KOOYMAN SWEARS TO NO TONGUES

Mixes Dutch and English in Ready
Flow of Profanity.

HE FIGHTS WITH HIS WIFE.

Witness Says He Squirts Tobacco Juice
On Floors After His Helpmeet
Has Scrubbed Them.

John Kooymann mixes his Dutch and Americanisms when swearing at his wife and children, according to the testimony of neighbors of the illustrious family as given before Judge Gowans in the juvenile court Saturday. Oom Paul and his brave cohorts when hiding behind friendly kopjes in the Transvaal never heard such mixtures in their entire campaign and if Kooymann had only been in South Africa the net results of the Ladysmith encounter might have been different. According to testimony, when Kooymann starts his scrambled cuss words everybody within hearing bounds to fight. Among those who wish Kooymann was in South Africa now are all peace officers, courts and a goodly per cent of plain citizens.

The latest, but the fact is that it is not the last chapter in the continued story of the "Mishaps of the Kooymans." was recorded before Judge Gowans Saturday when Kooymann attempted to show why he should not be deprived of his children. After it was shown to the court that Kooymann had on one occasion locked his daughter-in-law up in a room next to the dining room and let the aroma of the steaming coffee come in through the transom, mingled with the tempting odors given off by the roast beef, the brown gravy, the pudding, the onions and the corned beef, and that he had thrown the open transom for her to eat, the daughter-in-law was asked to tell more of her troubles growing out of her relations with the Kooymans. She said that Kooymann had burned her sister's house and that he had taught her to swear. Kooymann has a very disgusting habit of spitting tobacco juice on the floor after his wife has scrubbed it, the daughter-in-law said. She ended her recital with the statement that Kooymann and his wife fight a good deal.

Another chapter in the thrilling story will be told in court next Tuesday.

CHILD'S LIFE SAVED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.
Mrs. John Englehardt, of Gera, Mich., writes: "My little two-year-old daughter who had taken a hard cold resulting in croup, I had sent for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy she would have choked to death. I gave this medicine every five minutes and began to cough. I throw up the phlegm. I can recommend it in the highest terms as I have another child in the same way." Sold by all druggists.

GEO. CRISMON FUNERAL.

President Joseph F. Smith and Other
Speakers Pay Feeling Tribute To Deceased.

The last rites in honor of the memory of George Crismon, pathfinder and pioneer, were observed at the Fourteenth street funeral home on Saturday afternoon. The place was thronged with friends and relatives, many of those in attendance having been residents of the ward in the old days when Mr. Crismon was associated with the bishopric, and many others coming from Granite stake, where he had been actively engaged in church work for so many years. The services were presided over by President Frank Y. Taylor. The speakers were Bishop John M. Whitaker, Elder John M. Cannon, of the Granite stake high council, of which the deceased was a member, Elder Frank Y. Taylor, President John R. Winder, and President Joseph F. Smith. Each speaker paid a high tribute to the character of Mr. Crismon, and President Winder spoke interestingly of the time when he first met him fifty years ago when he was one of the pioneers of the Fourteenth ward, and later during his active career as an Indian fighter.

President Smith's feeling tribute to the deceased was full of interest. He said he had known Mr. Crismon in California, when he, the speaker, was returning as a missionary from the Sandwich Islands; word had just been received in San Bernardino of the approach of Johnston's army to the Utah borders, and President Young had sent out word to the saints in the west. The Crismon family at once decided that if their people were to be annihilated, they would share their fate with the young man, George, and others of the family, had started by train for the deserts to go to Utah.

President Smith had engaged in the service of the family as driver of the team which conveyed George Crismon's mother, and the speaker paused a moment to pay a warm tribute to her as a loving mother, a kind friend, and a pure woman. He said that long ride over the desert he had learned to know George Crismon as a true man, a man of honor and one of sterling integrity. He was true to his people, his friends, and was always ready to respond to any call, no matter how unattractive.

