WOMAN'S WORLD.

のないなななのなかのなかななななない A housewife whose laws are as fixed as those of the Medes and Persians will drive her family away, especially the children. Good fellowship and jolity in the home should be a part of the good discipline, and not looked upon as a crime. I am personally acquainted with a housewife, not a home maker, in Brookline, who boasts that her husband and her son never enter the front door in wet weather. They have been discland climb three flights of stairs to their sitting room. They are never allowed to smoke in the house. They are not allowed to rest upon a sofa in dressing gown and slippers, because it is not dignified. This surely seems like strain-ing at a gnat and swallowing a camel, Ing at a gnat and swallowing a camel, and such discipline in most homes would drive the family away from it. On the other hand, the members of the household should not be encouraged to be tardy at meals. That, above every-thing else, makes trouble with servants. There should be a restriction on untidi-ness of all kinds, and the home should not be made a renderways for all of the ness of all kinds, and the home should not be made a rendezvous for all of the boys and giris in the neighborhood any hour of the day, to ransack the garret, deplete the ice box and throw things into confusion. There is a hap-py medium which the genuinely good housewife will discover if she tries. It is not necessary to drive away her young people to find their "fun" in oth-er homes-which they always compare to the disadvantage of their own-just because they may be a little trouble-some or may seem to infringe on house-hold discipline. One can be a good housekeeper, taking the most particu-iar care of all her possessions, and not make them more important than the happiness and comfort of her family.-Debon Ayr in Leslie's Weekly. 金属のない
