TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

—Butte has made full preparations to have all the bells in that town tolled upon the demise of General Grant.

—It is reported that the Utah & Northern Railroad proposes to revise the tariff on Utah produce shipped to Montana markets.

—On Wednesday Harry Nottage had his foot badly crushed at the railroad machine shops at Laramie by a car wheel falling upon it.

—Cattle thieves are numerous in the principal grazing regions of Idaho. They are practicing their piratical trade with unusual boldness, and cattle owners will do well to be on their guard.

—United States troops are required to guard the mines in the Wood River district of Idaho. Although work has been resumed and the ring leaders of the rioting strikers arrested and placed under bonds, trouble is still feared and the end is not yet.

—A few days ago a man named Geo. Gregson, of Gregson Springs, Montana, was on his way to Butte to buy a load of lumber, when his team, a span of young horses, became frightened and ran away, throwing Mr. Gregson from the wagon and knocking him insensible. A companion who was with him, hurried to Silver Bow and procured medical assistance as soon as possible. The injured man was taken to the latter place where he still lies in a critical condition.

J. C. Summers, a Norwegian who lived at Deer Lodge, Montana, committed suicide last week by taking morphine. He has been an unfortunate prospector in Montana for about fifteen years, but a short time ago he struck a quartz lode, which he thought surely would produce him a fortune. Upon getting unfavorable returns from certain assays, however, he was so disappointed that he took the fatal dose, and was found dead in his cabin shortly after.

—Last Monday, while two men were traveling in the neighborhood of Silver Bow, Montana, they discovered the fragments of a human being, consisting of both legs and a portion of an arm. The legs had been severed from the body above the knees. They reported the facts to Coroner Whitford, of Butte, who summoned a jury, and going to Silver Bow, they held an examination, resulting in a verdict that the remains were those of some unknown person, evidently about 5 feet 8 inches high, and that he came to his death in some mysterious and uncertain manner. It was decided that from the broken and ragged appearance of the bones he must have met with a violent death.

EXPRESSIONS FROM THE PEOPLE.

MAN—HIS ENDOWMENTS, HIS FALL AND HIS REDEMPTION.

The saying "Man is a creature of circumstances" has passed into an adage and is generally accepted as truth. Might it not be as truthfully said that man is as well? for the extent of his power to control is almost unlimited. To Adam was originally given dominion or control "over the fish of the sea, over the fowl of the air, over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth;" also laws by which he was to govern or control himself; for this lord of creation was still subject to his Maker—God. The earth itself had to be subdued, for was it not cursed with thorns and thistles, and with many other things which yielded only to this

SUPERIOR PEING—MAN?

The intelligence he possesses enables him to utilize the elements of earth, air and water. By the aid of this unseen power he plows the mighty deep and laughs at the mountain waves of the ocean that seem to threaten him with destruction. The speed of the fleet horse is many times outdistanced by the locomotive that he has created to still further accelerate his speed in travel. The subtle power which electricity was supposed to possess without the possibility of its ever being disturbed by mortal, is now made to serve his purpose, for by it he talks with the most distant nations, and that too with very little effort. And ere long he will undoubtedly above and bid defiance to the storm clouds that shall attempt to dispute his passage through the ethereal world.

This man, with his indomitable spirit and unconquerable will, grapples with element after element, making every opposition yield to his desires. He surmounts every difficulty, resting not until victory sits perched upon his banner.

Shakespeare has said of him, "How noble in reason, how infinite in judgment; in form and bearing how express and admirable; in action how like an angel, in comprehension how like a god." The beauty of the world, the paragon of animals! And yet what is this quintessence of dust? At birth, the most dependent of all the animal creation. In the meridian of his strength, his power and his greatness unable to guarantee to himself one hour of life; and should he reach old age he then exhibits infirmities and decrepitude that call forth from those who are following after him expressions and acts that spring from feelings of pity for this once noble, proud and august personage who now totters so feebly upon the brink of his own grave. This ever recurring helplessness, uncertainty, decrepitude and final decay teaches man a lesson that should never be forgotten, which is, that great as he may be, there is still a greater; intelligent as he is, still there is one superior to himself, and that the almighty powers delegated to him are only a very small portion of the powers that God possesses; that the laws of the universe that he imagines he has mastered are superseded by laws altogether beyond his ken, only to be made manifest when the proper time arrives.

