

CALLED SHERICK COMMON GAMBLER.

Gov. Hanley Denounces Ex-Auditor at a Reunion of the Thirteenth Indiana Regiment.

A CARouser AND A DRINKER.

Editor's Office Made a Broker's Office For Distribution of Urge Passes To Assemblies.

Hamilton, Ind., Sept. 19.—In an address at the reunion of the Thirteenth Indiana regiment, Gov. Hanley, the principal speaker, made public his reasons for his action in the case of David E. Sherick, ex-auditor of state, whose resignation was forced by the governor. Facts and figures were used to show what became of the money belonging to the state that was lost by "David E. Sherick, author of waste and common gamblers."

The governor charged that $10,000 of the state's money "went by check into the hands of the cashier at French Licks." The governor then enumerated a list of what he calls "wild cat" securities, aggregating a face value of $50,000, into which the state's money went.

Following this, he charged that Sherick's continued absence from the sessions of the state board of tax commissioners "was accompanied by drink, bawdy houses, and midnight carousals around the gambling table, from which he would return home in time to meet with the commissioners."

He charged that Sherick, at the time the Marion railroad came up for assessment, urged that the assessment be allowed to remain at $10,000 because it would give him a better chance to get a permanent employment personally could go permanent employment with the company if the assessment could be kept at $10,000.

"Before my inauguration I received several telegrams from Sherick, and when he came to the management of several railroad companies in the month of December 1904, over his own signature as auditor of state, asking them to send small passes intended for members of the general assembly, in addition to one stating in substance that he expected to have some legitimate interest to himself before that body and if they would send such transportation to him for distribution he would see that their interests and his were cared for at the same time."

"For three weeks the office of the auditor of state was made a broker's office for the distribution of free passes to such members of the general assembly as would be interested."

"On the evening of the 15th of September I was informed by one who had been aiding him, and in whom I have confidence, that he could not make payment on the 15th, so then sent him a wire, telling him to make his resignation. The next morning his resignation did not come, but some of his friends did come and informed me that the money could be raised only upon condition that the defalcation be kept a secret and that he be retained in office."

"Upon inquiry I learned that some of the men who were to furnish the money were the representatives of large railroad interests in the state; that Mr. Sherick and his friends were dependent upon his services, and that he depended upon his retention in office, I could make no such bargain as that."