The prayers of the occasion were pronounced by Elders James McGhie and Seymour B. Young. The music was furnished by the Pyper, Whitney, Ensign and Spencer quartet, with Organist Bessley, the selections being, "Refuge of the Weary," "Farwell all earthly honors," "Sometime We'll Understand," and "Not dead but sleeping."

OBSEQUIES OF MRS. BOWMAN.
Rev. P. A. Shipkin in His Sermon Invites Against Vicious Practices.

The funeral of Mrs. Edna Franka Bowman was held yesterday afternoon from Hall's undertaking parlors, Rev. P. A. Shipkin officiating. Mrs. Bowman was "Face to Face" and "Love Divine." In his talk, the speaker said: "Society often suffers from the combination of a fool, whisky and a gun. We do not realize the gravity of the thing with life and the modern tendency of expressing love for another with a smoking revolver is a menace to society."

Rev. Shipkin rebuked those who attended the funeral of a morbid curiosity, and also deprecated the carrying of firearms. He said if the law against this were enforced, there would not be so many tragedies. The interment was at Bingham Junction.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. C. C. GILROY'S signature is on each box, 25c.

DEATH OF LILLIE SMITH.
At the age of five years and 26 days, Lillie, the little daughter of Albert and Emma Jane Butler Smith, died at the home of her parents, in Central Park, Salt Lake county, Saturday morning, Feb. 1, at 6:30 a. m., of diphtheria.

Two beautiful selections, "Song Day We'll Understand," and "Shall We Meet Beyond the River." After covering the grave with beautiful flowers the relatives and friends dispersed with feelings of sorrow for the parents and sympathy for the bereaved family.

A quartet consisting of Martin S. Christopherson, Willard C. Burton, Jr., Julia Burton and Ethel Larsen sang "And in This World of Suffering We'll Understand," and "Shall We Meet Beyond the River." After covering the grave with beautiful flowers the relatives and friends dispersed with feelings of sorrow for the parents and sympathy for the bereaved family.

At Kennedy's hall, Market street, Feb. 4, under auspices of Pythian Sisters, costumes may be had at the hall. All Knights and friends are invited.

Thousands Turn Out.

Early Rush to Keith-O'Brien's—
Sidewalk Crowded Before
The Doors Opened.

It Seemed That Nearly Every Woman
In the City Turned Out. The Shopping Interest Will Continue
For Several Days.

Never in Salt Lake was there such a response to an Embroidery Sale! In front of Keith-O'Brien's store before 8 o'clock Monday morning hundreds of women were waiting for the doors to open.

By a quarter after 8 o'clock the store was the scene of a sea of women. But there was no wild rush, no jam, due to a distribution of the embroidered, every aisle being given up to their display.

By this means the crowd was distributed. The addition of regular clerks from other departments and 50 extra sales people, facilitated the shopping.

Naturally the finer patterns and the broader widths were first sought. But there was such an abundance of the higher values that every piece was a pick up.

Keith-O'Brien Company had bought heavily. From time to time the tremendous reserve stock was drawn upon, and later during the hour, as well as the early comers.

Long before 9 o'clock it seemed that every department in the house was crowded.

Notwithstanding, there were disappointments—naturally, the wider widths were first preference, then, rather than risk not getting other desirable values, few customers parleyed, but took second and third choice.

Crowds followed the men who brought in reserve stock. One lady, who got down late, cried because a certain all-over piece, which she had seen in the window and upon which she had set her heart, could not be found. But where one was filled with regret, another rejoiced.

The best part of the sale was its genuineness—every piece sold was a bargain, four and five times the price!

Half price is a bargain—then consider the greater values! No wonder every home was represented, for the women who spied down in an automobile touched a bow with the wife of the laboring man.

It was an achievement of modern merchandising—an unfolding of the spirit of the times. One of those rare treats that goes far toward cementing store and customer.

It was a demonstration of the customers—the results satisfy. She is satisfied with results.

So immense is the reserve stock that the store will continue several days, for the big store promises to replenish the pieces from day to day.
