Dr. Mayo and Alma Katz Come to Blows Over Alleged Broken Political Promises.

WAS BRIEF BUT LIVELY SET-TO.

Neither Man Much Hurt-Incident the Occasion of No Little Excitement-Both Men Tell Their Stories.

There was a lively fistle encounter at the corner of East and South Temple streets this forenoon. The principals were Dr. Mayo, county physician and Alma Katz. Their troubles were the result of alleged broken convention promises. It appears that Katz accused Mayo of voting for Cutler for governor when it was claimed he had given his word that he would support The charge was first made in the convention. Then it was published in the Herald yesterday morning. Mayo said it was not true, and this morning met Mr. Katz at the corner of Second South and East Temple streets shortly after 10 o'clock. The men tell quite different stories of the fight. This is what they say:

MR. KATZ'S VERSION.

Mr. Katz when seen by a representa-ive of the "News" said: "I want to give you the facts in the case. Here they are: I had just been into the bank to draw some money and came ou with $500 in my pocket to give to my mother, who leaves for Europe in the mother, who leaves for Europe in the morning. My hands were in my pocket to protect it. As I came out I saw Dr. Mayo get out of his buggy. Then he came towards me and I expected trouble for I had heard that he was going to smash me. Accordingly I took off my glasses and put them in my pocket and got into a condition in which I could defend myself if necessary. The doctor talked guietly for a moment and doctor talked quietly for a moment and was not as belligerent as I anticipated. ha little he became apparently quite reasonable and concluded that he did not mean fight. I put my hand in my pocket and replaced my glasses on my nose. Then I took out a cigar and was proceeding to light it when without a word of warning the doctor did smash me. I was not much burt however. me. I was not much hurt, however, and closed with him in a twinkling but did not land on his face though I will warrant that he has quite as many bruises as I have. This encounter on the sidewalk lasted for a couple of minutes when we rolled down the steps together. As we went down we were both hurt some and my money rolled out right and left, a fact that I quickly out right and left, a fact that I quickly discovered. A crowd commenced to gather and I wrenched myself loose and commenced to pick up my cash, which I wanted more at that particular moment than I did Mayo though I am perfectly willing to meet at any time and place and will do so as soon as I can find him for I expect to lick him good and plenty when I do find him. He made the promise before the primary to support Wells. He made it to me afterward and he made it in the convention. He probably knows why he didn't keep his word. That is about all there is to the story beyond the fact that you see I am not badly hurt. DR. MAYO'S VERSION.

Dr. Mayo when seen gave his version of the trouble as follows.

"I have been a Cutler man right along, but I did not feel disposed to tell Mr. Katz just where I stood because I did not take kindly to his bull-dozing tacties. I went down to the convention and cast two votes for Mr. Cutler, not that I had anything against Governor Wells, whom I consider a perfect gentleman, but simply owing to political reasons. After the nomination Mr. Katz came over to me and sneer ingly referred to me as 'the honorable Dr. Mayo;' I did not take any notice of him even when he called me 'a breaker of pledges;' because I put it down to his feeling bad over the result. Then he went around among my personal friends saying all sorts of scurrilous things about me, and calling me a---, which of course all came back to me. That evening I made up my mind that I would see him and ask for an explanation, but he left the convention early. The next morning the Her-aid came out with an interview which I have reason to know Katz wrote him-see him—in fact I waited on Second South to meet him. I asked him to ex-plain his conduct. He said that he was not responsible for the Herald inter-view. I told him that he was. One word led to another and then I knocked word led to another and then I knocked him down. He came at me again and I knocked him down once more. Then we both rolled down the steps under the Walker bank and both of us kept going until he begged me to stop. I then went to the telephone and called up the chief and told him what had happened and where he could find me in case I was wanted. That is all there is to it.

"I don't propose that any ward heeler and buildozer like Mr. Katz is shall speak of me and to me in the fashion that he did, and I did the only thing possible to let him know my position." This morning's fight was the second physical encounter of Mr. Katz within the past 24 hours, as he had a mix-up with Walter Price, a Cutler supporter, at Saltair last evening. Friends preat Saltair last evening. Friends vented serious damage being done.

According to special dispatches from Portland, Or., to the Salt Lake morning papers the Salt Lake delegation to the American Mining congress met at the Hotel Portland last night and passed resolutions regarding the insulting remarks and insinuations that were uttered on the floor of the convention by Lafe Pence and others supporting Denver. The resolutions were as follows:

"Whereas, During the seventh annual session of the American Mining congress, assembled at Portland, Or. congress, assembled at Portland, Or., particularly in connection with proceedings incident to the locating of permanent headquarters of the congress, certain remarks and insinuations were made on the part of the Colorado delegation, in the seventh annual session of the congress, which remarks and insinuations are in the nature of an unwarranted insult on the moral and social status of Utah; and "Whereas, A certain newspaper, to wit, the Oregonian, published at Portland, Or., has directly and by innuendo sought to frustrate the open and honorable efforts of the people of Utah to

I shall do all I can in the future to let our people know that they are not wanted in Oregon, that tourists and strangers had best keep away, and I shall urge to the best of my ability that neither the city of Salt Lake nor the state of Utah appropriate one cent toward the Lewis and Clark fair and that not one single citizen of Utah visits that exposition."

REGULARS AND MILITIA MIX.

Uncle Sam's Soldiers Rushed the Guard at Camp Black Hawk.

BAYONET CHARGE BY N. C. U.

Several Were Bowled Over and Slightly Hurt During Disgraceful Scuffle Last Night.

(Special to the "News.")

