THE "MORMONS" AND THE INDIANS.

HARPER'S WEEKLY for Feb. 18 has one of Nast's cartoons, in which a squaw, seated figure supposed to be an Indian—the costume rather than the features suggesting the idea—is approached by a person looking like one of Nast's southern "rebels" but supposed to be a "Mormon"—the lines beneath conveying the information—who, with rifle in hand and pistol in coat-pocket, is encouraging the Indian to "much like pale face," by promise of "much guns, much ammunition and much whiskey." It is related of an amateur artist that after painting the picture of a certain quagmire, he wrote underneath it "This is a cow." Nast has, in this instance, been compelled to adopt a similar plan, for if it was not for the lines below the cartoon, no one would imagine that the lean figure with the gun is meant for a "Mormon." The phraseology used by Nast shows as much ignorance of the broken English used in conversation with Indians as his cartoon does of his misconception of the whole matter. The Nasty Cartoon is silly enough, but the accompanying remarks of the editor of Harper's Weekly are worse. They are as follows:

"The reported alliance between the Mormons and Indians, which forms the subject of Mr. Nast's cartoon, creates great uneasiness in Arizona and New Mexico. Scouts and other well informed persons assert that the Mormons are furnishing the Indians with arms, ammunition, provisions and whiskey, and that there is a prospect of a general uprising in the Spring. Secretary Kirkwood has instructed the United States Indian agents to exercise the utmost diligence to ascertain the exact truth of these charges, and to promptly report any evidence of interference with the tribes under their control."

This slander is one of the instruments used by the schemers who are figuring for the control of Utah, to stir up animosity against the "Mormons." There is not a word of truth in it except that a rumor of the kind mentioned has reached Washington and attracted the attention of the Secretary of the Interior. That there is "great uneasiness in Arizona about it" is simply a falsehood without foundation or excuse. "Scouts and other well informed persons" is good. They are a wonderfully reliable sort of informants on such questions, are they not? Did anybody ever hear of "scouts" stuffing timid people with frightful stories about Indians, tomahawks and scalping? But who is the scout or other equally well-informed person that started this story about "Mormons" and Indians? Who is the settler in Arizona that feels any uneasiness about the report? That would puzzle the editor of Harper's Weekly to answer. "A general uprising of Indians in Arizona" would be more of a disadvantage to the "Mormon" settlers than any one else in that Territory. They are in new and unprotected villages and ranches and would be more at the mercy of armed and drunken savages than other people in that region. The story is perfectly absurd and is merely a very old one revamped. The same stupid yarn was spun about the "Mormons" in early times and has been made to do service against them over and over again, cash time without the slightest foundation in fact and without any evidence to substantiate it.

The effect of "Mormon" influence upon the Indian mind is to produce submission to civilized regulations and the adoption of the white man's better customs. Wherever "Mormon" settlers have penetrated among the red men quiet and order have taken the place of turbulence, danger and plunder. Before the "Mormons" settled in Arizona the Apaches were the worst tribe of savages with which white men had to contend. The Navajos were only a few degrees better. But when "Mormon" influence was brought to bear upon them they were induced, with but few exceptions, to cease their murderous, vagabond and pillaging ways, and yield obedience to better teachings than those of the wild and bad men among them.

Not a few of the natives of these western wilds have been brought into submission to the gospel of Jesus Christ by the labors of "Mormon" missionaries, who not only teach them to worship God in spirit and in truth, and thus obtain heavenly help to overcome their wicked dispositions, but to till the ground, raise stock and live by industry, instead of stealing, fighting and killing. The "Mormon" Elders in addition to instructing them in theory, demonstrate the benefits of these things by example, and thousands of Indians are now making an honorable living in peace, honesty and sobriety, through that same "Mormon" influence which is so misapprehended in the East by schemers and defamers.

For, be it known, that whoever gives or sells whiskey to an Indian, or induces him under any pretext to evil deeds, is not in any sense a "Mormon" or Latter-day Saint. For the spirit and letter of "Mormonism" are utterly opposed to such a course, both for white men and red men. If any persons claiming to be "Mormons" are habituated to the use of strong drink themselves, or supply it to the savages, they are not "Mormons" in the true sense, but are renegades to the faith, and acting in opposition to the plainest teachings of the Church. And we know of what we speak when we assert that it is not for the exhortations of some of our leading men, notably Apostles Wilford Woodruff and Erastus Snow, as well as prominent Elders now residing in Arizona, the Navajos and Apaches last fall would have spread devastation and horror through a large portion of that Territory. As Apostle Snow stated in a recent discourse at Logan, which was published in the EVENING NEWS of Feb. 18th, the influence brought to bear by our brethren last September and October "did more than all the troops from California, New Mexico and Eastern Arizona in bringing about peace." Friendly Indians, under the counsel of our Elders, brought in the "bad" hostilities by hundreds from the war path and induced them to lay down their weapons.

