EDITORIAL NOTES.

Grasshoppers are hatching out in Sierra Valley, Nevada, although the snow is not all gone.

Italy is now importing foreign cereals at the rate of $30,000 tons per year, its own agricultural products being insufficient.

The immigration wave is still booming and the chief ports of Europe are all contributing to the tide of humanity that is flowing towards the United States.

Volume IV. of "Knight's Popular History of England" has been received at Dwyer's. Price 30 cents. This is a standard work, and is published in this cheap form without abridgement.

A French nobleman, Viscount de Brioux Saint-Laurent, has published a book against dancing. It is denunciations of what is generally known in this country as "round dancing," and the close embrace of the modern style is condemned in vigorous language. The author is in opposition to an immense social majority, but he is in the right, nevertheless.

A man named Veal, near Calistoga, California, put yehrine in an egg to poison some animals that were robbing the hens' nests. By some chance the egg was taken to the house, put among the good eggs, and used to make custard. Mr. Veal and others were made quite ill, and felt worse when they discovered they were poisoned. Antidotes were taken, a doctor sent for and the sick men recovered. Veal will not put poison into eggs again.

The population of Chili, which has lately been waging war with Peru and Bolivia is about 2,130,000, of whom 50,000 are Indians. Mining is the chief industry of the country, although agriculture is followed to a considerable extent. It has a thousand miles of railroad, 3,300 miles of telegraph, 15,000 miles of highways, 1,100 miles of common roads, and 2,700 miles of water routes. Its public debt is $22,548,000, which shows that Chili is considerable of a country.

Brother Daniel Graves, of Provo, has published a neat pamphlet of forty-two pages, on Sericulture. This is destined to be a profitable industry in Utah, and, as Brother Graves is an authority on the subject, his treatise will be valuable to all who take an interest in silk culture. It gives a synopsis of silk history, and treats of the cultivation of necessary trees, the various kinds of silk worms, their diseases and remedies therefor, feeding, hatching, preservation of eggs and cocoons and other matters connected with the business.

Experiments made in Norway by Professor Schubert with wheat, corn and grain crops show that under the influence of the continuous sunshine, day and night, for two months in the Arctic Circle, these grains gain in color and hardiness. He planted wheat from Ohio and Kentucky, and found that every year they acquired a richer and darker hue and became better able to resist the rigor of the climate. It is thought that fruits and grain may, by being taken from warmer climates into the Arctic regions and acclimated, be used to advantage in places subject to frost and excessive cold.

The San Francisco Chronicle of April 30, publishes a dispatch with John H. Clemetshaw's Salt Lake reputation, and has the following about his appearance in court: "The Sheriff's witness, John Hobson Clemetshaw, who on Wednesday evening was arrested for perjury, committed when he told a most improbable story at the inquest held on the day previous upon the body of Charles de Young, appeared yesterday morning in the Police Court to answer the charge. Defendants, standing in the dock, said that he was not ready to proceed with his examination, and desired a continuance until Tuesday next. Being an Englishman, he asked that the British Consul receive notification of his arrest and detention, in order that the Consul might obtain the services of an attorney. The defendant wanted in addition, papers, pens and ink, that he might apprise his friends of his situation. The continuance was granted, and defendant remanded. It appears that during his stay on the coast, Clemetshaw has been conversing with a lady known as 'The Galloping Cow'."

PROHIBITION IN MAINE.

The State of Maine is recognized as the great field of prohibition. There are conflicting statements as to its success. It has been pronounced by many persons as a failure, and quite recently a clerical correspondent of the Boston Herald gave a number of statistics to prove that prohibition does not prohibit in Maine. In the town of Biddeford, he says, "28 persons have taken out United States licenses to sell," and, according to a statement in a local paper, there are "more than 100 rum shops" in the place. The traffic in Bangor is represented as "open and unlimited," and "there is more liquor sold to-day in Portland than ever before." The number of club-rooms in Portland is stated at 80. A great evil, it is said, men are led to think it justifiable to disregard and circumvent law. Another evil produced by the Maine law is said to be the greatly increased use of opium.

But against these statements are reports from many Maine newspapers, which represent that prohibition is a success. They declare that it is now twenty-nine years since the system was first adopted in the State, and with the exception of 1856 and 1857, when the license plan was tried, more or less stringent laws on the subject of the liquor traffic have been in force. The friends of prohibition assert that the Maine law have been exceedingly beneficial, that they have so moulded public opinion that no political party dares advocate their repeal, that the manufacture of liquor in the State has been entirely suspended, and that except in a few of the larger cities its sale, even in the most secret way, is unknown. Fifty years ago, it is asserted, nearly every male drank, while at the present time three-fourths of the population are total abstemious people.

In regard to the surreptitious sale of liquor in the State the opponents of prohibition, who would naturally be inclined to exaggeration in the matter, do not place the quantity disposed of in this way at more than a million and a quarter dollars worth. It is further claimed that the whole average expenditure for intoxicants per capita in other States is about $15 per annum, in Maine it is only about $2 a year.

