

RELIEF SOCIETIES ASKED FOR HELP.

Women Workers in Oakland Want Clothes For Babies.

HARD TIMES ARE BEGINNING.

Strong and Able Bodied Are at Work
But Mothers With Babies Still Need Assistance.

At appeal has been made to the Relief societies of Salt Lake from the Women's Relief Corps of the Grand Army, in the field at Oakland, assisting in relieving the suffering of San Francisco homeless. It is for baby clothes.

When the fire devastated the city by the golden gate, its people were fed by the bounty of America, poured out unstintingly. Then came the era when husbands again procured work, and the food supply was found to be ample, at prices the people could pay. But for the mothers with children the hard times began with this era, for they were not of the earning class, and now their children stand well to suffer severely, unless they are fortunate enough to possess parents with a good earning capacity.

Recognizing this condition the women's relief workers are anxious to procure not food, but baby clothing. It is for the little ones who are helpless, where the strong are no longer needed.

The appeal to Salt Lake is from Nellie C. Lane, chief of staff of the Women's Relief Corps. With this she has written an interesting letter detailing what has been done in the way of relief work, by her corps, addressing it to the Salt Lake Relief societies, "I never knew before," says Nellie C. Lane, what relief societies meant, but now I know.

The letter is signed jointly by Miss Lane, and Eliza Shepard, a well known relief worker on the coast, and is as follows: "I feel sure you will like to hear of the relief work being done by the women of this corps, in the San Francisco calamity, and therefore send the following account of it.

"Our first action was to send letters to the different presidents of the relief corps, asking them to call their members together and send whatever they could spare in the way of clothing or necessities.

"The answers were numerous and brought articles of great value in the emergency. From Ventura county came packages of sewing outfits, with spoons of thread and needles. From another came bars of soap wrapped in wash rags, from another a hundred packages of baby powder, a lot of dark gray flannel dresses for children from another, and from still another came packages of baby clothes of all kinds. What is needed most are dark dresses for children from 2 to 5 years of age and any colored baby clothes for children under that age.

"In our headquarters, there is a constant line of people, securing these relief packages. We take the name and address of each person receiving goods, and fill the requirements in each case. Goods are given two suits of underclothes, a dress, and a jacket, and are allowed to pick their own fits, so that each is comfortably rigged out. We insist on their feeling that this is not charity, but merely generous assistance in an hour of extreme need.

"We have supplied lawyers, doctors, dentists, judges and their families, people from every walk of life, and glad to be alive, and grateful for every help extended to them. This giving must continue for many months to come, if want and suffering are to be kept from the less able portion of the community.

SOME NEEDED ARTICLES.

"Now I am going to tell you what we haven't got, and need. We could use 1,000 dark calico kitchen aprons, 1,000 dark calico waists, 1,000 pairs of overalls, all the muslin undershirts we can get, all the suspenders, a bale of handkerchiefs, calico shirts for men, shoes and stockings without limit, a thousand dark calico wrappers for women, and so many more things I hardly know where to stop enumerating. White waists are received in bulk, but there is little use for them while people live in the streets, and have only slight opportunity to wash themselves or their clothes.

AN INCIDENT.

"I must not forget to tell you of a touching little incident. A beautiful black crocheted shawl with a white border came and it had a note pinned to a reading: 'Please give this shawl to the donor's name, she was president of a corps in the southern part of the state. We laid it aside, and the day a dear lady came whom we thought deserved the shawl. When she read the note she burst into tears, for the donor of that shawl was her dearest friend.

"I could write all night telling you of hair-breadth escapes, strange coincidences, marvelous escapes, but I am late now and my work is hard, putting up and taking down, trying on and ever, you would like to know how we are doing and where we get our supplies from. I'm sure the demand will continue, but whether the supply will be equal is another question. You are our neighbor, and a good neighbor is one of the best things on this shaky earth. Anything you choose to send us will be greatly appreciated."

SOME ADVICE.

"Don't do as some of the eastern people have done, yesterday a box came with express charges amounting to $4.00. When the box was opened there were 24 fancy creton bags, with needles, pins, shoe laces, corset strings, only one pair of corsets have been donated, darling cotton, buttons and gimbles (aluminum). There were three postal cards, but in each bag was a card requesting the person who received the bag to take the name and address of the recipient of their generosity are too poor to own either paper or envelopes, let alone postage stamps.

"Now think of giving that good money for expressage. We could have bought more stuff for the money than that box contained. That kind of generosity we hope will be an unknown quantity again. We know it is not polite to look a gift horse in the mouth. We think these intentions were good.

