LOCAL BRIEFS.

Stockholders' Election.—The national banks hold their annual stockholders' election next week.

Wife Ill at Hospital.—Bert Ulmer is in town from Goldfield, in attendance on his wife, who is very ill at Holy Cross hospital.

Two New Citizens.—John Nielsen Holman and Gilbert Wilks were admitted to citizenship in the district court yesterday.

Fees of Secretary of State.—The fees and taxes collected by the secretary of state for the last quarter of 1907 amounted to $31,386.18.

Board to Meet at Logan.—The state board of horticulture will meet to-night, at Logan, to arrange for the program of the annual meeting, which is to be held in this city, Jan. 20-21.

William Mackintosh Secretary.—William Mackintosh has been appointed secretary of the state board of corrections, in the place of the late Harrell Pratt. He is now occupying the desk.

New Deputy Auditor.—Although the announcement has not been made, Auditor Aik will appoint Samuel I. Goodman as the successor of George Hancock, who goes into Gideon Snyder's office as a clerk.

Buy Home in Salt Lake.—Rev. Francis Short, the new pastor of the First Methodist church, has bought the residence at 37 H street, $3,110 feet, as he expects to remain in Salt Lake for some time.

Free Hebrew School.—The Congregation Montefiore is expending $2,000 in improvements on this school. This includes the refitting of the basement for a free Hebrew school which is maintained from 4 to 7 p. m.

Indoor Games Cease.—The Y. M. C. A. will not hold any more indoor games for boys under 17, for the present, on account of the prevalence of measles and scarlet fever. But the out-of-door exercises will continue.

Seed From Europe.—A carload of garden seed has been received from Europe by a local commission house. The consignment includes quite a number of varieties, which find a ready sale. The duty is 30 per cent ad valorem.

Quarters for Court.—At last, after much doubt in the matter, the juvenile court has been given a permanent quarters in the joint building. The court will be housed in the rooms being vacated by the city auditor and the auditor takes the rooms vacated by the court.

Enlarges Quarters.—Supt. Twining of the Pullman, this city, has found it convenient, in prospect of immediate increase of business, to double the size of his quarters in the Commercial club building, and has secured the apartment adjoining Room 214.

Handsome Presents.—Dean Brewster of St. Mark's cathedral is wearing at service a handsome new silk cassock, given him as a Christmas present. It is also the recipient of two new books on which he places much value; viz., "The Unknown God," by C. Loring Bruce, and "The Theology of the New Testament," by Prof. Stevens of Yale college.

Offices Being Removed.—The occupants of the offices on the second and third floors of the Keith building are moving out, as the entire premises are wanted by the dry goods firm for business purposes. While offices are none too plenty at present, the near completion of the Railroad Exchange building promises to take care of the surplus demand.

Forestry Meeting Date.—The convention for national forest inspectors of the fourth district, will be held here Jan. 22-25. The three branches of the forest service, viz., ranger, game and fish, will be represented, headed by A. A. Potter of Washington, chief of the division of grazing; W. G. Weigle of Washington, assistant chief of the division of management; C. S. Chapman of Washington, chief of the division of organization.

"Brango" Flourishing.—Lagoon resort has a new curiosity in the shape of a six weeks' old monkey, which has been named "Brango, the Monk." Two monkeys were born there a year ago, but they died of pneumonia in three weeks after birth. But this new arrival appears to be quite strong, and the monkey will grow up and amuse the children the coming season with his infantile antics. At present he is very lively.

Prof. King's Lecture.—Prof. Byron King of the King's College at Pittsburgh, Pa., lectured last night in the First Methodist church on "What Pools These Mortals Eat," taken from the second act of the third scene of A Midsummer Night's Dream. The speaker was happy in illustration, and pertinent in the application of his life and talents, which kept the audience in constant humor during the entire lecture.

Praise for the Christmas News.—Harry Corson Clark writes the "News" from a copy of the Christmas issue. He says that he is taking it in sections and devouring every word, carrying it along in his theater trunk to show people he means on route, all ways doing it. Mr. Clark hopes to come west next spring, though he has now been in vaudeville for three years past.