If these statements are correct, and they have not been disproved, it appears that prohibition laws can be made effective, and that the liquor traffic, which is the most demoralizing branch of business in the world, can be kept within comparatively narrow limits, when courts will sustain the law and public opinion is in any large degree favorable to its execution.

IT CAN BE DONE.

WOMAN can hold her tongue. This has been demonstrated. The statement may be received within credulity but it is nevertheless well authenticated. A ladies' society on the outskirts of the city of Chicago being in need of funds—and where is there a society of males or females or both that is not?—was promised by a wealthy gentleman a considerable sum for the treasury if the members could meet for one afternoon, each with her own sewing, and attend to her own individual business without speaking a word during the regular time for society work. The ladies met and worked and triumphed. The local paper reported the affair as follows:

"Though the sighs and groans were many and heartrending the laughing grew quite dangerous; though at times the quiet was quite unusual, yet the clink of the knitting needles, the rustle of the fancy work or the winding of yarn would make it quite lively. Only the tongues were still. Though some were forced to listen to the chatter of a tongue, or a thimble in their mouths, though the strips of court plaster were on hand, though the bottle of manoceline was several times passed around—taking them altogether, nothing of the kind was required, save the word and the will of the ladies, who had pledged themselves to hold their tongues for the requisite amount for their treasury."

Now, who says woman can't hold her tongue when she has a mind to?

BY TELEGRAPH.

THE FOLLOWING DISPATCH RECEIVED BY THE AMERICAN TELEGRAPH LINE.

MURDERED FOR TRESPASSING.

PARSONS, N. Y., 3. The German soldier, Josef, yesterday morning went to the top of Garrett mountain to greet the rising sun as usual on the first Sunday in May. A party of young men, among them Joseph Van Houten, a step-son of Alexander Smith, of the Parsons municipal board, attempted to trespass on the lands of a farmer owning property on the mountain top. They were forbidden to trespass, but persisted, and young Van Houten was shot dead by Daniel. The party then pursued by Daniel to his house, where the police were powerless to protect him. They fired the barn and house, and when he came forth seeking help, he was shot dead. The body was found already in position, when a reinforcement of policemen arrived and Dazell and his son, who was also implicated, were rescued from the crowd, and taken to New York.

Key's Successor.—The Inter-Ocean's special says: The selection of Postmaster General Key's successor will be postponed until after the Chicago convention.

Important Railroad Issue.—Congressman Newberry, of Michigan, received a private telegram from interested friends, announcing that the Washakie Railroad has leased by Daniel to the Canadian Pacific, thus making another trunk line from San Francisco to New York. James F. Jay went to Europe for this purpose, to secure the lease from the foreign stockholders of the Great Western, and this dispatch indicates that he has accomplished his purpose. Newberry has further information that the Great Western will build a line from the Canadian Pacific to Lewistown, and then connect with the Oregon and Western road, which was formerly known as the New York and Midland, and runs from Lewistown to Orem and New York city. This will give Jay Gould an unbroken trunk line from San Francisco to New York. It is understood here that James Keyes and other New York speculators were unloading Lake Shore and North Western stock in New York on Saturday as fast as they could, without breaking the market, which would seem to indicate that Newberry's news is true. It is believed now that the introduction of the Hurd bill was among other policies intended to prevent the lease.

Seven for Sherman.—Congressman Ben Young, of Cincinnati, has returned from South Carolina, where he has been looking after Sherman's interests. He says he has pledged from seven of the South Carolina delegates to the Chicago convention for Sherman on the first ballot. This information is very surprising from the fact that no delegates to the Chicago convention have been told of instructions to vote for Sherman from South Carolina for Grant.

Veto and Approval.—The President will send to the House, to-day or Tuesday, a veto of the little deficiency bill. His approval of the army bill will go in at the same time. There is a "dead-war" element in the cabinet that has urged the veto of the appropriation bill for the army also, but the President thinks the Hurd amendment is strictly germane and to be considered as an enlargement of the bill. It does not differ in any degree, in his mind, from the army bill that was approved by him last year, and he has already attached his signature to the measure.

Good Bye.—The funeral of Patrick Hoy, better known as James Cooke, clown and equestrian, was held yesterday afternoon. When Cooke knew that he was about to die he was asked by the priest who attended him to renounce the principles of the church, to which he had been ardently attached from his boyhood. He refused to do this, saying that Masonry was as good a religion to him as the Catholic faith, in which he had been educated. He then requested that none but Masonic brethren should be held over his body, and his request was fulfilled to the letter.

