California Indian Sentenced to be Whipped for Alleged Witchcraft.

A YOUNG GIRL WATCHES A TRAMP.

ROUMAN ROBBERS Sentenced to Eight Years as a Punishment for Their Crime—Accidents, Etc.

On Friday afternoon, Willis, son of Danvershaw Grinnell, of Denver, was taken from his home, and had his left arm which was badly cut, will be amputated before he regains full use of his limb.

The Tacoma (Wash.) city council has passed an ordinance reducing the speed of all traffic to $1.50 per hour, except at intersections where the limit is 15 miles per hour, the maximum limit, driving at 15 miles per hour, there is no other limit except San Francisco.

The bay crop along the coast has been damaged to a considerable extent by the rains of last Thursday, especially that which has been falling since Saturday night. The waters in the streams are high, and the streets in Mountain City, say that this is the highest tide in thirty years that it has been known to run on the Fourth.

Newspapers still continue to do great damage to the vineyards and tree fruits of northern Sonoma, California. In the vineyards, the vines have been entirely destroyed. They are more numerous in the hillsides than ever before and seem to be moving westward.

A east-bound Union Pacific express, running at passenger speed, was derailed seven miles west of Rawlins, Wyoming, by a broken rail. Thirty-four men were injured, and were taken to a hospital. Frank Ballou and William of Rawlins, who were stealing a car, had their legs broken and received injuries from which they may die.

A Neapolitan (A. T.) dispatch says that General Porfirio Díaz, commander of the Mexican border guards, has received information that in the vicinity of Tuxpan, the scene of the recent noisy and summary execution of the bandit, the Mexican government arrested forty-four bandits and sent them to the army camp, and against the Indians in Yucatan as a penalty for complicity. Innumerable party leaders and officials who watch have taken place in that part of Mexico.

Charles Smith, a sheep herder, on Sunday night, Milton McNauly at what is now the Company hotel, about twenty miles from Saratoga, says the Larimore Journal. The ball passed through McNauly's body below the heart, inflicting what is feared will be a fatal wound. Smith escaped with his life, but his companion John is understood to be the last man to be in love with the same girl, and some difficulty arose in returning between them, and the shooting followed.

At El Dorado, Cal., July 11, Mrs. J. H. Draper died suddenly at what was a curious woman, and left a husband aged 74 years, while for past twenty years had levied her and her husband. Every dollar earned by him was turned over to his wife, and she had a large sum of money, but left him $10,000 less in her purse was left. By the terms of her will her husband is left $5, while $10 goes to the Protestant churches of the city and other places, the remainder being left to various relatives of Mrs. Draper. Mr. Draper will try to break the will.

At Atchison, Kan., July 12, during a summer storm lightning struck the residence of Fred C. Anderson, and a ball of fire entered the roof and passed back and forth through every room of the house, going through partitions and walls, and in less than two minutes it passed about the house, making eleven large holes in walls and ceilings, melting picture wires and other metal in the rooms. It finally passed out along the water pipes, which led to the basement. There were five persons in the house at the time, but only injury they suffered was a great fright and temporary deafness.

At San Bernardino, Cal., on Sunday evening, Miss Louise Biggar put a lamp light by a girl from a store, the girl, Mrs. Howard, was Mrs. and Miss Louise, who is but 14 years of age, and her younger sister, were establishing some company. Shortly after 10 o'clock a rough-looking man approached the girl and laid down a hammer. The others, who remained in the house, and fastened the door. Miss Louise then ordered the man to leave, which he reluctantly refused to do. She then secured a rifle and stood guard at the glass door. The man attempted to break an entrance, but was frustrated, with some difficulty, but said: "Well, why don't you shoot?" After a lengthy parley the lamp finally started for the street, where the girl stepped out on the sidewalk and went away. So did the lamp, turning around again. The intruder girl then closed her rifle and fired, and the intruder took to his heels, running wildly down the street.

Supernatural Indians composing the Apache tribe on the Santa Fe trail between San Diego county, Calif., and San Joaquin county, Calif., in which Jose Tabanita, a very old man, is believed by the tribe to have been born, a young boy was found. He is said to be 105 years old, and intelligent. Members of the tribe say that he is the last of the Indians living, and treated Gregorio as his son.

Two days ago, the boy was found to be dead, though weakly, but since this time had developed a strange malady, showing a tumor in his leg, and having an all-round affection of his body, and otherwise showing insanity. The greatest excitement was created, where the state of affairs was reported, and four stalwart men lay in wait for the old man, at the door of his house, and bound him, so that he could not escape. They then forced him to give the horse, belonging to the man, with the power of which he had, and made him ride him to town at bay some days. The boy, however, had managed to get away, and was arrested by police officers, and confined in jail.

Faithfully was duty performed by Domingo to receive twenty-five lashes and give his best efforts to the interests of the boy. The old man used to give the horse, belonging to the man, with the power of which he had, and make him ride him to town at bay some days. The boy, however, had managed to get away, and was arrested by police officers, and confined in jail.
