

A BULLET IN HIS BREAST.

J. H. Kennedy Attempts Self-destruction by Shooting Himself With a Revolver.

There was a great deal of excitement in front of Harry Harvey's saloon on Second South between East and West Temple Streets about ten o'clock last night, caused by J. H. Kennedy, the well-known real estate man, firing a bullet into his own breast. The cause of the rash deed was failure in business and a reckless course of dissipation.

Mr. Kennedy was reported to the physician in charge where he was receiving as well as may be exposed. The weapon used was a thirty two caliber pistol and contained one live cartridge. Kennedy has a wife and three children living at the corner of First South and Main Street, where he is expected to recover and report of his affairs.

THE WOMEN'S STORE.

Some Suggestions that are Worthy of Consideration.

JULY LAST CITY, ORE., 1893.—I thought as some manufacturers were the popular theme at the present time and as I have been a constant reader of your valuable paper ever since I can remember, or at least ever since it was first published, which is nearly as long ago as I can remember, I would make bold to say if you would give a little space to our appeal in behalf of a very useful, though modest, and (the critics just now) struggling institution, our Women's Cooperative Mercantile and Manufacturing Institution, situated on West Temple Street in this city. The little store was opened on June 1st, 1893, under the management of the board of directors with Mrs. M. L. Hartman president and Mrs. M. P. Squier as vice-president of the dressmaking department, to which, since that time, military has been added.

The "Women's Institute" was incorporated in the title of the institution, it is generally understood, that the object was to be furnished work for our own girls and women and to manufacture the same as far as possible, and to sell the same to the public, in order to do those things which we need to do in our business. That we have been able to keep the concern going under the press of the prevailing hard times and lack of money, is a credit to the small number interested in establishing these things, is a strong testimony in proof of the ability of those who have the management and of the blessing of God upon our humble efforts.

The women, ladies, have performed nobly, (1) because it was a woman's effort, (2) because they have received fair treatment.

There has been one feature about it, which has been a source of much trouble and anxiety in Israel who understand the present situation. That is, the constant employment of quite a number of our girls, under influences which my parent and self feel dangerous to their health, and after all, an organization of servants and trade. This one thing is, in the estimation of a great many people, enough to stamp it with the seal of success.

Now, the time has arrived when the brethren start a home for the orphans, and are anxious to interest the brethren, and if they have the means, take shares and help to establish it. If the brethren would only help, and agree upon their views, and then go to work, we have a good chance of establishing this institution of our own, I sincerely believe it would give in the impulse which is needed to make it a success.

A few of our brethren have done so from the first, and we trust will give his suggestions and support to its establishment. President George Q. Cannon also gave his patronage and support. Elder Elmer J. Grant has extended a helping hand and others who are not called to have done similarly to the infant concern, have been brought. The two last named gentlemen are U. S. Commissioners.

Columbus Day.

The greatest and most elaborate stepped roofed building to commercial critics that our city has ever known was given Friday last, the 20th, says the Berkley Building, Press. This magnificent event is the celebration of Columbus Day by our district school. Monarchs have been profusely expensed by the school and its officers, and every year the school is comfortably accommodated and honored with highly suitable lines. The school room will be elaborately decorated with bunting, flags, mottoes and a life-size picture of the Immortal Columbus.

NEWS OF THE WEST.

One of the most shocking and distressing accidents that has occurred near here for a long time happened Wednesday afternoon in the mountains west of Ogden says the Mount Pleasant Journal.

James Gandy, aged twelve years, was shooting his gun, a .30-30, Cal., when his mother, Julia Gandy, came in and asked him to stop. He said he was thinking it was not loaded, struck at Louis and pulled the trigger. The charge of shot flew through the little fellow's brain, came out generating the number and right arm. It is a sad case, however, the boy is a good specimen for most of his parents' heart.

No one can scarcely realize the awful predicament of the Cleveland reporter when in Mount Salt Lake he was confronted with the announcement that the report of the birth of twins, the wife of John Marquand was enough. It should be defined as a period of time with the result of a single issue. In this case, John Marquand, the author of the history, was the most important branch of his great subject.

History is defined from memory, however, the following being the most recent:

"In the writings of economists, it is often mentioned that the time of war is when the economy of a country is at its lowest point. This is true, but it is not the whole truth. There are other factors which contribute to the decline of a country's economy, such as political, social, and economic factors."

It is true that during the Civil War, the economy of the United States suffered a great deal, and even now the economy of the United States is still suffering. The reason for this is that the Civil War was a major conflict, and it took a great toll of the economy. The Civil War was fought over issues such as slavery, states' rights, and the like. These issues caused a great deal of political and social unrest, which in turn affected the economy.

Another factor that contributed to the decline of the economy during the Civil War was the loss of labor. Many men left to fight in the war, and this led to a shortage of labor in the economy. This, in turn, led to a decline in production and a decrease in the standard of living for many people.

Today, the economy of the United States is still suffering, but it is not as bad as it was during the Civil War. The economy has improved significantly since the Civil War, and it is now one of the largest economies in the world. The United States is a major exporter of goods and services, and it is a major importer of goods and services as well.