Woodmen Invited.—Excelsior camp No. 10,892, Modern Woodmen of America, initiated the following novelties last evening: J. P. Hsieh, E. E. Rich, E. C. Barber, C. W. Barnett, Sam C. Wilkinson, E. M. Smith, J. E. Whitehouse, E. Kohrt, T. Greenhalge, J. Budd, W. P. Pierce, H. K. Warwick, G. C. Fulkerson, J. L. Bartlett, William Edgington, A. W. Colles, W. H. Young, A. W. Hayes, J. C. Cole, C. B. HOW STEIN THE TIDE OF SUCCESS?

What Each Individual May Do to Stamp Out Diseases
Now Prevalent.

OPINIONS BY PHYSICIANS.

Contagion Carried Through Ignorance
Or Willfulness in Failing to Observe Health Regulations.

That it became desirable to extend the holiday school vacation one week on account of the prevalence of contagious disease in the city had the effect of opening the eyes of many to the actual situation. People who had not previously considered the obligations due from each citizen to the commonwealth, many of whom had not hesitated at slight infractions of the quarantine and health laws, began to sit up and take notice. A general inquiry into the causes for the existence of an unusual number of cases of measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, etc., was set in motion, with the result that violations of city health ordinances and of non-observance of quarantine regulations were given by physicians as the great contributory causes for the prevalent conditions. A number of prominent physicians were asked for their opinions on the matter, by the "News," and they responded as follows:

Dr. Beatty.—A notable violation of the health laws is the failure to report mild cases. This is due to two causes, (1) ignorance of the nature of the disease, (2) direct intention to break the law, in order to prevent the hardship of quarantine. In all cases of sore throat, or skin eruption, however mild, a child should be isolated right away, and if there is any doubt in the minds of parents, the child should be called in. I would go so far as to make it a part of the duty of the board of health to make an examination on the request of any person, to determine the character of the suspicious case. In this way the opposition to the employment of a physician in cases where the illness is too slight to require medical attention would be obviated, and the public health protected. It is a matter of common occurrence for members of quarantined families to break quarantine, and go to and fro, thus disseminating contagion in case of diphtheria, the quarantine period is generally insufficient. In no event should children be permitted to attend school until a bacteriological examination had demonstrated the absence of disease organisms. This is entirely feasible and a very important precautionary regulation. More care should be exercised on the part of public school teachers in recognizing cases of contagious diseases among their pupils. It would only require a brief time at the beginning of each school session to ascertain if any pupil has a head-ache, sore throat, or other symptom of illness; in which case the child should be sent home. While in school a child should be instructed to refrain from placing lead pencils or other light articles in their mouths, and should be taken that such things are not interchanged among pupils, as any germs lurking in the throat of one individual, are liable to be thus conveyed from one person to another.

NOT ENOUGH FRESH AIR. Another factor most important in connection with infectious diseases is susceptibility. This is directly affected by the environment of the individual. Bad ventilation and foul air are directly responsible for a large percentage of cases because they lower the vitality. There is no question of this, and it should be emphasized in every way possible. It is incredible the extent to which intelligent people exclude fresh air from their dwellings, reheating the old air with all the baleful effects. Every effort should be made to secure perfect ventilation. Observance of this would cure a large proportion of colds, pneumonias, and all other infectious diseases.

NEED MORE INSPECTORS. Dr. Deane.—A common form of health ordinance violation is indiscriminate throwing of garbage, ashes, waste water from washes over the sides of the street, and in street corners. Another form is breaking quarantine, paying no attention to its requirements, and not observing the principle of anything to beat the doctors. The thing to do is to have a larger force of health inspectors. We are handicapped by so few men and so large a territory to cover. There are only three inspectors, not over half a dozen inspectors; there should be 20. Denver is all districted, and maintains a small army of health inspectors who are supposed to make each 20 personal inspections daily, and report on the same. However, with the small force in hand, I suppose the Salt Lake municipal authorities are doing the best they can. There are many sewer connections that should be made that are not made now, by landlords and owners of property. These are the worst, and they are avoiding making all the improvements possible.

