"The Western Weekly."

There will soon be an addition to local current literature, in the shape of a periodical to be published in this city entitled, "The Western Weekly." The projectors of the enterprise are G. Q. Coray and Joseph M. Romney, both young men of character and ability, the former of Provo and the latter of Salt Lake. The plan of the proposed weekly journal has been explained to us, and it is an exceptionally good. The gentlemen named have begun the work of canvassing, and are already meeting with fair encouragement. We trust this will increase, and that those young brethren will not only succeed in a literary direction, which is already well assured, but financially. No journal can exist without the sinews, which we hope the public will in this instance, supply by extending a liberal patronage to the forthcoming journal.

Springville, Arizona.

"Our Crost," writing from this place recently says:

"We are located at the foot of the White Mountains, in what is commonly called Round Valley, in Apache County, thirty miles south of St. Johns, the county seat of Apache. Our location is a winter and part of the year, the building of a large corral, which will, when completed, surround this valley, or the greater part thereof, and will open up a large field for agricultural pursuits. This corral will be about nine miles in length. We expect to have it for the coming season. Our Bishop, G. H. Crosby, is a thoroughly good and enterprising home builder. We will soon be able to have good home butlers to our beautiful valley."

"We have had a fine winter so far for work. Stock of all kinds are doing well, our coldest weather is generally about Christmas, and from that on till about the middle of January. Peace, quietness, law and order reign in Apache County. There has been quite a reaction on the part of the people here. A tri-weekly mail from St. Johns to Springville, which answers our purposes very well."

EVIDENCE ALL IN.

Bond Tells a Straight Story—It Goes Against Taylor.

The remaining witnesses for the prosecution in the trial of Philip Bond and John Taylor, for murder, were examined yesterday afternoon, there being no variation from the account narrated in yesterday's News. The names of those testifying were James Doney, George Beers and Deputy Marshal W. D. Hickman.

The first witness for the defense was John Brunton, the justice of the peace who conducted the preliminary examination. He was asked a few questions relative to that proceeding, and was excused.

THE DEFENSE.
 William Taylor, father of one of the defendants, testified: On the evening of July 3, 1933, some one told me that Osborne had my knife; I went out and asked him for it, telling him I did not want any trouble, he said he would not do it—that he would die first; I then followed him up, and he made a jump at me, striking me with the handle of the knife and cutting a couple of gashes in my face; I must have asked him for the knife twenty times or over. To Mr. Peters—Knew W. D. Hickman; remember having a conversation with him on the 4th about the trouble; I told him that Osborne had knocked me down; I did not tell him that I knew nothing about the case; I did not need a doctor to attend my wounds.

George Wells testified—I was at the Taylor cabin the night of the trouble; there were several of us there.

DRINKING BEER.
 and having a good time; after William Taylor was knocked down I saw Osborne backing down the canyon with a knife in his hand, and threatening; I ran to Mages' and tried to borrow a gun, but he would not let me have one. In the meantime, old man Taylor had been picked up and carried into the cabin; he was unconscious; when Taylor asked Osborne for the knife, he replied by saying that he would kill any one of us—that came near him. To Mr. Clark—I went to Mages' to get a pistol, because I wanted to defend myself; I thought I was in danger, because he looked toward me when he made that remark. I wanted to get away from him; had several drinks that day—but I was not drunk; do not remember saying that Osborne relieved his injuries by falling over a fence—I may have said that; I was not sober on the 4th of July.

The court adjourned to 10 a. m. today.

Thomas Moran was the first witness this morning. He testified—Osborne was raising a fuss before Wm. Taylor came out of his cabin, and wanted to fight; he said he would cut the heart out of the man who interfered with him; Wm. Taylor came out and demanded the knife; shortly after, Osborne struck him; I then went into Mages' house, and remained there; did not see John Taylor there; he did not come and ask for a gun; I did not see him. To Mr. Peters—I went into Mages' immediately after old man Taylor was knocked down; I had been sitting on Mages' porch 20 minutes before Wm. Taylor was struck; the striking took place between 9 and 10 o'clock; Mages was with me most of the time; Wells did not come to Mages' for a gun; I did not see him.

NOT ALTOGETHER SOBER.
 I never miss my turn when anybody treats; do not know how to pay; I can take 20 drinks and then walk; I had several cups of beer; I was going to fight with Osborne when I found he had a knife; I hit him over the head and cut him on the face; he went toward him he backed down the road, and raised the knife, when I left; he made no effort to cut me; I did not see him frothing at the mouth; Osborne was 25 or 30 feet from the door when William Taylor came out. To Mr. Dickson—I am not a good judge of time; they were all having a party; I was paying most attention to the beer.

