Hampshire showed to good advantage, their steady marching winning a full share of the cheers. The prince rode on the field wear-ing the brilliant scarlet uniform of a field marshal, the helmet topped with red and white plumes, and his breast crossed with the blue sash of the Or-der of the Garter. He galloped along the long-extended front, the regimental colors trooping, the drums rolling and the bugles sounding the royal salute as he rode along. Beside him Field Marshal Lord Roberts, or "Bobs" as the soldlers know him, sharing the ovation given to the prince. After inspecting the men the prince and Lord Roberts took positions before the re-viewing stand and joined in the cheers which greeted the American contingent as if field by the prince. The Ameri-can sailors wore yellow leggings and naity white duck hats, which contrast-ed with the straw hats of the British tars and the top-knot caps of the French sailors. The review was the most extensive ever seen in this coun-ity and one of the largest in time of peace ever held in North America. Following the review the prince for-mally transferred the battiefield to the governor-general for a lasting public memorial.
