

EVENING NEWS. Published Every Evening, Except on Sundays and Public Holidays. Vol. 10, No. 10,000. Salt Lake City, December 27, 1898.

FRAGMENTS. J. W. HALL was used in the Police Court today, for having been drunk. A. J. Thompson's Barbers Open Company appears at the Theatre this evening. Streets were out on the streets of Salt Lake today for the first time this winter. From the Hanson shoe shop has been received a very beautiful illuminated calendar. Wm. Edgar was to have his trial, for beating his wife, on Monday, but he has been released. We learn that H. A. Noon, of the editorial staff of the Provo American, is seriously ill of pneumonia. T. D. FRITCHARD, who has served a year's sentence in the penitentiary for grand larceny, was set at liberty today. Grand larceny of a $100.00 opera house. The city's importance certainly calls for a building like the one proposed. This small boys seemed to enjoy themselves greatly this afternoon when they were out in the snow. On Monday a forger who gave his name as A. C. Stewart, victimized three business houses in Ogden, to the amount of $30.75. He got away before the fraud was discovered. Among the merchants who remembered their clerks on Christmas Eve was Mr. R. K. Thomas, of the Emporium building. He made each of them a present of ten dollars. This proposition before the taxpayers of the Eighteenth School District, to assess a tax for the building of a new schoolhouse, was voted down at the meeting held last evening. FRANK ENGLER, who is wanted by the officers on a charge of assisting with a deadly weapon, is still keeping out of the way. On Christmas night he struck Edward Stewart two heavy blows on the head, one of them inflicting a gash about two inches long. The rumor got about that the injuries were likely to prove fatal, but this is incorrect. Stewart's wounds are not at all dangerous. Peddler's Licenses.—Badgers. A correspondent writes from Minersville, Beaver County, under a recent date, inquiring what are the provisions of the law relating to peddler's licenses in the southern counties of the Territory; also what bounty is paid on badger scalps. There is no territorial law fixing the amount of license which peddlers must pay. It is a matter under the control of the county courts of the respective counties, or the city council of incorporated cities. Badgers are the wild animals for the destruction of which bounties are paid. A Chicken Thief. Last night the police arrested a half-drunk fellow who gave his name as Whit, and who had in his possession a basket full of dressed chickens. The officer believed the fellow to have been stealing the chickens from a small store, and he was endeavoring to dispose of them for a very small sum. This morning it was learned that they had been stolen from a man who was camping in the timber yard. Thirty chickens had been taken from this wagon. When Whit heard that the owner of the fowls had been informed, he stated that he did not take them himself, but that they had been given to him by a man who told him to get all he could for them. He will be tried tomorrow. Again at Liberty. Today Charles P. Beauregard, of Fillmore, Millard County, was released from the penitentiary, where he has been serving a term for living with his wife. He was sentenced to imprisonment for 60 days and to pay a fine of $30 and costs. For the day he was retained in prison 20 days—making 80 days in all. Today Bishop A. A. Kimball, of Kanab, Millard County, who was pardoned yesterday by the President, was set at liberty. He was sentenced by Judge Smith to eight months in the penitentiary for living with his plural wife. He was an invalid at the time, and in consequence of his poor health a pardon was granted him. His brother, Solomon P. Kimball, went out to the penitentiary and met him when he was released. Fire in District Court. Proceedings before Judge Henderson, at Ogden, yesterday. The case of the State vs. Guheen vs. Michael Guheen was dismissed. Julius Topconce, convicted of fast driving against the city ordinance relating to such matters, was called for sentence. He was not present, and according to the order of the court on December 24th, he forfeited his bonds, placed at $100, and was fined $20 and costs. The latter were taxed at $70. In the case of David Kiy vs. Adolph Harris, an order was entered setting aside the judgment on payment of $67.50 and costs. In the case of E. H. Parsons vs. David Kiy, the motion for a new trial was overruled. The case of James Irwin et al. vs. E. H. Hadley, was submitted to the court and taken under advisement. Francis Gaudin, charged with unlawful cohabitation, was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 and the costs of prosecution. The Suicide. L. Charles Niels, who committed suicide at Richfield, Sevier County, on Saturday evening, came to the attention of the court, the cause of the destruction of the schoolhouse. Attention was first called to the place by some one discovering that it was on fire. The citizens quickly assembled and were successful in extinguishing the flames. They had to break in a door in order to get into the building, and on the floor they discovered the body of a man in a horrible condition. He had evidently been in that state but a few moments. The entire top of his head was blown off, from the eyes back to the ears. By his side was a rifle, which the deadly work had been done. A coroner's inquest was held, the verdict being suicide. The young man had been a school teacher, and for some time had had "the blues." On Saturday morning he was promised a return to his home on Monday morning. On the way he was found with instructions to hand it to the owner. He had gone into the schoolhouse with the weapon and shot himself, the evidence indicating that the trigger had been operated with a stick, while the muzzle of the gun was against one of the eaves of the house, and the fire started. The cause of the suicide is said to be appointment in a love affair.

CITY COUNCIL. Discussing the Water Problem.—No Police Uniforms.

THE WEATHER. The Storm Reaches From Idaho to Arizona.