And we declare to all people on this wide continent that the mission of "Mormonism" to the remnant of the left of the land, is to raise them from their degradation and evil ways and help them to become honorable, industrious and law-abiding citizens of the United States, landholders and land-workers and disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ in every deed. We bear witness to this God Almighty and the holy angels, and we denounce all reports to the contrary as the fabrications of designing men, who are fanning the flames of anti-"Mormon" fanaticism, with no other object in view than to disrupt our local government, that they may work their way into such power as will enable them to grasp and manipulate the treasury, and regulate and spread the taxes of the most promising Territory in the American Union. God knows that this is true, we know it, and it ought to be known and understood by all the wise and thoughtful of this great nation. Think on this, all ye who are rational, and forbear from spreading slander and falsehood to the injury of the innocent!

UTAH FRUIT GROWING.

THE Cultivator and Country Gentleman has the following from the pen of a non-"Mormon" Nebraska orchardist who has visited Utah and has written several truthful and friendly articles on her products and prospects for several journals:

"I intended long ago to say something about horticulture, as seen in one of the valleys of Utah, as I did in this paper about a Colorado fruit garden. We all recognize the grape, orange and pear growing of California, but the region intervening—the mountain country—has been unknown to fruit growing and grape culture. On a visit last September to Brigham City, Utah, I called on a noted horticulturist of that section, Mr. Faulkner. I would say here that this country depends entirely on irrigation, although the rains are moving westward, and all the western territories tell of a more or less increase in rainfall. Near Cottage, white fence in front, a crowd of hybrid perpetual roses in bloom on a green lawn, at once attracted our attention, but I came to this garden to see the grapes. The Muscatels and Sweetwaters were glorious, in great bunches of three pounds and over. Then in the next row were vines (Mr. F. said "Black") Concord, Diana, Delaware and Iowa loaded with rich fruit. An eastern grape grower would say that Mr. F.'s style is not the way, but his grapes are the story. The trellises are set such as we would make for tomatoes in the East. Under these, as wanted, runs a small stream of water. The atmosphere being dry here, mildew is unknown, and the fruit matures rich with juice and sugar.

A fine orchard of apples, crab and plums, loaded with fruit, all trimmed in pyramidal shape, was very attractive. Correll's Golden Drop, Imperial and German prunes, were loaded. Mr. Faulkner said he cut back his trees as he does his grapes, pruning, shortening in each year's growth; hence he has fruit every year. The pears excelled all in their management. Imagine a Louise Bonne loaded with fruit on a trellis five feet high. The trunk was perhaps five inches in diameter, and containing a foot from the ground six lateral on each side, 12 feet long, were carefully trained. Besides this, he had a lot of espaliers, which would challenge the best of the East. A dwarf pear, which was loaded to the ground with great fruit—Eudora St. Germain—was very attractive.

Horticulture, although it was sited near the Atlantic, moves westward, and its influence will be felt across a continent. The field here is great, and where fruits were not supposed possible, I find now planting within sight of eternal snow, in confidence that hardy apples can be grown. Last week, at a sheep ranch at the foot of the snowy range, I ate some most delicious canned red raspberries, which grow in abundance on the mountains.

Omah, Neb.

The Legislature adjourned today (10:30) on Thursday, in honor of the anniversary of Washington's birthday.

BY TELEGRAPH.

FORTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, 21.—Hale from the census committee, reported favorably the House appropriation bill, and asked unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

Cockrell objected, as the Senator had had a chance to read it. Hale said the committee were unanimous in support of the measure, and urged that no time be lost as several State legislatures were awaiting congressional action. Cockrell withdrew his objection, and Hale said he would renew his motion later.

AMERICAN.

LATEST DISPATCHES.

Track-Laying Commenced.
SAN FRANCISCO, 21.—Track-laying commenced yesterday on the Southern Pacific Branch from Mohave to the Colorado.

2 Just Treaty.
A Portland dispatch says: The board of trade passed resolutions urging the abrogation of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty.

Lapsed Land Grant Committee.
NEW YORK, 21.—With regard to lapsed land grants, the Wall and Evening Post Washington special says: It is now evident there will soon be a stir in Congress on this subject. The Northern Pacific Railroad people have planted their lobby on the ground and show considerable nervousness about the issue. The Judiciary committee of both Houses have the whole subject under consideration and it is intimated by prominent members thereof that they intend to see the government's interests protected at all hazards in this relation. One of the members says they intend to inquire carefully into the question whether the decision of Carl Schurz, when he was Secretary of the Interior, over the ruling decision of the Land Office Commissioner was the result of ignorance of law, or favoritism, or venality. Some pretty rough things are said about Schurz in this connection and they will all be investigated with the general subject, and if any of them are substantiated, the bill will be passed directing the attorney to add all the lapsed railroad grants to the public domain. The Northern Pacific people appeal for mercy on the ground, as they allege, that they have the entire road under contract for construction and that they will complete it in two years.

No Day Dream.
The Post's Washington special says: Some members of the foreign legations express the belief that the Shepherd Peruvian Scheme was a more serious affair than it is generally considered to be by the American public. It is more than a joke or the day dream of a visionary speculator, said one of the gentlemen yesterday. The scheme was audacious and vast, but not crazy by any means, and we do not know yet how near it came to success. Had Calderon been sustained even for a short time longer, I have reason to believe he would have made a lien on any property, Peru might have owned and thereby enriched himself and his fellow conspirators.

