses with remarkable good taste. Hence when he comes to Philadelphia, he is tormented by old clothes men—men that continually beseech the well-dressed to sell them their old clothes.

A burly, big-boned clothes vender with red hair sauntered along Chestnut street the other day. He walked at a slow pace, and every little while he paused before a shop window. Thus he kept track of the well-appareled.

Sighting a gentleman of good appearance, he would slip up behind him, softly murmur in his ear: "Any old clothes to sell?" and then stop or move on, according to the answer he received.

Capt. Ruffu was walking on Chestnut street, and the clothes dealer set him down immediately as one with a large wardrobe. He stepped diagonally across the pavement to the captain's side, and, very low, he whispered:

"Have you any old clothes to sell?"

Capt. Ruffu whispered back:

"No, my dear fellow; have you?"

THE MEXICAN NAVY.

Mexico recently added two modern gunboats to its small naval fleet, and two similar vessels are now in process of construction at Genoa, Italy. In recent years Mexico has devoted some attention to fortifying her coasts, but has not increased her navy until now.

The two vessels built in Italy will be named Bravo and the Morelos. Exclusive of these Italian-built ships the Mexican navy consists of four gunboats in the Gulf of Mexico and two on the Pacific coast, besides several small patrol boats in southern waters.

The two vessels recently built in the United States are the most formidable ships in the Mexican navy. They are a naval school at Vera Cruz, also a small patrol boat in southern waters. PORT ARTHUR, MOST FAMOUS STRONGHOLD OF MODERN TIMES

Gen. Nogi

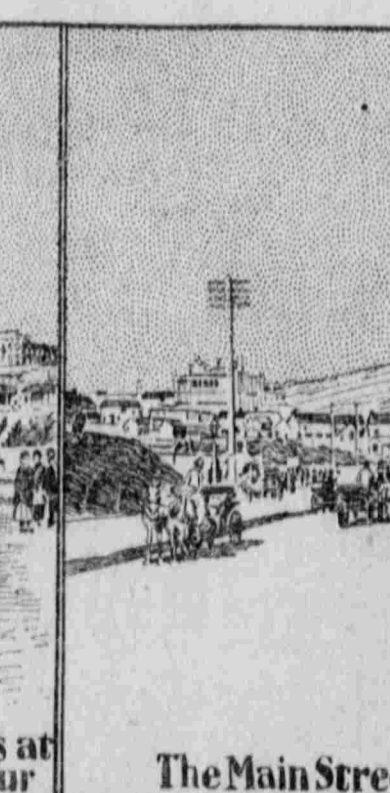

The Harbor at Port Arthur

The Quays at Port Arthur

The Main Street, Port Arthur

The Main Street, Port Arthur

The Main Street, Port Arthur

Gen. Stoessel

IN view of the tremendous interests which have all along depended upon either its final overthrow or the demonstration of its impregnability Port Arthur has for months been the most interesting spot in the world. The siege will go down in history as one of the most notable military operations recorded either in ancient or modern times.

harment of the fortress by the Japanese fleet, which was begun by Admiral Togo on Feb. 8, the dogged defense by Stoessel and the persistence of the attacking Nogi have gone far toward establishing Port Arthur's fame as a unique stronghold.

The harbor of this much coveted and savagely contested fortified town is, naturally, an oval inlet about two miles in length. It is well protected from the heavy seas which prevail along the coast by a spit of land which extends almost across its northern end. In its original state the harbor was accessible only to vessels of the smallest tonnage.

At the close of the China-Japanese war the islanders began a systematic enlargement of the basin, and they had made considerable progress when the Russians became Port Arthur's tenants. The latter continued the dredging with notable activity, the work progressing day and night until the beginning of hostilities with Japan. At that time and until the sinking of the Japanese hulks it was possible for battleships of the first order to pass the entrance. At best, however, it was a slow and hazardous performance, and the subsequent passages of the Russian fleet excited both wonder and admiration.

The quays, which for the most part are of Russian construction, are modern in design and equipment. The heavy and well directed fire from the besieging fleet has impaired their immediate usefulness, but in time they will be repaired and once again become the starting point of the vessels that trade along the Asian littoral. The new part of the town of Port Arthur was by no means insignificant. The streets were laid out regardless of limitation, and the main thoroughfare was as wide as two ordinary streets and contained many pretentious business structures. These buildings are now reduced to a shapeless mass of stone and mortar. After the Russian occupation of the fortress great numbers of Chinese flocked in. They were for the most part coolies who expected to obtain work on the excavations which the new tenants were about to make for the foundations of the great dry dock and the enlargement of the basin. These humble workmen were not permitted to find a dwelling place in the town proper, but were compelled to establish a camp on the outskirts and without the walled area. In the course of time the Chinese quarters assumed an appearance of considerable prosperity from an oriental standpoint. Chinese tradesmen of every description having with stocks of industrious countrymen with stocks of the merchandise as usual to Celestial comfort. This settlement was swept away during the early days of the bombardment, and its terrified inhabitants either fled or took to dugouts