LESSONS OF PAST AGES

have had little or no effect upon succeeding ones to prevent a repetition of quarrels, contentions, strife and even bloodshed. Let the passions of man become thoroughly aroused, and he is as insatiable as the wild beast—without reflection, without remorse, without mercy, and only yields to another (animal) force which is superior to his own. Even then is he not conquered, but simply subdued—waiting patiently for a favorable opportunity to satisfy his revenge upon his superior foe.

Then, again, he exhibits a SPIRIT OF GREED,

that is almost as destructive in its character as that which sacrifices human life; for to gratify this unholy desire he would disinherit, rob and plunder his fellow man. Even the widow and the orphan fail to call forth from him any sympathy, for is he not bent upon accumulation, regardless of the cost?

Then there is another class who arrogate to themselves the RIGHT OF RULE AND GOVERNMENT.

They do not wait until the governed solicit them to occupy these very honorable positions, but will resort to trickery, chicanery and deceit to satisfy their unrighteous ambition, thus forcing themselves into places which ability and merit only should occupy. By these means is society, in too many instances, cursed with men holding offices of the greatest trust that are totally incompetent to fill them, their only recommendation being the possession of a little worldly wealth or the influence of others already in office and as unscrupulous as themselves, by which they have bought the place they never merited.

On the other hand, we find a few among the multitude who possess the qualities and endowments that fit them to admirably fill the various responsible positions that should only be open to such as these; but their retiring dispositions prevent them too often from occupying these places; the forward, bold and incompetent using every means to supplant them. (Let seekers after office in Utah Territory make a note of this).

Once in a while a wise statesman, a true patriot or a noble philanthrophist is discovered among the multitude, and, as if by accident, steps into his proper sphere, successfully withstanding all opposition directed against him by his incompetent, jealous and unworthy foes. Such men of succeeding ages; honored, revered and quoted as most worthy examples, but generally during their lives are their excellent qualities hidden and covered up by the inferior rubbish which always hides the genuine metal.

It would not be at all strange if we should find among the Latter-day Saints that have been gathered from every quarter of the globe representatives of all classes and phases of human existence, requiring a constant labor to keep in check that which is wrong, and to draw out and develop those worthy traits that should be made to thrive and bear fruit continually. We have entered upon the

our own as well as that of our fellows. The keys, powers and ordinances pertaining thereto are in our keeping. In manipulating these powers we cannot in the least interfere with our brother's agency; we did not confer it upon him, neither can we take it away. It was and is the gift of God. The earth, the air and the water, as well as every other element, were made for him as well as us, and he has an equal right to their enjoyment and use.

This principle seems to be entirely lost sight of by humanity in general, consequently the principles of equality, fraternity and brotherhood are ignored and every advantage possible is taken to dispossess and unrighteously appropriate that which by right belongs to another, involving never-ending litigation.

And even here in the so-called

are enacted scenes that bring the blush of shame to our cheeks, for in too many instances the same means that bought the office is now used to purchase the verdict.

When the true order of God is established, the use or ownership of any portion of the earth will be determined in a similar manner to that upon which the inheritances were originally given to the tribe of Israel in the land of Canaan. Men will not then be allowed to speculate and take advantage of another's necessities or ignorance. Such inheritances can only be forfeited upon conditions that will be made plain by the Almighty, and another cannot build upon his brother's misfortune or even wrong-doing.

A SYSTEM OF STEWARDSHIP

will be established upon such just and equitable principles that none but the wicked would ever think of complaining against it; a system so admirably suited to man's true condition and well-being that it will effectually prevent the possibility of the existence of the evils that to-day cause the people to mourn.

A government will also be established that will tend only to the maintenance of peace and tranquility. The temptations to usurpation of power will be entirely removed, consequently a check will be placed upon any who might desire office to further selfish ends or gratify a vain ambition. The men who are really qualified to occupy the several positions of trust and responsibility will be designated by an appointing power whose judgment will not err, but who will be unanimously sustained. The will make such rapid strides as no age has equalled, because all jealousies will be removed, the object then being the benefit of the whole instead of that of the solitary individual. Such a condition will restore such a degree of peace to the earth as has not existed here since Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden of Eden—a peace that the animal creation will partake of, and to such an extent as to effectually destroy their ferocious disposition.

This is the labor upon which we have entered; these the results.

ARE WE EQUAL TO THE TASK?