DO NOT OBSERVE QUARANTINE. Dr. Scott.—A special form of health ordinance violation is the passing of articles from infected houses among neighbors and neighbors, and the tendency to "take chances." To be sure, it costs $3 to call in a physician, and often a second visit is necessary; but notwithstanding this, it is to summon a doctor, to know of one case where a doctor delayed two days expecting that home doctoring would fill the bill, and at the expiration of the two days he discovered the sickness was diphtheria. So it is better to call in a physician when it may prove not necessary than to take chances, and face a dangerous contagious disease on one's hands. One person for failure to secure medical advice in time is the dread of possible quarantine, and the attendant inconveniences and sometimes heavy expense. It is to lay blame in many cases, but families ought to exercise due care, and not run the risk of scattering seeds of disease. People and children are running in and out of houses where unguarded sick may be lying down where the disease may have reached such a pronounced stage as to unmistakably indicate its character, but yet be throwing out the contagious germs. In the matter of cleanliness of premises, there is no excuse for that. Every house owner and holder is expected to keep his premises clean, and free from rubbish, which may be the means of occasioning trouble. If he does not, there are legal means to compel him to do so.

NOT MANY INFRACTIONS. Dr. A. C. Ewing.—I do not believe there are any frequent infractions of the health regulations at present; the laws are pretty well enforced. In cases of measles, the children can be isolated securely, left by themselves in some part of the house, and I do not think this ought to prevent adult members of the household from going and coming in the regular duties of the day, as they do not necessarily come in contact with the sick. However, in case of dangerous diseases, a more strict quarantine should be observed, and all but those in attendance on the sick should be compelled to board out.

ANOTHER SOURCE. In connection with this subject, attention is called to the fact that a large number of children's parties have been given only a few days ago by a prominent citizen of the Fourth precinct. It is charged that three children in whose honor the party was given were brought out with measles, and the naturally high temperature of the furnace heated house brought things to a head in short order. Those children were taken down immediately after the party, and the question is, how many of all that throng of attending children are now suffering from the disease?

REV. CARLISLE P. B. MARTIN, L. D. Of Waverly, Texas, writes: Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a cough and very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I find the medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take, I can most cordially recommend it. It is the best medicine for throat or lung trouble. Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 112-114 Main Street, Salt Lake City.

L. H. WHEELER IS KILLED

Huge Water Pipe Bursts, Tipping Casting on His Head.

L. H. Wheeler, superintendent of construction for the Boston Con. Mining company, died at St. Mark's hospital last evening from the effects of injuries received at the plant yesterday. A 20-inch water pipe burst, and a large block, permitting a fearfully strong stream of water to break loose, a 1,500-pound casting was tipped over. This struck Mr. Wheeler on the head, and he was killed.

Mr. Wheeler had been with the Boston Con. two years and a half and was highly regarded by all who knew him. Mr. Newhouse and Mr. Hanchett were shocked, and Mr. Wheeler's wife was very much distressed. He was brought to this city and taken to the hospital, but he lived only three hours after the accident.

A pathetic feature of the fatality was that Mr. Wheeler had just left A. J. Bettles and had promised to come into the city early so he could join his wife at the Bettles home. After dinner Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Bettles were to have gone to the theater. The evening thus planned to be most enjoyable was rendered gloomy and heartrending by the sudden accident.

ALL THE WORLD. Is a stage, and Ballard's Snow Lintment plays a most prominent part. It has no equal in the world. It cures colds, sprains, and all pains. Buy it, try it, and you will always use it. Anybody who has used it will testify to its value. A living proof of what it does. Buy a trial bottle. See 50c and 1.00. Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 112-114 Main Street, Salt Lake City.

WILL VISIT PROVO. The Manufacturers & Merchants' association is planning an excursion to Provo, to look into the matter of reopening the woolen mills there, and giving the business a hearty endorsement and moral support.

The plans for making the trip, which will be the first "get acquainted" excursion of the year, were matured at a meeting of the association last night, presided over by President Hewlett.

Wednesday evening an annual election of officers occurred at the directors' meeting. There were five directors whose terms of office expire. They are O. H. Hewlett, George Austin, W. G. Lambert, Theo. Nyström and W. R. Shiley. President Hewlett, who has been at the head of the organization since its initial founding, declares he will not be a candidate for re-election.

CURED LUMBAGO. A. B. Hansen, who has been troubled with lumbago, at different times and tried one physician after another, then different medicines, but without success. He got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Lintment, which gave him instant relief. He can cheerfully recommend it, and will add my name to your list of sufferers. Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 112-114 Main Street, Salt Lake City.

DENVER AFTER BRICK COMBINE

Citizens' Alliance Collects Evidence to be Used in Court.

DELAYS THE CITY'S GROWTH.

