EVENING NEWS.

OUR DELEGATE INTERVIEWED.

HON. JOHN T. CAINE ON THE PRESENT ISSUE.

AN OUTSPoken DEFENSE.

Following is an account of an interview with Hon. John T. Caine, which appeared in the Washington Republican of March 31:

The Hon. Edmunds Mormon bill, which is now on the Senate calendar under favorable report from the Judiciary committee of that body awaiting Utah, has stirred up the Mormons of Utah, and elsewhere to the highest pitch of excitement, and it is predicted that some of the most lawless and lawless of the lawless will fight against its enforcement by force.

John T. Caine, the Mormon Delegate to Congress from Utah, was interviewed last night on this and other matters before Congress for the suppression of polygamy in that Territory. He could not believe that Congress would ever be so foolish as to pass a bill which would be so completely and entirely obnoxious to the Mormon people, and he said that he would not be surprised if the bill were to be passed, since "the bill," he said, "were framed under a complete misapprehension of the feelings of the people of Utah; and if it were within the just power of Congress to make such laws, their enactment would in no sense simplify the situation."

The Hon. Edmunds bill provides that Utah shall be a free State, and that the people of Utah, and if it were within the just power of Congress to make such laws, their enactment would in no sense simplify the situation."

But it is noticeable here in Washington. When I made my argument against the Cassid bill before the House Committee on Territories, the Associated Press reported me as saying that I recognized the right of Congress to punish polygamy. If they so desired, I made no such statement, nor anything akin to it, because I think that such power belongs to the people locally, and was never given to the national legislature. And when the reporter's attention to the error and asked a correction, no heed was paid to my request. This may seem only a slight matter, but it serves to illustrate the facility with which falsehoods are circulated concerning me, and the difficulty of our correcting the errors. Not only would I ask a fair understanding of our case by the press and public generally, but especially by Congress. A full investigation of Utah affairs by statesmen in all we ask; and we should not appeal in this right. We are citizens, and if any people in this land are worthy of the right of citizenship, it is the honest dealing both for what we have done for the country and what we have done for the people. The clique who ask for stringing legislation are a long suffering people, and single religious or moral objection against plural marriage. They use "polygamy" as a battle cry and in their hearts they do not have a single wish for its annihilation. If morality were the motive, why did they not enforce without discrimination the disfranchising provisions of the Edmunds act. That law expressly disqualified from voting and holding office not alone men and women who have entered into plural marriage with the most sacred and self-sacrificing motives which can govern humanity, but makes such laws, their enactment would in no sense simplify the situation."

The Hon. Edmunds bill provides that Utah shall be a free State, and that the people of Utah, and if it were within the just power of Congress to make such laws, their enactment would in no sense simplify the situation."
