

GREAT SUMS PAID TO BEET GROWERS

Ten Factories Will Pay Off Farmers Today and Monday.

OVER A MILLION GOES OUT

Another Big Pay Day for Farmers Will Come Dec. 15—Quarter Million Paid Factory Employees.

Lehi	$200,000
Garland	85,000
Idaho Falls	160,000
Sugar City	165,000
Blackfoot	50,000
Nampa	100,000
Ogden	125,000
Logan	125,000
Lewiston	100,000
LeGrand	80,000
Total	$1,190,000

These figures indicate the sum that will go out of the hands of Utah and Idaho today and Monday to the several thousand farmers who are engaged in the beet growing industry.

In addition to this amount the 10 factories sent out close upon $250,000 as pay rolls to the factory hands on the 10th. The sum paid the beet growers will be in payment for all beets delivered at the factories during the month of October. The limited supply of beets delivered in September was paid for Oct. 15. On Dec. 15, the final payments for beets will be made, and it will be even more than that now being disbursed for the reason that the unusual storms in the latter part of October threw a great part of the delivery into November, so that instead of the great bulk of the money being paid in November, as usual, it will be divided this year almost equally between November and December.

The greater part of the money to meet the beet payments is drawn out of the three banks here that the Utah-Idaho Sugar company does its business with, McCormick & Co., the State Bank of Utah, and the Deseret National bank, all of whom have been busy shipping currency to the country banks located around the factories, as each factory pays for its own beets with checks on its local banks. The Amalgamated Sugar draws its checks on the First National Bank of Ogden.

The temporary withdrawal of so much money has increased the stringency, which has been reported by most of the banks of late weeks, but this stringency only be temporary, as the money paid the farmers will soon find its way back into the channels of trade, and be used for the payment of debts in this city, Ogden and the other main centers.

Another advantage to the business situation is found in the fact that shipments of sugar are steadily being made to the East, and that a large amount of foreign money is brought into local circulation.

For fifteen years I have watched the working of Buckle's Atrial Suture, and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied," says A. F. Hardy, of East Wilton, Maine. Z. Z. M. I. Drug store, 112-114 Main street.

INVESTIGATE CASE AGAIN.
Children of Alonzo Booth Found Amid Most Squalid Surroundings.

What would seem to be a case of love's labor lost was the outcome of the recent arrest of Alonzo Booth, on a charge of mayhem alleged to have been committed upon the person of his son Eddie, aged 12 years. Besides the crime alleged, Booth was accused of having kept his three children, the boy and two girls, aged 8 and 10, in a place not fit for hogs to live in. In fact, hogs could not live there, many of them dying on the premises. The place was west of the river, and so filthy was the house and surroundings that the children were taken by the juvenile court officials from the custody of the father. The girls were sent to the State street orphanage, and the boy was placed in the Utah detention home, and the father was released on bail, to answer to the charge against him. The trial has not been had yet.

Finally the district court was petitioned to appoint a guardian for the children, and Atty. P. P. Christensen was named to act in that capacity. The children were taken away from the home in which they had been placed and went back to the miserable hovel over the river.

BUILT UP THE BLOOD

An Erie Pastor's Wife Tells How She Overcame a Trouble During Her Girlhood.

What anaemia is, how to recognize it and the value of the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be known by the mother of every growing girl.

Anaemia is simply lack of blood. It is one of the most common and dangerous diseases with which growing girls suffer.

It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls are too frequently allowed to over-study, over-work and suffer from lack of exercise. It is dangerous because of the sluggishness of its approach, often being well developed before its presence is recognized, and because of its tendency to grow so steadily worse, if not promptly checked, that it may run into consumption.

Mrs. E. Wolfe DeWitt, of Reed and Twenty-third streets, Erie, Pa., the wife of the pastor of the Second Baptist church, suffered with anaemia for two or three years before she heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and was cured by their use. She says:

"When a girl and at the period when I was growing fast, I was in an anaemic condition and suffered terribly. I was weak, without ambition and the least exertion tired me. I had suffocating spells, severe headaches at the base of the skull and over one eye. I was almost bloodless, and my ears were so transparent you could almost see through them. I had no appetite and finally became so weak I had to leave school."

