Selected Poetry.

WE CAN MAKE HOME HAPPY.

Though we may not change the cottage
For mansions tall and grand,
Or exchange the little grass plot
For boundless stretch of land:
Yet there's something brighter, dearer
Than the wealth we'd thus command.

Though we have no means to purchase
Costly pictures, rich and rare,
Though we have not silken hangings
For the walls so cold and bare,
We can hang them o'er with garlands
For flowers bloom everywhere.

We can always make home cheerful,
If the right course we begin,
We can make its inmates happy,
And the truest blessings win:
It will make the small room brighter
If we let the sunshine in.

We can gather round the fireside
When the evening hours are long;
We can blend our hearts and voices
In a happy, social song;
We can guide some erring brother,
Lead him from the path of wrong.

We may fill our homes with music
And with sunshine brimming o'er,
If against all dark intruders
We will firmly close the door;
Yet should evil shadows enter,
We must love each other more.

There are treasures for the lowly
Which the grandest fail to find.
There's a chain of sweet affection
Binding friends of kindred mind;
We may reap the choicest blessing,
From the poorest lot assigned

FOREIGN NOTES.

A singular society has been founded in Westphalia; its objects is to give its members a "musical funeral."

The East India cotton crop is much larger this year than last. In four divisions reported the outrun is $701,112, while last year it was only $534,679.

The majority of the women formerly employed in the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, England, and now supplanted by male hands, have been engaged by a firm at Battersea to manufacture horse-shoe nails by machinery.

Prizes have been offered of $1,250 for the best and $750 for the second best essay on "The Temperance Reformation; its claims upon the Christian Church," by a London Temperance League. The competition is open to the world.

Fashionable circles in England have just been scandalized by the elopement of Lady Townshend with Lord Thynne. The foolish woman, who is only 24 years of age, was married at 17 to the husband whom she has deserted. He was a zealous philanthropist, and spent most of his time in visiting the poor. His wife, on the other hand, was gay and a constant attendant on balls and parties. She finally fell in with Lord Thynne, a professional libertine, and generally one of those rascals whose polished manners conceal their heartlessness. He leaves a wife behind him, and his companion has forsaken wealth and reputation for a man bankrupt in reputation and fortune. The circumstances show that it was only by a sudden impulse that she consented to fly with him. The step has been taken and her good name is gone forever. Society may tolerate her seducer, but for his poor victim there is small chance of human forgiveness.

There is a vessel in Queenstown harbor of 1,200 tons, which received from a single sea a surprising amount of damage. This vessel, a Norwegian, was struck by a sea or wave of so tremendous a character in the late gale as to sweep that portion of her cargo that was stowed upon the deck in moment into the sea; to carry off her cooking apparatus, made of cast iron; to empty and injure her deckhouse, to smash her bulwarks and stanchions, to wound and bruise three of her men, and to reduce four more to a state of weakness and syncope; to break the mate's thigh and wash a seaman overboard, and finally to fill the cabin and damage all the provisions so that the crew were nearly starving when they came into Queenstown. All these injuries were produced in a moment by a single wave. It not only cleared the decks, but it extinguished hope in the hearts of the crew, who the moment they were struck never expected to see land again.—Irish Telegraph.

EASTERN NOTES.

An assault suit at La Sueur, Minn., lately yielded the complainant twenty-five cents, and as his counsel had agreed to take one third of the damages, his fee was eight and a third cents.

A family in this city enjoyed the luxury of hot buckwheat cakes a few mornings since, but, after partaking of them quite fully were all seized with an unaccountable sickness, the symptoms being so entirely similar in each case that it was immediately surmised that the buckwheat flour was in some way the cause of it. An investigation was made, when it was found that the castor bean had been gathered with the wheat and ground up with it at the mill, imparting a reddish cast to the flour and operating rather disagreeably upon those who indulged in it.—So look out for the castor bean.—Richmond (Va) State Journal.
