CONTRASTS.—Of five hundred and fifty-one lunatics in Great Britain, (says Dr. Hall) there are five hundred and five whose aggregate annual income is nearly twelve hundred thousand dollars, or about twenty-three hundred dollars each. In connection with this matter, we may state, that of a given number of lunatics in Massachusetts, three-fourths were of parents, one or both of whom drank liquor largely. Extremes meet. The rich, who revel in luxury and ease, and the poor, who riot in ruin, furnish the children for the mad-house; thus giving us the strongest reasons to infer, that if our race is perpetuated in physical vigor and mental power, it must be done, in the parents, by the practice of temperance and industry; temperance in the indulgence of all the appetites of our nature, and industry in the prosecution of our callings, whatever those callings may be—giving the preference always to out-door activities. No man was made to be a loafer; no man was made to be a beast. And he who violates nature in either case, is working out for himself and his children, if not for both, a certain and miserable end.

OCCUPATIONS OF AMERICANS.—The census returns of the occupations of the people of the United States are curious and instructive. The number of barbers and brokers is about the same, and between the two, people get well shaved.—There are about 80 professed doctors to one professional undertaker.

Only 82 persons informed the census takers that they were "authors," while no less than 2,000 individuals assumed to be artists. There are 100,000 blacksmiths, and the same number of merchants. The lawyers outnumber the bakers by 10,000, there being 24,000 of the former and 14,000 of the latter. The hat makers and tobaccoists are about equal in number.

The carpenters number 200,000; the sailors 50,000; the wheelwrights 30,000; the saddlers 23,000. There are more weavers than teachers; more vinegar makers than showmen; and as many wagonmakers as editors. Strange to relate, that among the returns of the trades not a politician is enumerated; and the tables of the professions do not include a single patriot.

OBSTINACY.—An obstinate man does not hold opinions, but they hold him; for when he is once possessed of an error it is like a devil, only cast out with great difficulty. Whatsoever he lays hold on, like a drunken man, he never loses, though it do but help him to sink the sooner. His ignorance is abrupt and inaccessible both by art and nature, and will hold out to the last, though it has nothing but rubbish to defend. It is as dark as pitch, and sticks as fast to any thing it lays hold on.

His skull is so thick that it is proof against reason, and never cracks but on the wrong side, just opposite to that on which the impression is made, which surgeons say does not happen very frequently. The slighter and more inconsistent his opinions are, the faster he holds them, otherwise they would fall asunder of themselves; for opinions that are false ought to be held with more strictness and assurance than those that are true, otherwise they will be apt to betray their owners before they are aware.

CHILDREN.—God bless the little children! We like their bright eyes, their winning ways, their rosy dreams. Nothing seems to weigh down their buoyant spirits long; misfortune may fall to their lot, but the shadows it casts upon their life-path are fleeting as the clouds that come and go in an April sky. Their future may, perchance, appear dark to others, but to their fearless gaze it looms up brilliant and beautiful as the walls of a fairy palace.—There is no tear which a mother's gentle hand cannot wipe away, no wound that a mother's kiss cannot heal, no anguish which the sweet murmuring of her soft, low voice cannot soothe. The warm, generous impulses of their nature have not been fettered and cramped by the cold formalities of the world; they have not yet learned to veil a hollow heart with false smiles, or hide the basest purposes beneath honeyed words. Neither are they constantly on the alert to search out faults and foibles with argus eye, on the contrary, they exercise that blessed charity which "thinketh no evil."

CHANGEABLE LOCK AND KEY.—A very ingenious, unpickable, and changeable lock has been invented. The key is so constructed that it is capable of an inexhaustible number of changes. This is effected by providing it with slides which work in grooves in such a manner that each slide may be moved with the nail. When the required arrangement is made, the whole is tightened by a screw, and, whatever form the screw is thus made to assume, the lock adjusts itself to that form in the act of locking, and only that form or arrangement of the key will then unlock it. This is an ingenious device, and is said to operate to great perfection.

WHAT IS LAW?—Law is like a fire; and those who meddle with it may chance to burn their fingers. Law is like an eel-trap—very easy to get in, but very difficult to get out of. Law is like a lancet, dangerous in the hands of the ignorant; doubtful even in the hands of an adept. Law is like a sieve, you may see through it, but you will be considerably reduced before you can get through it. Law is like prussic acid, a dangerous remedy, and the smallest dose is generally sufficient.

UNITED STATES MAIL.
POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., Jan. 15, 1857.
PROPOSALS for conveying the mails of the United States from September 1, 1857, to June 30, 1858, inclusive, on the following route in the Territory of Utah, will be received at the Contract Office of this department until 9 p. m. of the 15th of June, 1857, to be decided by the 20th of June—
UTAH TERRITORY.
12510 From Cedar City, by Harmony and Pine Valley, to Santa Clara.
Bidders to state schedule and distance.

INSTRUCTIONS.
1. No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connexion with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Deduction will also be ordered for a grade of performance inferior to that specified in the contract.
2. For leaving behind or throwing off the mails, or any portion of them, for the admission of passengers, or for being concerned in getting up or running an express conveying intelligence in advance of the mail, a quarter of the pay may be deducted.
3. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be promptly and satisfactorily explained by certificates of postmasters, or the affidavits of other credible persons, for failing to arrive in contract time; for neglecting to take the mail from, or delivering it into, a post office; for suffering it (owing either to the unsuitableness of the place or in manner of carrying it) to be wet, injured, destroyed, robbed, or lost, or for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, a coach, car, or steamboat on a route.
4. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures to run agreeably to contract; for violating the post office laws, or disobeying the instructions of the department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the department, to do so; for assigning the contract without the assent of the Postmaster General; for running an express as aforesaid; or for transporting persons or packages conveying mail matter out of the mail.
5. The Postmaster General may order an increase of service on a route by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may change schedules of departures and arrivals in all cases, and particularly to make them conform to connexions with railroads, without increase of pay, provided the running time be not abridged. The Postmaster General may also curtail or discontinue the service, in whole or in part, at pro rata decrease of pay, allowing one month's extra compensation on the amount dispensed with, whenever, in his opinion, the public interests do not require the same, or in case he desires to supersede it by a different grade of transportation.
6. Payments will be made for the service by collections from, or drafts on, postmasters, or otherwise, after the expiration of each quarter—say in February, May, August, and November.
7. The distances are given according to the best information; but no increased pay will be allowed should they be greater than advertised, if the points to be supplied be correctly stated. Bidders must inform themselves on this point, and also in reference to the weight of the mail, the condition of roads, hills, streams, &c., and all obstructions, ferries, or obstructions of any kind by which expense may be incurred. Offices established after this advertisement is issued, and also during the contract term, are to be visited without extra pay, if the distance be not increased.
JAMES CAMPBELL,
Postmaster General.