"I would be faint at times, and the suffocating spells, the doctor said, were due to a nervous affection of the heart."

"I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and only took a few boxes before I was restored to perfect health. I can heartily recommend the pills to all young girls suffering from anaemia."

Send today for a copy of our "Diseases of the Blood." It gives further information about anaemia and is free upon request. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Another Utah Artist Wins Honors in Eastern Exhibit

JOHN HAFN.

In competition with the artists of the middle west, John Hafn of Salt Lake has won first honors at the Illinois state fair's art exhibit. Mr. Hafn has been in the east for several months, securing for his work in art that first general hearing which his many Utah friends have always felt would bring him permanent success and honor.

The first result of his Chicago exhibits was an extensive review in the Fine Arts magazine in which it was declared that Hafn's work was without a peer in its peculiar field of poetically treating the western mountains and landscapes.

In the Illinois state fair he was induced to exhibit a few landscapes, upon the solicitation of Chicago artists who had become his fast friends after his exhibit there had opened in the Marshall Field building. These landscapes were in competition with similar work from Chicago's most noted artists and from artists throughout the middle west. In the awards he secured first place in the landscape department, and has been since assured by friends that his winning painting is very likely to secure a special award in a competition in which are entered all the prize winners for the various departments. This award, if finally granted, would mean that his painting is considered to be the best executed of all exhibited regardless of subject matter.

The paintings which Mr. Hafn took east with him are all of the Wasatch mountains, a subject over dear to Mr. Hafn, and quick in stirring his brush to its most delicate expressiveness. Fifty of them were painted at Silver Lake and in the crags surrounding the Brighton settlement at this Utah mountain retreat.

Besides these Utah themes, Mr. Hafn worked this summer on Illinois scenery, filling in his collection with typical Illinois landscapes. Cyrus E. Dallin of Boston, who, like Hafn, was born in Springfield, Utah, is anxious to have Mr. Hafn's work shown in that art center, and is confident of the immediate success that will await such an exhibition. It is probable that before returning to Utah Mr. Hafn will spend some time there.

Memories of Great Salt Lake Cause Visitor to Seek Nov. Dip

NOVEMBER DIP IN THE LAKE.

Because she remembered the great inland sea of America as a girlhood vision, Mrs. Sarah Holding Bryden of Birmingham, England, has for many years cherished a desire to once more plunge into its briny depths, and disappear in it as of yore. This summer finding her affairs in such shape that she could come to Salt Lake to visit relatives whom she had not seen since she first accompanied them across the plains in 1853, she decided to make the trip.

But she had timed it wrong to catch the bathing season and it was only a few days ago before she could make a visit to Saltair. In spite of the cold wind that was then blowing, however, and in spite of the cold water, she donned a bathing suit and with two of her relatives sallied forth for a swim which she says she thoroughly enjoyed.

Mrs. Bryden's mother, Mrs. Sarah Holding, is now in her eighty-sixth year, and a resident of the Seventh ward of this city. Her brother, E. G.

Holding, is a well known Salt Laker. Across the side of Mrs. Bryden's head runs a scar, parallel with the eye, and just so that the hair covers it. It recalls one of the tragedies of the old team days on the plains, as the original Utah settlers were making their way to their western refuge.

"I am firmly convinced that it was nothing but the direct intervention of Providence that saved my sister's life," said E. G. Holding when asked about the accident resulting in this scar.