I answer yes; herculean as it may appear. The time has fully arrived when God expects us to bend all our energies in this direction. The nobler qualities of man must be developed, the baser passions mastered and overcome. The Latter-day Saints, good as they are—the Elders of Israel, intelligent as they may be—have many lessons to learn before they reach the goal we have pointed out.

THE FALSE TRADITIONS of the fathers cling to us with such tenacity that it is hard to separate ourselves from them. The unsubdued passions of our physical being that have so long run riot have to be checked and made to yield to the laws pertaining thereto.

The individual selfishness, that has been transmitted to us down through the ages until it has become a part of our very nature, has to be rooted out, and our brother's rights recognized as well as our own.

The division and discord in the family, in the community, in the State must be supplanted by the most perfect harmony. In short, a oneness of feeling, sentiment, desire and action must be brought about, for heaven is waiting to join with earth and bring to pass man's redemption, but cannot until we are worthy of its companionship.

This is a work requiring time, patience, forbearance and unbounded charity, as also the gift of the Holy Ghost and the revelations of God, to all of which we are entitled by promises that will be fulfilled on the part Him who made the same.

that will not yield to the legitimate use of the powers conferred, must be rooted out, no matter at what cost. The persistent wrong-doer must be dealt with and cast off, for this is necessary to the preservation of the entire body.

The men who have been appointed to wield this influence and to exercise these powers must be examples of righteousness themselves or they will find they are not equal to the task, and others must supply their places, for, as we said before, the time has fully arrived to enter upon this work and continue it to a completion. If the can successfully overcome the obstacles that lie in his path when he attempts the accomplishment of any purpose, surely we, who have been endowed with special gifts to qualify us for the work of our own and our brother's redemption, will not yield to the enemy who says "You cannot; you shall not proceed further," but rather contest inch by inch, if needs be, the ground we have been commanded to possess and occupy to the glory of God and the salvation of all who shall be worthy of any portion thereof.

SELAH.

After The Whale.

Mineral oils have now supplanted train oils for many purposes, and the perpetual hunting has now diminished the numbers as well as the size of the whales, no animal having a chance of attaining its full dimensions before it is harpooned. Often, nowadays, a whaling ship returns "clean," i. e., without having captured a single whale, so that, what with the lessened prices and diminished numbers and dimensions of the animal, whaling has become almost a lottery instead of a solid investment of capital, and few ship-owners care to run such a risk. Furnished with its wonderful horny sieve, the Greenland whale has no difficulty in procuring its food. With mouth more or less open it swims backward and forward through the shoals of the Clio, which mostly are found near the surface. The water escapes freely between the horny plates and fining fringe, while the animals are detained within the cage. When it wishes to swallow the prey which it has caught it employs its tongue, which is not less remarkable than the rest of the whale's structure. The tongue is not free except at the base, as with mammals generally; so that it is impossible for the animal to protrude its tongue from its mouth. The tongue is fixed by nearly the whole of its edge, so that it can only be protruded upward. I once had an opportunity of examining the tongue of a small baleen whale which had been cast ashore. It was of great size, smooth on the surface, and I could not help thinking that it was very like a soft, well stuffed pin-cushion. I pressed upon the centre with my fingers and I found that a pit was formed which rapidly filled with oil. Then I took a hammer and pressed the head of it on the tongue. The pit formed by the pressure became deeper and larger, and filled so fast with oil that not only was the whole of the hammer submerged in the oil, but my hand and wrist also.—J. G. Wood, in Longman's Magazine.

DANGEROUS

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE

Several inferior and dangerous "substitutes" for the genuine "Horsford's Acid Phosphate" are being offered for sale; and we hereby caution the dealers and public against buying or using them, as they will not produce the same effect upon the system as the genuine "Horsford's," and the ingredients in some of them are dangerous to health.

Some of these "substitutes" or imitations are simply Dilute Phosphoric Acid, which interferes with the digestion; while the genuine "Horsford's" not only causes no trouble with the digestive organs, but materially assists in their action.

One preparation that is being offered for sale, by the gallon, contains Meta or Pyro Phosphoric Acid, which are declared by the highest authority to be poisonous. Another preparation also contains Chloric Acid, which is a compound of Chlorine. "Horsford's" contains neither of these ingredients.

These "substitutes" are liable to be found at soda fountains, because of their cheapness.

CALL for "HORSFORD'S," and TAKE NO OTHER. NEVER SOLD IN BULK.