For This Reason Attorney General Will be Asked to Apply For Injunction.

Attorney General W. H. Dickson of Colorado, who has just been successful in securing an injunction against the food trust, is now to be asked to turn his attention to the brick trust of that state.

The activity against the brick trust is by the Denver builders who claim that it is a contributory cause to the delay in getting Denver to the stars the city ought to be, and that its high prices are putting a stop to all progress.

The builders claim that they cannot buy bricks except at the price fixed by the trust, and that the price is often comes in quantities so poor that a large portion of the amount bought has to be discarded. This charge is similar to that made by Salt Lake retailers of coal, who allege that they get so much soot weight from the mines, and so much soot that their profits disappear through these sources, and that no recourse is allowed them whatever.

In Denver an active citizens' alliance with George C. Manley as its secretary, has been organized to break up the trust against the food trust. He has also secured evidence against the brick trust, and is urging the Denver Real estate board to take action.

"The brick trust, through its own power and its alliance with the food trust, is keeping the city in a building in Denver," says Mr. Manley. "The price of common brick has been advanced from $6 and $7.50 per thousand, to $12.50 and $13.00 per thousand, and very much inferior to that which sold at the lower price is now produced by the companies in the trust."

All manufacturers of common brick with two exceptions, are members of the trust. These two exceptions are Ruben Clark & Company, with yards at west Seventh and Broadway, and Charles G. Pitkin, 1371 Meade street.

"All common brick manufactured by the companies in the trust is delivered through the Denver Mining Exchange building, the selling agent. The only place where common brick can be purchased is through Mr. Keefe, who makes the sale and collects the price. He takes 25 cents per thousand for all brick he sells."

"An example of the manner in which the trust is kept in existence is the construction of a building near the stockyards by the Colorado Packing company. Bricks which were sold through the trust, were found to be of such poor quality that the foreman refused to use the brick, as the wall of the building was to carry a heavy load."

"Keefe went to the site of the building, looked at the brick, and the job was declared unfair. I don't know how the matter was finally adjusted, but the attitude of the brick trust is to make whatever bricks are delivered and ask no questions and make no complaints."

"The bricklayers' union works in connection with the brick trust. The union recently decided that its members could not lay brick on any building where a concrete foundation is laid, and decided to refuse to lay brick on any building where a concrete foundation is laid. This is being done to discourage the use of concrete."

"The manufacturers of faced and pressed brick are not supposed to sell any brick for jobs which have been designated as unfair by the bricklayers' union. Nor will the companies sell any brick for use on common buildings, but common brick manufactured by companies not in the trust, is to be used. They also require that the brick they sell be laid by union labor, the same as manufacturers of common brick."

"The bricklayers' union will not lay any brick for use on common buildings, but common brick manufactured by companies not in the trust, is to be used. They also require that the brick they sell be laid by union labor, the same as manufacturers of common brick."

"The brick situation in Salt Lake is hardly one of the best in the country. The Hatch Brick company's offices this morning it was declared that no alliance existed, secret or open, between the brick dealers and the unions. The companies doing business in Salt Lake are the Kayville Brick company, with its yard near Lagoon, in which Simon Bamberger is a leading stockholder; the Salt Lake Brick company, in which W. E. Cahoon is largely interested, with yards east of Murray; the Hatch Brick company, with yards six miles north of Salt Lake; the Utah Fire Clay company, with plant near Big Water and Second and West streets, and the Western Fire Clay Products company, which is the incorporated title of the Ashton Fire Clay company, under which name the company has done business for a number of years.

CANNOT LOWER PRICES. Brick men claim that they cannot lower the price of brick, as there is not a 10 per cent margin in them. Lower coal and lower labor, they urge, must be secured before lower brick prices can be obtained. They claim that the price of brick is $1.00 per 1,000 for pressed brick, with cost of delivery added. This amounts to about $1.25 per 1,000 for common brick and about $1.50 per 1,000 for pressed brick. The difference being on account of the difference in handling. About 30,000, 000 brick have been annually consumed from these companies within the past year.

CARRIE NATION. Certainly smashed a hole in the barometer of Salt Lake, when she declared that she had a cure for all diseases. She has found a medicine that would cure all diseases as quickly as Ballard's Horehound Syrup. She has used it for years. Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 112-114 Main Street, Salt Lake City.
