Bringing out the Dead. LYNCHBURG, Va., 11.—After everything was got in readiness at the Pocahontas mines yesterday evening, the police force placed a guard at the main entrance of the mines in order to keep back the crowd, which had been attracted by the notice posted that the bodies must be claimed. The mining engineer in charge of the rescuing party entered the mines to note the situation of affairs. When they emerged from the mines they announced the damage less than had been supposed, and little trouble was experienced in recovering the bodies of the victims. The two bodies recovered yesterday horribly mutilated, were the victims. The two bodies recovered yesterday horribly mutilated, were those of Boon Maxey, the white boy, and Jim Crim, the negro. The work was resumed this morning. Still a large crowd congregated at the entrance, and ropes were stretched to prevent a too near approach. The crowd, however, observed proper decorum, and there was no undue. there was no undue Attorney Phelps excitement. A spirit of great solemnity seemed to pervade the crowd. A number of miners, well acquainted with the victums, were placed at the entrance for the purpose of identifying the bodies. Of 16 recovered so far, only six were identified. These were: James Crim, recognized by the belt he wore; Isam Maxwell, by his boots; Geo. Maxwell, by being found with his brother; Wm. A thrill of horror passed through the crowd as the rescuing party brought out the disfigured remains of a miner with his dinner bucket clasped in his arms, who was probably just partaking of his midnight meal, when the explosion hurled him into eternity, Several miners were found with their picks in their hands, and their nositions, inditheir hands, and their positions indi-cated that death was instantaneous to all in the mine. At 3,30 o'clock it was announced no more bodies would be removed before Saturday morning. The balance of the time was occupied in getting out the carcasses of the mules which were too heavy to be carried, and had to be halved and quartered and hauled out. Very little excitement prevailed. The large crown of men and women stood near the entrance hoping by some familiar feature to recognize their dead relatives, but as the announcement was made that no more bodies could be taken out until Saturday, the crowd withdrew. The Political Pot Begins to Simmer.

CHICAGO, 11.—Republican primaries were held in this city this afternoon to elect delegates to nominate Congressmen in the first, second and fourth districts, and to elect delegates in all four of the districts to the National Convention. The issue in all of the districts is clearly defined, as between the adherents and opposers of Senator Logan for the Presidential nomination, and the choice of delegates to the district conventions, The balloting was characterized by an unusual amount of turbulence. The struggle in the third (Congressman Davis') district was particularly excited, and many personal encounters and several free fights resulted, but as the only weapons used were fists, no serious cousequences were fists, no serious cousequences followed. As a result of it all, there was a divided victory. The first district chose 80 delegates to the Congressional Convention, 40 of whom were for Logan and 40 against. An exciting time is anticipated when the occupied convention meets to-morrow to choose delegates to the National Convention. In the second district the Logan and anti-Logan managers agreed to disagree, and held two sets of primaries, and will send two sets of delegates to the National Convention. In the third district anti-Logan delegates were chosen, and in the fourth those were chosen, and in the fourth those in favor of Logyn were chosen.

Cooperstown, N.Y., 11.—The twenty-fourth-congressional district republican convention, composed of delegates from Scoharie, Herkimer and Otsego counties, elected Titus Sheard, of Herkimer and Hobart Kral, of Scoharie, delegates to the national convention. David Wilbur, of Otsego, was appointed Presidential elector. The delegates are anti-Arthur, with preference divid. en, and in the fourth those

I believe that there should be a modification of the existing tariff, but I am opposed to the passage of the Morrison bill before the House. I am in favor of the Ohio platform—tariff for revenue, with incidental protection—as the wisest policy to unite the democracy for the national victory. I believe that a large majority of the democrats in this State are in accord with the above views."

The Situation in Cuba. A letter from Havana dated April 5th says: Scrious accounts came from the interior as the movements of large parties of bandits, and the government troops continue to come in. Yesterday a battalion of regular troops was sent from Hayana to Vueltaarriba, and for a few days the coast in the neighborhood of Hayana has been occupied by detachments of troops.