Grand Free Entertainment. The opera entitled "The Bohemian Girl" will be given in the Theatre on Monday, Dec. 31, at 2 p. m., to all the old folks of this city and vicinity over 70 years old; also to widows, orphans and deaf mutes, by the Stephens Opera company, who have generously offered their services on that occasion. The Old Folks Committee therefore feel proud to extend their invitation to persons of all creeds, color or social standing, who belong to either of the above classes, to call at C. E. Savage's Art Bazaar on Saturday, to obtain their tickets, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. These tickets are not transferable. The parquette will be reserved for the "Old Folks," who are requested to appear with their respective badges to designate their age. The widows and deaf mutes will occupy the first and second circles, and the third circle is for the orphans. In addition to the orphans, tickets will also be issued to fatherless or motherless children, as far as room will admit. The Old Folks Committee most respectfully request that no distinction on account of wealth or poverty shall be made among those responding to their invitation, as these special occasions are most rigidly designed to be cosmopolitan in their character, and no person can obtain a ticket by purchase. For the convenience of all, the doors will be open at 1 p. m. This is to avoid confusion, and no one need be there before that hour. The committee will be on hand at that time to seat the people as they arrive. If the Bishops of the various wards and the ministers of the various churches of the city will kindly interest themselves in behalf of the aged in their respective localities, their labors will be duly appreciated. Whatever aid can be furnished in the way of teams, to bring and return the aged ones to the Theatre, will be warmly appreciated by the board and staff. WM. B. PRESTON, GEORGE GODDARD, C. R. SAVAGE, WM. EDINGTON, WM. NAYLOR, JOHN KIMMAN, WM. L. BENDER, ANDREW JENSEN, NELSON A. ENNEY, Committee.

DEATHS. BEATTIE.—At Newfield, near Pelton Hall, Durham County, England, September 15, 1888, of brain fever, Andrew Beattie, son of William and Jane Beattie, aged six years and six months.—Buried at Pelton Hall.

Answers to Correspondents. On and after Saturday next, Dec. 26th, the WEEKLY NEWS will be issued more in the form of a magazine than that of a newspaper, and will incorporate the elements of both. Among its departments will be included one entitled "Answers to Correspondents." We therefore invite correspondence embodying plain questions on appropriate subjects, although we do not agree to reply to every question asked. We will exercise editorial discretion, replying only to those deemed suitable. The following conditions should be complied with by correspondents of this class: (1) Write the question plainly and briefly, unaccompanied by comment. (2) It should be on one side of the paper only. It must be signed by the questioner's real name, although not necessary for publication. Any fictitious name, according to the fancy of the writer, may be used for public purposes. We hope to hear from our friends; the more the better, that we may be enabled to make this department one of special interest. Send along the questions at once, and keep it up. Any proper subject will receive consideration.

News Notes. Holbrook, Arizona, December 24th.—Hon. J. D. Houck, ex-member of the Territorial Assembly, was waylaid Saturday near Black Canyon, thirty miles south, by three men, and ordered to hold up his hands, and instead of being released, he was killed. Houck slid from his horse and fell, and was killed. The horse was killed the first round. A dozen or more shots were exchanged. There is no clue to the would-be assassins. Houck was left master of the field. Fall preparations have been made by the Southern Pacific for "bucking" snow on the Ogden line this winter. As yet there has been no trouble from snow, and it is believed that with the present means of keeping the track clear there will be no time lost by through trains on that account, even though there should be an unusual fall in the mountains. The company has a new $12,000 rotary snow-plow which will turn loose on the first occasion, and it has little fear that it will be unable to do its work out for it. It should prove as successful as is hoped, other snow-plows of the same pattern will be ordered from the east. There has not been enough snow to thoroughly test the merits of this new machine. The snowplows on the Central Pacific are in good repair, about 30,000 having been recently spent in their reconstruction. The Iowa legislature in 1886 passed a bill requiring foreign corporations doing business in that state to incorporate under the state laws, the object being to bring all the railway companies whose lines extend from Iowa under the jurisdiction of the state. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy company, and the Iowa Supreme court have refused to do so. The United States supreme court has now reversed that decision and declared the law unconstitutional. This finding of the highest tribunal in the country is a strong suggestion, says the Quincy Argus, that the courts of Iowa may be urged with the unjust hostility to railways which characterizes the legislature. A portion of the people of that state, and an intimation, which other federal courts have repeatedly made, that local prejudice and animosity will not be allowed to override justice and the constitution, again in dealing with railway companies. James P. Ball has brought suit in the United States circuit court at Topeka, Kan., against Russell Sage, Jay Gould, the Union Pacific railway company and the Kansas Pacific railway company. The plaintiff says that in 1871 he purchased from the Kansas Pacific railway company 100 acres of land in Rice County, Mo., the title to be conveyed to him by the plaintiff when the payment had been made. He says that in the year 1872 the Kansas Pacific Company conveyed all its lands to Jay Gould and Russell Sage in order to secure $300,000 of indebtedness. The plaintiff claimed payment on the land in 1883, and the Union Pacific Company gave him a deed to the land, but Gould and Sage have obtained possession of the land, and he has been refused to release their lien on the land. He alleges that they refuse to release the land, and he has filed a bill asking the court to compel Gould and Sage to convey the property title to him, and that the owners of about 25,000 acres of other Kansas land sold in the same manner.

From Texas. This afternoon we had the pleasure of a meeting with Mr. Lindsay, now a resident of Texas; but formerly of North Carolina. When living in the latter State, Mr. Lindsay and the family of which he is a member were exceedingly kind to the Elders laboring in that part of the country, treating them with marked hospitality. For this they are held in kindly remembrance by many of the brethren. Mr. Lindsay has kept posted upon the situation of affairs in Utah, having been for a long period an attentive reader of the News. He may possibly make this Territory his home, not having quite made up his mind whether or not he will return to Texas. Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 22.—Station Agent MITCHELL of the Santa Fe at Mori, was held up at that place last night about 10 o'clock and relieved of $120 while returning from the postoffice to the depot. No clue to the perpetrators. The greater part of the money was put into the mail, and the cause of the hold-up is said to be appointment in a love affair.