Heavy Snow Storm.
COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, 21.—A heavy snow storm blew here today and to-night—the first of the winter. It is expected the running of trains will be interfered with by the drifting snow.

Senator Lamar's Injuries.
WASHINGTON, 21.—Senator Lamar left for Mississippi today. The injuries he recently sustained here were more painful than at first supposed.

Pardoned.
The President pardoned Frank Denny, of Minnesota, convicted of passing counterfeit coin.

Nominations.
The President nominated Wm. F. Tucker, Jr., of Illinois, major and paymaster.

Sergeant Mason.
The court martial, to try Sergeant Mason, who shot at Gettysburg, adjourned to prepare a diagram of the jail and surroundings. The plea of "not guilty" was entered.

A Quaker Bill.
Senator Lapham introduced a bill today to amend an act establishing the Territorial Government of Utah and change the name to Altamont. The bill vests the executive power over the Territory in a governor appointed for four years, and continues the present governor until the end of his term, and discharges all persons guilty of bigamy and polygamy, and makes them ineligible as jurors or to hold any office.

The bill requires the legislature to repeal the statute authorizing a plurality of wives and provide for the support of the destitute and homeless wives and children by erecting houses for them and a levy of taxes to pay therefor; also to compel males to support their children born in polygamy.

Sick.
Congressman Allen, of St. Louis, lying quite low at the Arlington. Dr. Reymann while pronouncing his condition critical, says the patient will rally.

Burying the Dead.
CHESTER, Penn., 21.—Six victims of the late explosion were buried today. All the industrial establishments suspended work and the employees attended the funeral in a body.

Suspended Distillery.
LOUISVILLE, 21.—The Newcomb Buchanan Company, the largest whiskey distilling firm in the South, made an assignment to J. M. Atherton—Liabilities, $1,200,000; assets, $200,000. The suspension is thought to be only temporary.

A Bearing River.
CINCINNATI, 21.—The river is 47 feet and rising. It has been raining hard all day and is raining to-night, with a prospect of continuing. The river is rising at the rate of an inch per hour. It is the highest since 1847. Indications give rise to the belief that it will cause a rise that will exceed that of 1880—the greatest on record. Navigation is closed.

Beating Shooting Affray.
LOUISVILLE, 21.—A very exciting and probably fatal affair took place this evening on Jefferson Street between 6th and 7th, in which Joe West, an ex-governor, and a man who bagged more moonshiners than any man in the country, was badly, no doubt fatally, wounded by Joe Cunningham and Thos. Connolly, two deputies of the court. Wyatt is a man of celebrated name and is one who never has known fear. He has had many exciting incidents in his life and has shot several men, but generally was acting in self-defense, or the discharge of his duties as a government officer, but this time he has probably met his end. The difficulty commenced in the Astor House, a little hotel directly opposite the fire engine house, and ended in the street where Wyatt was shot.

The origin of the difficulty was witnessed by none but the participants, consequently it is somewhat difficult to give the exact particulars. It seems that Wyatt was out for the arrest of Wyatt, charging him with selling liquor to moonshiners. Hearing of this he swore he would pay no attention to the warrants of the court. Wyatt paid the fines, and no officer could arrest him. The officers attempted to arrest him when he called a revolver, the officers disarmed him, and the battle raged from the hotel to the street. The marshal shot 10 out of 12 shots. Wyatt laid hands on his gun, and the shot, which he calls truce. Neither of the marshals were hurt except that Connolly's forehead was grazed by a bullet, and the right eye of Joe Cunningham, who shot Wyatt, was injured.

called into the jail to attend Wyatt, who was found to be very seriously injured. The probabilities are that he will die. The three wounds, so far as the doctors can determine, are in the right shoulder, not serious. The other two are in the abdomen. There is one hole on the right side and another on the left. The doctors are unable to say whether the holes are caused by two different balls, or whether the two holes are the entrance and exit of the same. If but one wound he has a chance for recovery. If two wounds the bullets are in the cavity, and the doctors say death will result.

FOREIGN.

Burned to Death.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., 21.—George Cunningham's house, Ameliasburg, was burned, three children perished in the flames.

Jewish Riots.

LONDON, 21.—British consular reports tend to extenuate the seriousness of the anti-Jewish riots in Russia. The loss of life and outrages on women generally are denied, but the destruction of Jewish property is fully confirmed. The statements are confirmed about 100 Jews being shamefully maltreated at Warsaw; 10 to 12 of whom died of injuries.

A Mild Remonstrance.
The Times' Berlin correspondence says: Bismarck has conferred with the Emperor regarding Bismarck's speech. A mild remonstrance will probably be sent to St. Petersburg.

The Trouble Grows.
CONSTANTINOPLE, 21.—Advices from Yemen state that the insurrection is spreading among the peasant tribes.
