DR. G. W. PERKINS

Prominent and Successful Citizen Succumbs to Paralysis After Brief Illness.

ROLLINS & SONS GET BONDS.

Old Timer Who Remembers Mormon Exodus from Missouri Visits Ogden Junction City News Notes.

Ogden, Nov. 18.—After an illness of less than two weeks, Dr. G. W. Perkins, division surgeon of the Southern Pacific, died at the Ogden general hospital last night. Paralysis of the intestines was the cause of death, for which an operation was performed but failed to save his life. He is survived by his widow, three sons, one daughter and an aged mother, who resides in Boston. Dr. Perkins was born in Boston 38 years ago. In 1881 he graduated from the medical college at Harvard, when he was classmate of President Roosevelt. Three years later he graduated with high honor from the Harvard medical school. He then entered the Boston city hospital, where he served 18 months as interne. In 1888 he came to Ogden and was appointed by the chief surgeon of the Harriman system division surgeon for the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line. A short time later he was also made division surgeon for the Southern Pacific, which position he held up to his death. He has been connected with the Ogden general hospital since 1900 and was one of its officers. Prior to that time he was in charge of the Union Pacific hospital located on the site of the present Lewis school. One of Dr. Perkins' sons is in the freshman class at Harvard and another is finishing his preparatory work in a Hampshire school. Both are on their way to Ogden, having been summoned when their father's condition became critical. The daughter, aged 15, and younger son, aged 9, with their mother, were at the bedside when the end came.

Rollins & Sons are to accept the water bonds at 4 1/2 per cent interest and to take over the waterworks at a flat rate of 4 per cent and to pay a premium of $1,675.50 besides paying for the printing of the bonds, making the total amount of the premium $2,550. The waterworks system is to be turned over to the city by the present owners on Jan. 1, after which date it will be controlled by the city. The headquarters of the waterworks will be removed to quarters being provided in the city hall, from which point all of the business of the department will be directed.

the winter with his daughter, Miss Maud Chesley, who is a teacher in the Ogden public schools. Although Mr. Sanders does not appear to be over 60 years of age he is 82 years of age and hale and hearty. He is a non-Mormon but witnesses the exodus of the Mormons from Far West, Missouri, and saw the Prophet Joseph Smith at the time of his incarceration in the Carthage jail.

Mr. Sanders speaks of the attacks on the Mormons as one of the most terrible persecutions he ever witnessed, but explains that the scenes were perhaps very vividly impressed upon his young mind and thus made an everlasting impression which has not changed in three score and ten years. He stated that he had long sought the opportunity of coming to Utah and looking upon some of the old pioneers whom he met in the rainy days of '47. He will visit some of the pioneers who reside in Salt Lake City while he is in Utah.

The change in the ownership of the plant was made on the 1st of October when the Harriman officials who were in this city on an inspection tour were ordered to inspect the gas plant.

Special Correspondence. Richfield, Nov. 14.—The Western Construction company of Richfield has just started a new concrete work at a cost of $700, and will commence operations immediately.

This company was the successful bidder on all the concrete work between Joseph and Redmond in this county, 40 miles, let by the state board of land commissioners under the Plute county reservoir project.

Lovely weather prevailed lately and the beet and potato diggers have made good use of it. Wheat is selling at 80c per bushel, an unusual price for this season of the year.

The building boom is still on in Richfield. Several new buildings are in course of construction. Jas. M. Peterson has just finished his new residence at a cost of $7,000, and the stake and ward offices will be finished in the near future at a cost of $5,000.

Jensen and George Peterson are doing well. The school has been confined to his bed with pneumonia for the past two weeks, but will be able to teach again next week.
