Salt Lake Men Are Now Scrambling to Get in on the Ground Floor.

The Burlington has awarded the contract of building 235 miles of new road in Montana to Guthrie & Co. of St. Paul, Minn.

This anouncement was made in Salt Lake yesterday and on the strength of it several contractors residing here last night wrote to Guthrie & Co. asking for further particulars with the object in view of securing sub-contracts.

The contract was let, it is affirmed, on Wednesday of this week. It is a big proposition and part of the scheme for the invasion of the northwest.

The road is to be extended from Billings, the present western terminus of the C. B. & Q., on to Great Falls, Mont., where are located big smelters of the Anaconda company.

En route the Burlington will tap the big coal deposits which lie east of Great Falls and which, in a measure, have been secured by the Burlington interests.

This information comes "News" from a contractor who day was given the quiet tip "to on the ground floor" and who ingly took immediate preliminary steps in the direction of securing a sub-contract on the proposition.