Thomas Ralph testified—I am acquainted with Wm. and John Taylor; was in Taylor's cabin on July 31 last; there were 6 to 10 p. m.; about 10:30 or 9 p. m. I heard a racket outside; went out and saw Osborne; he was talking with George Blaneval; I warned George that Osborne had a knife, and went back into the cabin; a few minutes afterward, Wm. Taylor came in; he had a small cut.

He had a small cut over the eye; it was bleeding some; John Taylor asked him "Father are you hurt much?" The old man only groaned; he did not know why John Taylor went after that.

To Mr. Peters—George Wells came in with Wm. Taylor; the latter was walking and was not inebriated; the wounds on his face were only little scratches; they were bleeding; I washed the blood off; he had been drinking beer.

To Mr. Dickson—I thought at first that he was badly hurt.

John Taylor testified—Have known John Taylor for six years; became acquainted with him in my saloon; I know his reputation for being peaceable; he is a good disposition.

To Mr. Clark—I have never lived in Blingham; Taylor is a customer of my saloon; my acquaintance with him was at my bar.

Martinus testified—John Taylor's reputation is good; he is a quiet and peaceable man; Philip Bond's reputation is a good one.

To Mr. Clark—Never saw John Taylor under the influence of liquor; did not hear of his being thrown out of a saloon about three weeks before the occurrence; he patronizes my saloon.

John Doney was the third saloon keeper to testify to the reputation of the defendant John Taylor, and said that he had known him by the name of Stone.

To Mr. Clark—I am not acquainted in Blingham; do not know how Taylor is regarded there; never saw him drunk.

PHILIP BOND.
 one of the defendants, was sworn, and testified: I was born in Cornwall, England; am 25 years old; left England in 1932; went to Michigan, where I remained two years; then went to California; came to Utah in May, 1933, and went to Blingham; I met John Taylor at Taylor's cabin on July 3; we were drinking till about 10 p. m.; John Taylor and I went outside; a few minutes later I saw John Osborne; he drew a knife and threatened to kill somebody; I told him to put it up; he said he would strike me; John Taylor said Osborne had stolen the knife from his father; Wm. Taylor picked up a stone to defend myself; Osborne threatened to kill anyone who came near him; I picked up a stone to defend myself; Osborne retreated down the road; we followed asking for the knife; John Taylor said he had stabbed his father, and he fell, and I went up and took the knife; I gave it to Taylor; Osborne said I struck him, but I had not; so I saw my pipe in his pocket and took it out; asked him to come around in the morning and see me, when he was sober; I had never talked to any one with Osborne; when Taylor raised the club, I tried him not to strike; he was then in the act of striking; I got acquainted with Osborne in Michigan; I saw him from the time I left Michigan till I went to Blingham; when I saw him I called him by the name of Stone; and he told me his name was Osborne; he said he had stabbed a person in England; I did not know John Taylor; Osborne had also spoken of it in the presence of John Taylor and James Doney.

To Mr. Clark—I believed Osborne's statement about the stabbing; I thought of it the night of the trouble; I did not know who he meant; I told Taylor not to strike, for fear he would kill Osborne.

To Mr. Dickson—I said "Don't strike him with that."

YOU'LL KILL HIM.
 I don't know that Taylor replied; he said at one time, "I'll fix Osborne; this was what he wanted to strike Osborne; I spoke immediately after Taylor asked Osborne if he had stabbed his father; I said "Don't strike him with that."

club Taylor used was part of a shovel handle; I heard that William Taylor burned it; I think John Taylor told me; we were about 500 feet from the cabin when Taylor came with the club; I picked up the stone to disarm Osborne, because I did not want him to stab anybody else; I understood he had stabbed William Taylor; the stone picked up was about the size of my fist; Osborne had the knife up when Taylor struck him; John Taylor held the club with both hands.

To Taylor—Some one told us, before Osborne was struck, that he had stabbed William Taylor.

James Doney testified—I heard Osborne say he had or a woman in England; heard him speak of it more than once.

With this evidence the defense rested its case, and court took a recess till 3 p. m.

This afternoon the prosecution called Nathaniel Stringham, who testified—I became acquainted with James Osborne in May, 1933, in St. Johns, Michigan.
