LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Germany.—The Germania smelter, at Little Cottonwood, has shut down for a few days, pending the making of needed repairs, after which the works will start up again, with a good prospect of continuing.

Jubilee.—The Cache Valley Sunday School Jubilee will take place at Logan to-morrow. Brothers George Goddard, W. Willes and Samuel L. Evans went up this afternoon, to be present on the occasion, which is sure to be an interesting one.

Indisposed.—The unnumbered friends of President Brigham Young will regret to learn that he was seized with an attack of illness at an early hour this morning. We are pleased to be able to state, however, that his condition was greatly improved this afternoon. He is gradually progressing toward recovery.

Situations Wanted.—A poor man, a stranger, who recently came to this city from the east, requests us to state that he has two sons, one aged nine and the other ten and a half, who are stout and able to do chores. He would like to get situations for them where they would be cared for. Persons applying can get the man's address at this office.

Macallister.—The great rush for Macallister has modified. However there was a large audience at the Theatre last evening, several new tricks were introduced, "the elements" being one of them, causing considerable wonderment. A new programme is arranged for tonight, and a matinee will be given, with very low prices of admission; to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Presents as usual.

Systematic Stealing.—Complaints emanating from passengers on the U. P. R. R. to the effect that they had been robbed of valuables, between Blue Creek and Promontory Stations, on the C. P. R. R., reaching Superintendent Pratt, the latter employed Sheriff W. Brown, of Ogden, to discover the guilty party. That officer set to work and soon found the man he was after, who was an employee of the railroad company. A valuable gold watch and chain, which he had stolen, were recovered from him. The particulars of the affair are in the Journal, which, however, does not publish the name of the thief.

A Good Thing.—Mr. Phillip Pugsley and those associated with him in the ownership of the Pleasant Valley coal deposit, have, evidently, a good thing. The gentleman named returned to the city last evening, with the workmen who have been constructing the coke ovens, which are all completed and working to a charm. He brought with him specimens of coke, which judges say are as good as any known, being heavy and metallic, two qualities which cause it to be admirably adapted for the use to which it is chiefly put in Utah.

The deposit is located in Spanish Fork Cañon, and the seam is said to be thirty-two feet thick.

Supporting Sunday Schools.—Some of the settlements have a novel, and, in our view, a very sensible way of giving substantial aid and encouragement to the Sunday schools of their localities. Some persons who have plenty of land donate the use of an acre or two, which is cultivated in potatoes, lucern, or some other useful product. The land is worked gratuitously by the more advanced or elder scholars, the yield is disposed of, and the proceeds applied for the benefit of the school.

This appears a good plan for several reasons, one of which is, that it inculcates industrious habits in the scholars and enables them to do something themselves for the institutions from which they are receiving educational benefit.

A Novel Case.—A novel case for this part of the country, was before Justice Raleigh yesterday afternoon. A Salt Lake attorney was charged with an infraction of a municipal law. The defendant moved for the dismissal of the case, on the ground that he, being consul in the Territory of Utah for the King of Norway and Sweden, was not subject to criminal prosecution in the local courts. The Justice continued the case until to-day, to give him time to examine into the merits of the point raised, this being, we believe, the first instance of its having been brought up in any of our Territory.

We understand that the point is well taken and the case will, in all probability, be dismissed by the Justice. Under the Constitution and laws of the United States a foreign consul is amenable to the local laws of this country, but he cannot legally be prosecuted in the local courts. The prosecution must be conducted in a court of the United States, such as the District Court of this Territory.

The defendant in the case in question claimed that the police had no right or authority to arrest him. In this he plainly appears to be in error, the fact of his amenability to the local laws clearly implies his liability to arrest for infractions thereof.

A Young People's Temperance League has been organized at Anamosa. The girls wear blue and white ribbons, and the boys red, to which the white is added if they also swear off tobacco.

The Effects of the War in Russia.

LONDON, 24.

The correspondent of the Daily News writes, describing the effects of the war in Russia, as follows: "Possibly the most striking effect of the Imperial Army, from all directions wherever one goes. Families are mourning because either father or brother are under orders to start within, perchance, only a few hours. Families are broken up on all sides, and wives are selling household furniture. The streets of Moscow are thronged in many places with homeless and hungry. The price of provisions is rising proportionately. Among the upper classes houses are in the same state of change. Those who have retired from the army or navy are, in many cases, recalled. All with this presumed, be summoned in course of time. Whilst I write a general call is being made for all to serve in the militia, and notices to this effect have been served on all those residing in one of the six divisions of Moscow. From house to house a visitation is also going on relative to the number of men, servants and horses kept by every household, a large quota of which must now be parted with for the public service. Substitutes on the part of the former are not accepted. Funds are rolling in for the sick and wounded on all sides. Peasants are even urging the acceptance of their mites.

Correspondence.

Large Meetings—Public Instruction.—Popery and Disestablishment.

Through the courtesy of Brother David James of this city we publish the following letter to him from Elder C. D. Evans of Springfield, Utah County, now on a mission to England:

HALIFAX, Aug. 6, 1877.

Dear Brother David:

You will doubtless be glad to learn how the work of the Lord is progressing in this part. Our open air meetings of which we hold three or four a week, are being hurried in contact with tens of thousands—the largest meetings I ever addressed have been those held this summer in the open-air in the Leeds Conference. On the Moor of Leeds, a celebrated public resort for pleasure, we can address all that the voice can possibly reach, and you would be surprised at the marked attention manifested.

