

NO MORE NORTHERN VESSELS TO BE EMPLOYED BY SOUTH CAROLINA.—The Charleston Mercury of the 15th, has the following:—

The Beginning.—We have given our unqualified approbation to the determination of the planters, in various parishes, to employ no more Northern coasters, and we deem it a fortunate thing that the first instance in which this resolve has been carried out, should have been of such a character as to leave no doubt of the act being solely dictated by the avowed principle. Capt. Conklin, who arrived here recently, who has been employed for the last fifteen years in bringing rice from Santee to this city, was yesterday informed by his old employers that they would give him no more patronage, and this from no dissatisfaction with him, but for the sake of a principle which they approved and felt bound to carry out. Few masters of Northern coasters had as strong claims as Capt. Conklin, to be made an exception to the rule, on account of his long employment in the trade, and the uniform satisfaction he had given. But the feeling was that there should be no exceptions; that the rule should be inflexible, and the exclusion universal. We learn that Capt. C. has sailed for Savannah, in quest of business.

Mississippi, too!—Mississippi, following the fashion of South Carolina, is beginning to proclaim non-intercourse with the North, so far as business is concerned, and some other things, too, as will be seen by the following resolutions unanimously adopted, at a meeting in Hinds county, lately:

Resolved, that we will not transact any business (either by the shipment of cotton to, or the purchase of goods from) with any merchant in the city of New Orleans, who is known to be a free soiler in his sentiments, or unless his long residence in the South and known opinions have identified him with the South.

Resolved, that we will employ no school teachers, or patronize any school under the management of any person or persons, who are not known to be wholly Southern in all their feelings and opinions, as we are unwilling to subject our children to the taint of corruption, by placing them under the influence of those who claim it as a religious merit to aid in the destruction of Southern institutions.

THE REPORTED ABDICATION OF THE RUSSIAN CZAR.—Respecting this item of intelligence, which one of the last steamers brought, the Aix-la-Chapelle Gazette has the following remarks:

The Presse, Brum, announces that the Emperor Nicholas has formally resolved to abdicate upon the 1st of December next, in favor of his son Cesarewitch, the heir presumptive to the crown. His Majesty desires that his son shall ascend the throne at this time, in order that he may not be exposed to the danger of becoming a prey to malicious parties or conspiracies, which are always formed in Russia upon every accession. His Majesty will assist at the councils of his son, as long as he is able to direct himself. To this it must be added that, believing the prophecy of a Russian Monk, the people are persuaded that no sovereign can reign more than twenty-five years, under pain of meeting a violent death. In short, it appears that the Emperor Nicholas has followed the expression of a desire to enjoy the sweets of private life, and that he has said recently to a person of distinction—these affairs are for the young people who assume after me the reins of government, to settle similar difficulties which must meet a prompt solution.

Remington, who invented the bridge that bears his name, is also the inventor of a new kind of cement, which is described as being perfectly impervious to water, slightly elastic, and a non-conductor of electricity—three qualities or properties for which it was intended by the inventor or discoverer, viz: the covering of houses, fences, etc. It has been applied that way in Mobile, and the cement becomes so hard that a blow of an axe will not separate it.

Among the prisoners taken captive at the battle of Waterloo, was a Highland piper. Napoleon, struck with his appearance, asked him to play on his instrument, which is said to sound delightfully in the mountains and glens of Scotland. 'Play a pibroch,' said Napoleon, and he played it. 'Play a march.' It was done. 'Play a retreat.' 'Na, na,' said the Highlander, 'I never learned to play a retreat!' No retreat should be the motto emblazoned on the standard of every Christian warrior as he goes forth to battle.

If wisdom's ways you wisely seek,
Five things observe with care;
Of whom you speak, to whom you speak—
And how—and when—and where.

A blacksmith in the State of New York was summoned as a witness in court between two of his workmen. The judge, after hearing the testimony, asked him why he did not advise them to settle, as the cost had already amounted to three times the disputed sum, viz. seventy-five cents.

He replied, 'I to-t-o-ld the fo-f-o-ools to se-e-e-ttle; for I said, the co-o-onstable would take their coats, the lawyers their sh-ir-irts, and if they got into your honor's court, you'd sk-sk.skin 'em!'

MARRIED, on the 20th inst, by elder E. D. Woolley, Mr. John W. Woolley and Miss Julia Ensign, all of this city.

While enjoying the cake, our 'devil' perpetrated the following:

Much joy to the couple, and happiness too,
May nothing occur their peace ever to break;
May life unto them, while its course they pursue,
Be as sweet as to us is the good wedding cake.