Bennett's Admirer's.—Chickering Hall was densely packed last night by sympathizers of D. M. Bennett, recently released from imprisonment for sending alleged obscene matter through the mails. E. Wright presided and a dozen others besides Bennett spoke. Whenever Tom Paine's and Bennett's names were mentioned the cheering was wild. The following among other resolutions was adopted:

Resolved, That though religiously, Anthony Comstock is a creature of the church, politically he is a product of the republican party, and that his policy is the work of a "god in the Constitution" proposition comes within two votes of receiving a two-thirds majority in the Senate in a late Congress (1878), 28 votes, all republican, being cast for it, and 16, all democratic, against it, these names have not received the reserve parties should be taken into careful consideration by every voter, unless the party dismiss Comstock.

Not Affected.—The Bulletin, here says: A large importing house, who have agents in China, have not received any confirmatory advices regarding the reported troubles with Russia, and the price of tea is not affected in the least.

Forrest's Church.

CHICAGO, 3.—The Church of the Latter-day Saints (Mormons) was dedicated at 619 West Lake Street, yesterday, by Jos. Smith, Jr. Mark H. Forecutt will be pastor. Polygamy is not one of the tenets.

Still in Ashes—New Building.—The site of the late hotel and railroad station at Sandy, which were burned some time ago, is still a heap of ashes. No effort is being made to replace the building destroyed at that point. A little to the south, however, on the west side of the track, a new railroad house is going up rapidly, but there will be no hotel attached to it, as before.

Railroad Dignitaries.—At half-past 5 o'clock, last night, Sidney Dillon, Esq., S. H. H. Clark, Esq., Messrs. Kimball and Vining, and other Union Pacific magnates, arrived in Salt Lake by special train, and this morning at 6 o'clock, went down the Utah Southern on a tour of inspection. They traveled at a lively speed, the road from here to

"Round the World."—This evening, Mr. John Thompson makes his first and only appearance before the Salt Lake public, when will be presented his amusing specialty, "Round the World in 80 Minutes," preceded by the laughable farce, "Sweethearts." In the former Mr. Thompson personates Irish, Italian, Dutch, French, Chinese, English, Yankee and other characters, and performs in various kinds of musical instruments. He will be assisted by Miss Dotie Nagle and Miss Mollie Thompson. The entertainment, it will be seen, is one of variety and spirit, and one which, to judge by the tickets already sold, will be well patronized. All who design going should at once secure seats.

On the Way.—President A. O. Smoot and his son, Mr. Reed Smoot, of Provo, came to the city last evening, and left this afternoon for San Francisco, from which port they will take the steamer New York, for the Sandwich Islands, on the 8th inst. The intention of the party was to start from here to-morrow, with the vessel will leave San Francisco two days earlier than was supposed, an earlier departure from this point is necessitated. Our best wishes attend Brother Smoot and his son on their journey, which we hope will be pleasant, safe and profitable.

The Right Man.—An article in the Enquirer of Saturday, headed "The Wrong Man," contains assertions to the effect that Mr. John Thompson, who is to appear here this evening, is not the original John Thompson with whom theatre-goers are familiar, as a versatile and successful comedian; that the actor who plays here to-night was in Provo last week, engaged the theatre there for Monday night, and then left without playing or explaining why, etc. Mr. Thompson, having seen the article, writes a communication to us, denying in toto the whole matter. He stoutly affirms that he is the "original and only John Thompson" of the mimic stage, and has been before the public for 20 years in all the principal cities of the east. One of his specialties is the sensational drama, "On Hand," which is well remembered by some persons in this city who saw it played by Mr. Thompson years ago, and who state that he is an excellent actor. He is at a loss to know why the Enquirer attacks him so bitterly and unjustly.

Good Bye.—To-day we shook hands with, and said good bye to Elder Charles W. Stayner, who left this afternoon for a mission to Great Britain, accompanied by his wife. The gentleman and lady are well known in this community, and have many friends behind them to wish their success and prosperity during their absence, and a safe return home when the proper time shall arrive. Mr. Stayner leaves his land business in which he has been successfully engaged for several years in the hands of his brother, Mr. Arthur Stayner, the well known efficient Probate Clerk and Recorder of Davis County, who will go into partnership with Mr. Jos. F. Shumons, the junior of the late firm. The two will carry on the cases and attend to all the business entrusted to the firm, and are well qualified for such purposes. We cheerfully recommend them to the public. We also wish Brother and Sister Stayner a hearty farewell for a season, hope to hear from them often, and bid them Godspeed on their journey abroad.

Corner Stone.—The ceremony of laying the corner stone of St. Paul's Chapel, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity of this city, took place this afternoon. The procession was headed by the Fort Douglas Military band, and paraded the streets previous to the services. A large concourse assembled at the corner of Main and Fourth South Streets where the ceremony was performed. The Masons presented a very imposing appearance.

Railroad Casualties.—From the Junction of Saturday, we learn that on Friday Mr. Ed. Luty, while engaged in switching in the depot yard, in Ogden, had one of his feet fearfully smashed and cut. From what can be learned of the affair, the young man, while arranging a break, must have lowered his foot too much, and the cars coming together smashed it in the terrible manner above stated.

A little boy while engaged in picking up coal near the yard yesterday, was knocked down by a train, and one of his limbs severely injured.