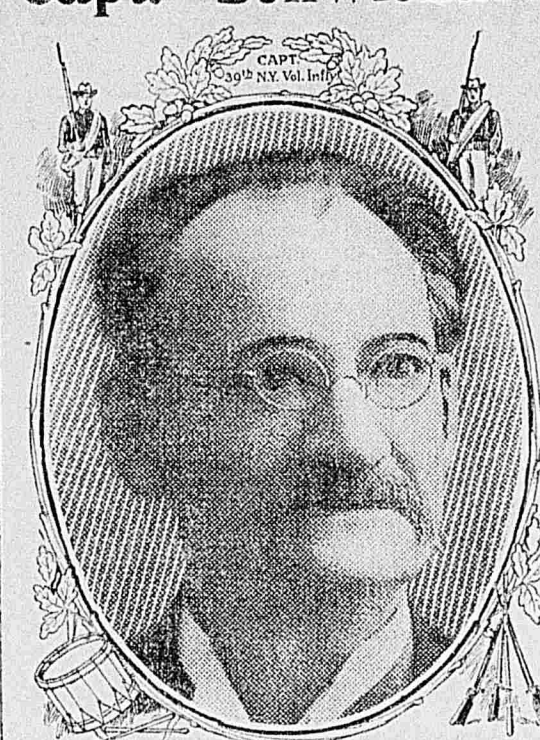

"My sister was six years of age. I was four, and I barely remember the old oxen and the wagon with the place where the accident occurred. We were coming across the plains in Cyrus H. Wheelock's company, and the wagon on which we rode was loaded with freight. In fact the freight completely filled the wagon box even with the top or a little above it. Mr. sister and I were playing on top of this wagon, when a wheel went into a chuck hole and she was thrown off the front, directly under the wagon. The driver did not notice it and the wagon went on, both the front and rear wheels of this monster freight wagon passing over my sister's head."

"The people in the wagon train were all of the Church. They did what no other people I think would have done out in the plains alone and far from medical aid. They gathered up the little girl, found her head crushed to a pulp with portions of the brain showing. And then all the elders of the wagon train gathered around and submitted their case to a God in whom they devoutly believed and trusted. They prayed for the little girl, and then with their hands anointed her, and washed her head as best they could. Instead of the bones back into shape, as certain, the little one lived, and in a very few weeks was playing as usual with me on our wagon top, only more careful to keep away from the edges."

A War Veteran's Tribute to Pe-ru-na.

Rudolph B. Schwickardi, Capt. 30th N. Y. Vol. Inf., writes from 1818 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows:
"Having the fullest confidence in the efficacy of Peru-na, both as a tonic and as a remedy for catarrhal trouble, I commend its use in the strongest possible terms. It should be in every household."

War Left Ailments.

Mr. William J. Lees, 3501 Morgan St., St. Louis, Mo., member Frank P. Blair Post No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, and ex-Commander of the U. S. S. Benton Miss. Squadron, writes:

"The war left me with a complication of stomach, liver and kidney troubles, and I decided to take Peru-na for my affliction. I began to use it about five years ago at the earnest solicitation of some friends. At that time I was only able to be up about half of the time, and my health was simply miserable. I consider a bottle off and on is a preventive. I certainly do endorse your remedy, and am glad to do so."

Helped From Chronic Catarrh.

Capt. Lemuel M. Hutchinson, Montpelier, Vt., writes:

"It gives me pleasure to write you this letter at this time on account of the good your Peru-na has done me when I was quite down up with a very bad cold. I could hardly perform my ordinary

And now again it's nearly Christmas.
Why let Christmas overtake you—why not overtake Christmas?

What is the need of the rush and crush the last week before Christmas—why not come in now—just when our store is bursting with pretty and useful things and all aglow with precious gems, gold and silver?

With our usual care we have bought exclusive things—many lines that are not shown by others.

There is a great demand at Xmas time for silver toilet ware and it all has to be engraved. We have bought many new and excellent patterns and are fully prepared to engrave and put away anything desired. We have most exquisite patterns at much lower prices than ever before quoted and can do better engraving now before we are rushed.

See our windows next week, make your selections and get it off your mind and incidentally get your choice of designs and better engraving. A Toilet Set in a LEYSON Case gives the sweetheart a "gladder" kind of gladness because the name stands for the right quality, the right style and the right price.