Camp Black Hawk, Aug. 27 .- On the ast night of the encampment, there was an unfortunate occurrence, tending to mar the otherwise pleasant and peaceful encampment. The accounts of the affair are somewhat conflicting, but too much liquor on the part of several civilians appears to have originated the trouble, these parties having imbibed at the Resort saloon. They were in the dancing hall, where they made slurring remarks about the guardsmen, calling them pinheads, tin soldiers, etc. These remarks were resented by the guardsmen, and a disturbance resulted. At the close of the lance at 12:30 a.m., a hack was proceed ing towards the city with a heavy load of passengers. One account says that the civillans were ordered out of the hack, and were told that they would not be allowed to proceed. As there were several aldies in the party, the men insisted on proceeding to town. Maj. A. L. Thomas, Jr., who is charged with making insulting remarks, that they were not ladies, for ladies would not be there at that time of night. This angered the crowd, and at about this time sevthe crowd, and at about this time stereral regulars who had been out after taps rushed the guards. The crowd jeered the guardsmen, and Lieut. R. A. Young, officer of the guard, ordered a bayonet charge. In driving back the crowd, and inflicting slight wounds on was knocked down by Bern Walton, He was promptly taken to the guardhouse. Lieut. Young was also assaulted and beaten. He finally succeeded in drawing his sabre and made several savage swings with it But no one was within its reach. The guardsmen next proceeded to the sa-lcon, and arrested two young men who were supposed to have assaulted Lieut. Young. This was a mistake, however, the real offenders effecting their escape. They were, however, kept guardhouse with Bern Walton kept in th night. The grounds were now cleared, and the incident closed.

Capt. Smith who was the officer of the day, says that some of these state-ments are incorrect, as there was no intention of keeping the hack from returning to town, and the "charge" was not a charge. The boys simply made a march without of charging the enemy. without any intentior

COVERNOR INSPECTS TROOPS.

Expressed Himself as Well Pleased With Their Appearance-Medals Awarded.

Special Correspondence. Camp Black Hawk, Aug. 27 .- The slight showers of Thursday night having passed over, the sun rose Friday morning on a bright, pleasant day-an ideal governor's day. Gov. Wells and party arrived at Provo City over the Rio Grande Western on the 9:21 train. In the party were Gov. Wells, Col. Lockwood, Adjt.-Gen. C. S. Burton, Judge Advocate General Benner X. Smith and Cols. Ferry and Spencer; also the following ladies: Mesdames Wells, Hempstead, Burton

The party was met at the depot by officers of the N. G. U. and the U. S. A. and Troop A, N. G. U., as a military escort. After a brisk gallop, they arrived at the parade grounds, half a mile to the east of the encampment. On the arrival of the party a governor's salute of 17 guns was fired by Battery stood at attention and were inspected by the governor and staff. The inspection completed, the officials, in the absence of a reviewing stand, took positions on one side of the parade ground, and the troops, headed by the Twentyninth infantry band, marched in review before them.

Both guardsmen and regulars, presented a magnificent and soldierly appearance, and to enhance the splendor of the scene, there was a beautiful background of green foliage, trees and shrubbery, against which the brown uniforms appeared to the very best advantage.
After the review the Twelfth battery went through an exhibition drill The evolutions and changes in battle formation were gone through with won-derful precision and rapidity.

GOVERNOR WELL PLEASED.

The governor expressed himself as being very much pleased with the review and the drill, and regretted that a larger number of residents of the state were not present to witness the drill.

The smallness of the attendance was due to the fact that only a very few knew that the drill was to be given, no publication of the event having been made through the press, the governor having been unable to state definitely when he would be present until the evening before.

At the conclusion of the drill, the

This was followed by a band concert which was very much enjoyed by his excellency and friends. Gov. Wells thanked the band very kindly for the

The party was entertained at mess by the Guard officers, the novelty of the situation being interesting, at least, And the spread itself, was fully up to the standard for soldiers. Neither the governor, his staff, nor the ladies, were heard to make any "kick" about the grub.

MEDALS AWARDED.

Gov. Wells had a very pleasant duty to perform in the awarding of medals to members of the Guard who have been in the service five or eight years respectively, or a greater length of time. The medals are very neat bronze affairs, and contain the state emblem of the bee hive, surmounted by an eagle, also the initials N. G. U. To the five year medals are attached by several links a bar with the inscription, "5 years." The eight year medals have attached an additional bar with the inscription, "8 years."

The guardsmen who were to receive the medals stood at attention before the governor and staff, while Mrs. Wells of the governor, pinned the badge on the coat of each veteran and at the same time uttered a few well chosen words of compliment to him.

At the conclusion of this pretty cerenony, the governor congratulated those who had been honored with badges, and added that the militia had been established and would remain a premanent institution of the state. The Legisla-ture, he believed, would make such necessary appropriations as would in-sure its permanency and growth. The names of those who received medals are as follows:

In one or two cases the tents accidentally fell down, as is customary on the night of encampments, and other little things of a quiet nature occurred here and there to disturb the rest of the yeary guardsman. But in general there vas less commotion than is usual on

After breakfast, the boys proceeded to pack their various belongings, and get everything ready for departure. The grounds were cleaned from all rubbish and left neat and tidy. Tent ropes and left neat and tidy. Tent ropes were loosened, and a squad stood at each tent ready for the command to

ALL TENTS DOWN. At il o'clock the "general" was sounded, and the signal gun was fired, As if by magic, all the tents fell to the ground, and Black Hawk, the city of tents, ceased to exist.

11:30 the guardsmen were served the customary refreshments of baked beans, etc., and at 12:30, took up the line of march to Provo City and to the R. G. W. depot.

By 3:30, the cars were loaded, the men were aboard, the whistle sounded, the boys waived good bye to their friends, and were gone.