"The people of San Francisco have had a terrible experience since the great shock. Not a light, not even a candle, law was rigidly enforced, for if a fire should break out, there was no water to fight it. The very first relief that reached San Francisco Thursday, April 19, was six cars of water. Men and boys worked 48 hours without a drop of sleep, when they were fighting that roaring furnace. We could see plain hills with black with people at night. We could see it leap around Telegraph Hill, we could see the tall buildings being licked up, and hear the blasting. It shook our house at every blast. We could only wring our hands in wild despair.

"The courage of the people is...

seems to bear their individual losses with great fortitude.

"We hope that there may never be another calamity like this in the world, but these continual small shocks (there have been 75 or more) keep our nerves strung up to the racing point.

"I don't believe many houses could stand another such shock. Almost everyone has shingled right over the parlor chimneys, and there is not a brick more than the law allows in the newly constructed chimneys.

"I hope you may be able to get a little idea from all this of how things are here.

LETTER FROM PREST. CANNON.

Thoroughly Enjoying Trip Abroad—
Was at Liege, Belgium.

A letter from Hon. Angus M. Cannon, to Angus M. Cannon, Jr., written at Liege, Belgium, dated the 29th ult., and received in this city a day or two since, conveys the information that he is thoroughly enjoying his trip abroad. He had visited most of the principal English cities, and then passed over to the continent. He first saw the principal cities of the Netherlands, and then proceeded to Belgium. Mr. Cannon was much impressed with the thrift displayed by the people of Holland and Belgium. He compares their area of country and population with that of Utah, the contrast, especially of Belgium, being striking. With an area of a little more than 11,000 miles, the latter country has a population of upwards of 8,000,000 souls, while the State of Utah, whose area is some 84,000 square miles, has scarcely more than a quarter of a million inhabitants. The meetings of the saints in the Netherlands and Belgium were attended by Mr. Cannon, and he speaks of the strong spirituality of both the missionaries and of the local members. He had intended to go on to Switzerland, but having contracted a severe cold, he thought it best to return to England. Mr. Cannon is accompanied on his continental trip by his sister, Mrs. Mary Alice Lambert.

SHERMAN'S MARCH ABANDONED

What promised to become an unpleasant incident of national proportions was nipped in the bud last week when the Rev. Father Thomas E. Sherman, son of the famous general, annoyed by the undesirable political aspect of the enterprise, suddenly abandoned his so-called "march from Atlanta to the sea." It is said that Father Sherman's resentment against President Roosevelt for the latter's order withdrawing the small escort of United States cavalry which accompanied him, is very bitter. Father Sherman is now en route to California, where he will attend the wedding of a relative.

BEGINNING OF WESTMINSTER COLLEGE.

First New Building to be Erected at the Corner of Eleventh East and Thirteenth South Streets at Cost of $37,000.

Above is a perspective of the first of the buildings to be erected for Westminster college, the excavation for which has been completed, and the concrete footings are being put in at Eleventh South and Thirteenth East streets. The style of architecture is the Tudor Gothic, the distinguishing feature of the buildings at Oxford and Cambridge, and which is becoming more and more adopted in American architecture devoted to educational and ecclesiastical purposes.

The building is to be 58x114 ft. two stories and high basement of brick and stone, with the cost placed at $37,000. The basement will be divided into janitor's quarters, a physical laboratory, a chemical laboratory, lecture room with raised seats, a recitation room, the usual apartments for furnace, boiler, coal, and storage arrangements, closets, lavatories, etc.

The first floor will contain five recitation rooms, a girl's waiting room, two office apartments for the president, lavatories dressing and toilet rooms, corridors, etc. On the second floor will be an assembly room, 26x55 ft., six recitation rooms, and library 18x24 ft., two stories in height, with a gallery around it. The architects are Erskine & Liljenberg.

There'll be excitement here Monday!

Eighteen thousand, five hundred (18,500) yards of black silks—250 bolts arrived last Friday.

Purchased from the largest silk producers in the world.

Bought by Walkers for spot cash, at one-third to one-half their regular value.

You'll get them at one-third to one-half what you usually pay.

They are all reliable, standard black silks manufactured expressly for the biggest merchants on the coast. Unexpected events necessitated the cancellation of the orders. Enough said. You'll readily see why we got them. A glance at our show windows (entire front) will give you an idea of the magnitude of the deal. 16 Wind-ows filled with full bolts of elegant black silks. It is positively the most phenomenal and sensational price cutting event on black silks ever seen here. Ready Monday morning. Continuing throughout the entire week.