There has been some little opposition manifested, which has had the effect to make the truth shine the brighter, and generally after a single open air meeting, the field and cannot be induced, even at the urgent request of their own party, to again enter it, although at our last meeting there, two gentlemen of clerical garb, after assuring their friends that they intended to debate our principles with me, and after standing before me with note-book and pencil in hand, as though they purposed some big thing, retired without saying a word, much to the chagrin of some pious ones of their sect, who imagined that these great guns would be able to slay the monster "Mormonism." One fell stroke. At Morley, we can get an audience of 1,000 people at any time. The spirit of inquiry is increasing, and some are being baptized.

A public meeting was held in Bradford lately, which was a great manifestation of the rapid tendency to ritualism. There is a decided antagonism between the Catholic and Protestant churches here. Earl Redesdale has brought before the House of Lords a book exposing the plot of 2,000 Jesuits against the Protestant church, several of whose clergymen are charged with having received ordination under the hands of His Holiness the Pope, and are acting as wolves in sheep's clothing. A clergyman of the English church died recently, the documents of whose ordination by the Church of Rome were found among his papers, to the no small chagrin of the Protestants whose parish he had professed to be under the evangelical garb of that church. The developments of Earl Redesdale have created strong suspicions among Protestants towards their ministers. Confidence is being destroyed, and the Catholic clergy are doing all in their power to undermine the State church, whose doctrines they have always held to be damnable heresies.

Conflicts between the Church of England parsons and their flocks are quite common, on account of the efforts of the former to introduce, in a quiet way, absolutism and the rule of Prot. state church, while newspaper editors are loud in their denunciations of the course of such ministers, charging them with introducing the confessional secrecy, to carry on a system of beastly indulgence. They show up the decidedly immoral tendency of the questions which they put to newly married females, and even to young girls. The glorious aspect, I should judge, points to the belief that at no distant day "the deadly wound of the beast will be healed." Already has the Protestant church in Ireland been compelled to succumb to assassination from the state; and the popular clamor for disestablishment in England can only be a question of time. The fact of compelling millions of people, who differ widely in religious sentiment from that church (and who have their own churches to support) to sustain it by onerous taxation is an evil too apparent much longer to be tolerated, and its disestablishment will give a power to the Catholic Church which nothing else can.

The restive desire by Englishmen to break off this yoke is growing intense. It was with no small amount of reluctance that the House of Lords consented to the disestablishment of the Protestant Irish Church, and how much greater will be its resistance to the disestablishment of the English Church! This movement will reach near the throne; its influence will be severely felt by every aristocrat of Great Britain. The foundations of time-honored systems is beginning to be shaken. Society is breaking loose from antiquated moorings and venerable institutions. The deference once paid to the clergy is steadily diminishing. As the power of the priest ceases, as its influence is extended, as working men by means of railway communication are brought in contact with each other and the world, thereby strengthening the social principle and increasing knowledge, all that is wrong in governments becomes more widely known and more freely discussed, and reforms are made locally and imperiously demanded. The liberal party is becoming stronger, and although it has the influence of aristocracy to contend with, which represents an immense still the spirit of reform steadily advances, and what adds to the strength of the liberal element is the universally acknowledged fact of the superiority in representative ability. The conservative have no representative who will compare for a moment with Gladstone.

To the heart of every Latter-day Saint it is a glimpse to witness the deplorable condition of mankind, so far as gospel light is concerned. And when I pass the tens of thousands on a Sabbath, each wending his way to worship at the shrine of some church, dedicated perhaps to Paul or Peter, or biographically styled Christ Church, while at the same time ignoring the very truths taught by them, my mind frequently reverts to the vision of the glories given to Joseph and Sidney, which reads that the inhabitants of the terrestrial world will be instrumental at the plan of the firmament. These are of Paul, of Apollon, &c., followers of any faith other than that of the true gospel. What a blessing that the hell fire they portray will be extinguished, and that the character and duration they would have the world believe; if so these preachers of a perverted gospel would be irretrievably damned.

Your brother, &c., C. D. EVANS.

MORMONISM.—On Tuesday evening, the first of a series of open air meetings was held at the Town End, Morley. It was showery all day, and up to the last minute it was thought that no meeting would be held. But, however, Mr. C. D. Evans, of Salt Lake City, at the request of a few friends, came forward to give an address. After a few observations, he proceeded to propound the Mormon doctrine of plurality of wives. He said that some years ago, a great conference was held in India, of the ministers of the various Christian denominations, on this very subject, and their decision was, that they could not find any proof in the Bible against the plurality of wives. Texts from the Bible were then given in support of his assertion, viz., that the patriarchs of the Old Testament were nearly all polygamists. These were men under the special direction and guidance of the Almighty himself.

Mr. Evans then argued at some length as to the social and moral blessings which would accrue to society at large if the plurality of wives were to become the general adoption—in fact, one of the great means, if not the only remedy, of removing the greatest crying evils which at present exist. He dared any man to prove that marriage to more than one wife was physiologically wrong. The general doctrine of Mormonism were next adverted to, and after alluding to the great hubbub which was being hurled against that sect, he ventured to predict that Mormonism would live and ultimately pervade the whole world.

Mr. Thomas Wilkinson then rose to make a speech in contradiction, which, by the bye, had nothing whatever to do with Mormonism. He also read a number of extracts from a book, purporting to be taken from Scripture, which, to all appearances, were in flat contradiction to each other. If we mistake not, what Mr. Wilkinson did was calculated to aid the cause of infidelity than Christianity. Both the speakers met with some opposition.—English Paper.
