But it will drive from the blood the polson that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatiam. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheu-matic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be un-reasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 20 days. This trial treat-ment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheu-matism-a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience-of actual knowledge. I know what it can do, And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Jensen, the professor stated that the as-sociation would have to decide where it is necessary to build additional canals or whether all lands can be reached by the present canals.

ENTIRELY VOLUNTARY.

John C. Mackay wanted to know if the government would interfere with the water rights of those who did not come into the project; and if those who have sufficient water already would be compelied to come in. Prof. Newell stated that this is a voluntary project, and if the farmers did not want to come, that was all right. But that it they did come in, the government would ask mem to live up to their contract for the amount they had subscribed. Mr. Mackay further wanted to know if the government would insure the wa-ter users a sufficient amount of water. n case there should be a drouth for three or four seasons. In reply, the pro-fessor stated that the government fessor stated that the government would not guarantee anything in that respect; that the farmers had been here for many years, and could judge for for many years, and could judge will memselves what the streams here will do. The government knows what they have done in the past, and is willing to put money in this scheme. And if it rains, and the water is delivered to the armers, they will have to pay for it. The government will not guarantee Providence in any way.

FAVORED THE SCHEME.

H. C. Petersen made a rousing speech in favor of the scheme, which was re-ceived with laughter and applause. He said, "All I have got to lose is my land, and without water it is worthless. if Providence goes against us, my land is worthless, and I should not complain on losing it.'

BELIEVES IN UNCLE SAM.

John Larsen said, "I am sure Uncle Sam is a big man, and what he under-takes to do will be best for Utah and Salt Lake county. I don't think any-body here should object to Uncle Sam spending a million dollars here on this project. I am willing to do as Uncle Sam says. If he want's a mortgage on me or my lands he can have it. Some of the questions asked here today, will have to be answered by God Almighty. I want to see the spirit of unity here. These boys of Uncle Sam know what is best for Utah and this country. I thank God that I have been to this water meeting." Mr. Larsen's statements met with hearty applause, and created conalderable merriment.

Willard Ennis favored taking some action in the matter, and suggested that the farmers meet and discuss the

The subject under discussion was whether the control of the watersheds should be under the government or left in the hands of the state. The visit-ing officials held that government control was best, while the Utah state offi-clais claimed that the state would be perfectly able to handle the matter. They held that too much of the state was cut off in reserves, and that the 1 per cent of the area of the state which now bears the taxes should have the other land which is cap-able of cultivation added to H. Mr. Groo in particular was opposed to government control, and to the way the forest reserve act was applied to In answer to a question from a Mr. this state which is not a timber state. It worked a hardship, he said, and a harm rather than assistance. Mr. Doremus advocated a municipal own-ership of watersheds, as the local municipalities being vitally interested would take care that the forests flourished and were not injured or destroyed Gov. Wells cited the condition of City Creek canyon to prove this, and showed that it was in a perfect condition. The governor said the state insists on the reservation for the preservation of the water supply, with the grass and tim-ber as secondary considerations. But he feared the length of time required by the government to get the reserves into running order.

In referring to the Utah lake reser-voir project, Prof. Newell said that but a small percentage of the vast volume of water that now flows into this natural reservoir can be utilized for irrigation under present conditions for the reason that the greater portion of it is lost by evaporation. The scheme adopted by the government en-The gineers who have had this special project in hand, is to cut such a channel through the center of the lake as will carry all the waters into the various canals, and it is estimated that not less than 200,000 accers can be added to the irrigated area by such a change.

ARRIVAL OF NEWELL.

Gives His Hearty Approval of Prof. Swenden's Lake Project Plans.

Prof. F. H. Newell, chief hydrographer of the United States geological survey, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Nevada for the purpose of meeting with the landowners of Salt Lake valley relative to the water rights along Jordan river.

In an interview last night he stated that Prof. Swenden's report on the matter was very complete and showed that a great saving of water could be effected by reducing the area of Utah lake. He affirmed that more water is lost by evaporation than is used for irrigation throughout the entire State of Utah. This water was lost entirely, he affirmed, as it was carried in form f vapor to contiguous states where it vas ultimately precipitated in the form of rain or snow

Continuing he said: "In the event Mr. Swendsen's plans can be carried out hundreds of thousands of acres can be reclaimed for cultivation and the amount of water now distributed in the valley increased many fold. It rests with the farmers themselves to determine whether the work shall be undertaken. The government will not take any chances on litigation nor will it undertake to deal individually with the owners of small tracts of land.

COL. VULCAN OF ALABAMA.

Man of Iron Will Stand Guard at the Mineral Exhibit of the South.

A colossal figure of Vulcan will stand in the palace of mines and metallurgy. It is to typify the iron industry of Alabama and will be made of Alabama iron. The statue is 50 feet high and was modeled by G. Moretti of New York. The model in plaster, full size, from which the cast will be made, is now nearly ready, having been built in a church building at Passaic, N. Y. The plaster model which is nearly solid plaster, weighs nearly 200,000. The finished iron statue cored out, will weigh nearly 100,000 pounds, or 50 tons. The cost is $50,000, The fund was raised by popular subscription. Alabama will make an exhibit in connection with this which will show all the minerals of the state and products manufactured fre the minerals. The space in the Pal-ace of Mines and Metallurgy occupied by Alabama is 32 by 62 feet, with misle around and is immediately in from

of the main entrance. Some idea of the difficulty of producing such a gigantic figure in cast iron may be gained when it is stated that the different pieces will weigh several tons each. Nothing so difficult was ever undertaken so far as known. The statue of Liberty in New York harbor is made of sheet metal on an iron frame. Any one of the sheets could be handled by one man, while every piece of the Alabama Vulcan will require a derrick to lift it whenever moved. The feet are five feet, six inches in length The arms are 10 feet long. The face h seven feet six inches long. The breadth across the shoulders is 10 feet. The anvil will weigh 10 tons and the ham mer three tons. The spearhead which Vulcan holds aloft in his right hand
