

MAZZA CASE IN HANDS OF JURY.

Attorney Loofbourou Claims that Murder Charge Has Been Fully Proved.

SHOOTING WAS JUSTIFIABLE.

So Says Attorney Newton for the Defendant—Latter and Wife on The Stand.

The trial of the case of the State of Utah against Frank Mazza, charged with murder in the first degree for the killing of Joseph Vatrella in this city on the night of Sept. 6, 1905, was concluded in Judge Armstrong's court this afternoon and the matter is now in the hands of the jury.

The evidence in the case was concluded yesterday afternoon and when court opened this morning Dist. Atty. Loofbourou made the opening argument for the state. He contended that the state had proven a case of murder in the first degree, and that the testimony on that matter was conclusive. Even if Vatrella had insulted Mazza, the attorney for the state argued that Mazza was not justified in shooting him as that would be taking the law in his own hands.

Atty. Newton in his argument contended that Mazza was perfectly justified in shooting Vatrella because of the insult to his wife. Not only was he justified because of the insult, but he had the perfect right to defend himself against the assaults of Vatrella who came towards him in a threatening manner. The shooting, he contended, was justifiable and was also in self-defense.

MRS. MAZZA'S TESTIMONY.

At the afternoon session of the trial yesterday Frank Mazza, the defendant, and his wife were the principal witnesses. Mrs. Mazza said that Vatrella had insulted her four times, and that on the evening of the shooting he insulted her and she went into the house crying and her husband made her tell him what was the matter. She said that he then went across the street to Vatrella's house and she accompanied him.

DEFENDANT ON STAND.

Mazza said that after his wife told him what Vatrella had done he took the revolver away from her and went over to Vatrella's house. He called to Vatrella several times before the latter came out. After the defendant asked Vatrella why he had insulted his wife he said the latter made a movement as if reaching in his hip pocket for a gun, whereupon the defendant shot him. He said that he feared he would be killed, and that was the reason he shot Vatrella.

COURT NOTES.

The case of the State of Utah against Albert Allerton, charged with an attempted criminal assault, has been continued indefinitely by Judge Armstrong. Judge Morse has rendered a decree in favor of plaintiff in the case of E. C. Waltemeyer against Charles M. Lees et al, quieting plaintiff's title to part of lot 1, block 85, plat C, Salt Lake City survey.

The suit of J. A. Largent against Henry Catrow, in which $500 shares of the Columbia and Board of Trade West Mountain district are involved, has been transferred to the federal court. Largent claims to have a lien on the stock through a breach of contract.

Peter Fotis, administrator of the estate of his brother Samuel Fotis, who was killed in the Lagoon cut-off explosion, has filed suit in the federal court to recover $10,000 in damages from the Southern Pacific company. A former suit for the same amount was dismissed without prejudice on motion of the plaintiff early in the November term of the court.

TOMATO CANS LEAKED.

Accordingly an Oregon Company Sues Utah Concern for $3,564.21.

From the appearance of a suit filed today in the federal court by the Oregon Packing company, of Portland, Or., against the Wasatch Orchard company, doing business at Ogden, Utah, one home manufacturing concern at least has turned out a product that failed to give satisfaction.

The suit is to recover sums aggregating $3,564.21 for cans delivered to the packing company, which proved to be defective and leaky, and which caused the fruit packed in them to spoil, and become a total loss to the company.

It is alleged that the contract was made in 1903 for the delivery of 1,350,000 cans of different sizes during the packing season of 1903, the sellers to take all that leaked at cost, in excess of four per cent.

Of the cans delivered it was found early in the season that they were springing leaks, not in ones or twos, but in thousands, and the order was suspended. The company, however, agreed to keep the cans already delivered and in transit, provided the sellers would pay for the leaky ones. There were over 25,000 of these, and when the company suggested sending them back, the sellers promised, it is alleged, to send a man over and adjust the loss, paying for it when adjusted.

This the company failed to do, and the packers are now suing to recover $2,883.59 alleged to be due on leaking cans discovered in the factory, $190.62 alleged to be due for leaky cans returned from customers, who bought under a pledge that the company would make good any losses, and $500 loss from leaking cans returned since the packing season of 1903, but not used on the pledge that the sellers would make good losses, if the company would continue to use their output.

LOST BALANCE AND BROKE NECK

Fatal Accident to Barney Vogel, Well Known Salt Lake Engineer.

HAPPENED SIX DAYS AGO.

Taken to the Holy Cross Hospital Where He Died on Wednesday Night—Who He Was.

Barney Vogel, a mechanical engineer aged 24 and unmarried, broke his neck in a very peculiar way and with fatal results Saturday evening last, the unfortunate man dying Wednesday evening, at the Holy Cross hospital. He was enjoying himself with a group of young people at his boarding place, 279 west Third South street, and at the time was standing on the stairs.

As he reached over the banisters to catch at one of the party, he lost his balance and fell over onto the floor below. The fall was not over four feet, but Vogel struck on his head, and his feet went over against the wall, and slid over onto the floor. When picked up it was found that his neck had been broken, and he was quickly sent by Dr. Mazza, who was summoned to the Holy Cross hospital. It was ascertained there that it was a fatal case, for the man was paralyzed from the neck down, and could not keep any food on his stomach. When he was fed the food would ferment, gas accumulate, and the contents of the stomach would be forced up and out. The patient gradually failed, the immediate cause of death being suffocation from the failure of the thoracic muscles to act. Vogel was unconscious until just before he died when for a brief time he regained consciousness. His father, who lives in Texas, had been visiting him, and the body is being held for disposition subject to his order.
