INDIGNATION MEETING.

The call for a mass meeting of business men and other citizens to be held in the Salt Lake Theatre July 10th was liberally and enthusiastically responded to. Long before the time of commencement the street in front of the Theatre was packed with an intelligent crowd composed of merchants, bankers, capitalists, lawyers and laboring men of almost every shade of religious and political belief, eagerly awaiting admission and ready to refute the slanderous statements being made daily by the Salt Lake Tribune, that division on National party lines by the people of Utah means the bringing about of a crisis in local financial affairs.

The meeting was called to order by temporary chairman who said—For the first time in the history of the United States we are told that the business interests of a certain section of our country are at stake unless a certain political party shall be successful. There can be no doubt that a constant repetition of this erroneous idea will have a bad effect. To correct it now becomes absolutely necessary. For that purpose this meeting has been called. There will be no Democratic speeches, no Republican speeches, but an expression of sentiment from business men of all political faiths as to what will be the best course to pursue to correct the erroneous impressions that are being so industriously circulated to our detriment.

On motion of Mr. Balderston, Ex-Governor West was made chairman.

In responding to the honor conferred, Governor West said We are not here as politicians tonight. Partizanship has nothing to do with our gathering. We are here for the purpose of seeing the manhood of Salt Lake City. Business men, irrespective of political party affiliations, have met to disprove the idea that our business interests are jeopardized. The communities that prosper are those that put their shoulders to the wheel and all push together. That is what makes Denver and Omaha what they are. Are there any conditions existing here which preclude our citizens from being men, with all the rights of Americans? When I came here I found all the conditions inviting for a great city. I found that all the things that go to make up a great city were not taken advantage of. Look at these handsome buildings that line our streets. They are not the product of one class or another, but of all classes. Then they had little adobe, now they have buildings that reach almost to the skies. Now, it is asserted that unless the Liberals are successful no more buildings will go up, and that real estate will go down. As one working for the interests of the city, I say to capital that these people have done right in catching the spirit of enterprise. I say to every man who has a business, to every man who has property, that if you believe that strife will help your business you are mistaken. No person cares to live where there is contention. I believe that it is the duty of our citizens to meet and protest against a condition that will keep capital out, and drag real estate values down.

On motion Judge Elias Smith was elected secretary.

On motion of Mr. Balderston the chair was authorized to appoint a committee to draft resolutions.

Messrs. Balderston, Lynch, Dyer, Lett, Campbell, Critchlow, Cummings, Jennings, and E. G. Woolley were appointed.

M. A. Park moved that the committee be increased to fifteen; carried. The following were added by the chair: Messrs. Park, Wellock, Robinson, Harper and Lapsley.

HON. JAMES SHARP

was called for and responded in substance as follows—As I view the situation, we are to consider if it is inimical for us to become Democrats and Republicans. It is charged that we are endangering the business interests because we are about to affiliate with the great national parties of the United States, because we have turned our backs on the past and placed our faces to the future. We must decide like men on this question. There are the great national parties with pride of ancestry and hope of posterity, and there is a party that has neither pride of ancestry nor hope of posterity. [Great laughter.] We are told by that party that by taking up with the great national parties we will bring upon us a financial panic. The lot of my fellow citizens in the United States is good enough for me. My honest opinion is that there is a future awaiting us brighter than we ever dreamed of. The present is glorious enough for honest men to contemplate. Ghoulds alone dig in the graves of the past. As we leave the past and live in the present, keeping our eye on the future, we will bring all the men of Utah in line with this promising future. [Applause.]
