Matrimonial Advertisements.

NEW YORK, April 28, 1875.

In one of my letters I made the promise that I would insert a "matrimonial advertisement" in one of the papers, with a view of enlightening your readers as to the character of the class who want "acquaintances with the view of matrimony." Accordingly the following was prepared, dispatched with $5 by a messenger boy, and it appeared two or three Sundays ago:

"A young gentleman of wealth and leisure, fond of female society, wishes to open a confidental correspondence with any lady who may have matrimony as one of her desires. She must be of undoubted respectability, like the advertiser, and have an income of her own. No objection to one as old as forty. Address 'Only Thirty-Two,' City P. O."

This cleverly worded card naturally brought me several answers by mail, and at the end of the week I had received no less than seventeen responses, from the elegantly embroidered and scented note of the fashionable flirt to the jagged chirography of the illiterate house maid or cook. A few I propose to give you:

RESPONSE NO. 1.

"No. — Oxford Street, }
Brooklyn, April —, 1875. }

"Sir—If you will drop a note to 'Delia,' City Post Office, stating when you will be disengaged and can call upon me, I will arrange to give you an audience in my own house. I am a widow of thirty-nine, without children. If we mutually please each other, you can take a nice suite of rooms I have vacant, and enjoy all the comforts and pleasures of a benedict at reasonable rent. Don't on any account direct the letter to the house, as sister might get it."

RESPONSE NO. 2.

This was written upon fashionable note, scented with new-mown hay, and bore a peculiar monogram in purple and gold. It read:

"DEAR SIR: If you be really what you profess to be—a wealthy and honorable gentleman, who can appreciate an affectionate woman's love, and can give references and maintain confidence, you may address a note, with description of yourself and your prospects to 'Henrietta Delancy,' Prote Post office, No. — West Twelfth Street. If I then think it prudent, I will arrange for an interview at an early day. I am moving in the best society, have property in my own right, am a blonde, and am but thirty years of age."

RESPONSE NO. 3.

"DEAR SIR: I have observed your card in the Sunday ——, and believing that you are really sincere, I, for the first time in my life, deviate from the conventional rules of society, and write you to say that I am disposed to entertain an acquaintance. I am a student at Vassar College in the graduating class; am respectably connected in the West, where my parents reside. My father is a Member of Congress, if that is a recommendation, and he did not disgrace himself with Credit Mobilier, either. I am, among my companions, called good looking, and, although but eighteen, I would not object to a gentleman of thirty-two, if he prove to be handsome, entertaining, witty and accomplished mentally. If you can entertain the acquaintance of a warm hearted school girl, please drop a line to 'Daisy,' Peughkeepsie P. O., New York."

RESPONSE NO. 4.

"The writer, a middle-aged lady, whose married life has not been one of complete and never-ending sunshine, has noticed your advertisement, and would like to make your acquaintance, not, however, with the view to matrimony, but for confidential friendship. There is an impediment to matrimony in the person of a cold, uncongenial husband, who neglects me for the society of more fascinating female acquaintances. I am no adventuress, who seeks pecuniary assistance, but a neglected wife, who feels that it is no harm to have a gentleman friend call when her husband spends his evenings away. I am socially well situated, as I shall convince you on meeting. If you are disposed to see me, meet me in the reception room of the Hudson River Railroad (Grand Central Depot), Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. I will sit in the southwest corner, will be dressed in black silk, with sealskin sacque, and have a tea rose in the upper button hole of my sacque. You can approach me and address me 'Cousin Carrie,' and escort me from the depot. If you cannot be there, write me as 'Mrs. Densmore,' Station F., city."

RESPONSE NO. 5.

"SIR:—I have seen your 'matrimonial' in the ——, and am pleased with its tenor. I, too, have advertised, but have not met with responses that please me:

A YOUNG SOUTHERN LADY, stranger in the city, desires to correspond with an elderly gentleman of means; view matrimony. Address CECELIA, Herald Uptown Branch Office.

"I received in answer to the above twenty-five replies, but they were from gentlemen who wanted housekeepers to cook, laundry and act as their drudges. That does not suit me. I desire to be a companion and not a servant to any man. Please write me 'Cecelia, care of Mrs. Harrington, No. — West Forty-fourth street.' She is a lady friend of mine.

"SOUTHERN LADY."

RESPONSE NO. 6.

"MONSIEGNER:—If you are not like the elder Mr. Weller (afraid of widows, will you permit a little blacke-yed widow, brimming over with life and vitality—I will not say affection—to announce herself a suppliant for your gracious attention. I have an establishment of my own in West Thirty-fourth street, an income of $20,000 per year, a cottage at Saratoga, and enough money for both of us. I don't care how poor you may be—I would prefer if you had little—so long as you are socially well connected, the possessor of a manly presence, and not addicted to bad habits — gambling, drinking or smoking. If you can guarantee an absence of these, and otherwise meet my expectations, I might be tempted to permit you to be 'my lord' and master to the end of life. I shall not give you now my name, nor any hint that will establish my identity, but you may write a note to 'Fidelity,' at B——'s stationery store, No. — Union square, and I will send a trusty servant for it. If you can trust me with your photograph, please inclose it and I will return it at once. I can judge better of your character by a photograph, but men are so tricky (like horses, you know) that they cannot always be trusted. Hence I do not intend to compromise myself by giving you the advantage of me in so delicate and perhaps unwelcome a correspondence. If you are really sincere, you should not hesitate to trust me with your picture. You can depend upon me acting in good faith."

The above are a few of the letters received. The others I propose to reserve for a future letter, as I have not had time to meet more than those whose responses are given above.
