SAVE YOUR HAIR

TO LEARN HOW TO DO IT READ AND HEED WHAT FOLLOWS.

SAVE YOUR HAIR.—The laws of Health and Longevity demand it, the customs of social life require it. The matter is of great importance in every way.

BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR.—It is the surpassing crown of glory, and for the loss of it there is no compensation.

CULTIVATE YOUR HAIR.—For by no other means can it be saved and beautified.

LYON'S

KATHAIRON,

Discovered thirty-five years ago by Prof. Lyon, of Yale, is the most perfect preparation in the world for preserving and beautifying the hair.

Besides being the best hair dressing ever produced, Lyon's Kathairon will positively prevent grayness, and will restore new hair to bald heads, if the roots and follicles are not destroyed.

It actually performs these seeming miracles, of which the following is

A FAIR SPECIMEN

I had been entirely bald for several years, constitutional, I suppose. I used a few bottles of Kathairon, and, to my great surprise, I have a thick growth of young hair.

COL. JOHN L. DORRANCE, U. S. A.

In every important respect the Kathairon is absolutely incomparable. It is unequaled.

1. To Cure Baldness.
2. To Restore Gray Hair.
3. To Remove Dandruff.
4. To Dress and Beautify the Hair.

BEAR IN MIND.—The Kathairon is no sticky paste of sulphur and sugar-of-lead, to paint and daub the hair and paralyze the brain. It is a pure and limpid vegetable lotion, intended to restore the hair by natural growth and reinvigoration. It is splendidly perfumed, and the most delightful toilet dressing known. No lady's or gentleman's toilet outfit is complete without Lyon's Kathairon.

FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

EXTRA SESSION.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 15.—The secretary of the Senate, before reading the journal, read the following note from Vice-President Wheeler: "A telegram received this morning advises me of the dangerous illness of a sister and summons me home. It will be necessary for the Senate, on its meeting, to-day, to elect a president pro tem."

Davis, West Virginia, said as there was comparatively a small number of senators in attendance he hoped there would be a delay to enable absentees to arrive. At the suggestion of Wallace, an informal recess was taken. It was discovered at the time the note was read that there was a larger number of republican than democratic senators present. A messenger was dispatched for Senator Thurman, but that gentleman entered the Senate chamber soon after the messenger left, and the session was resumed.

Bayard then offered the following:

Resolved, That in the absence of the Vice-President, A. G. Thurman be, and is hereby chosen, president of the Senate pro tem.

Antleny moved to substitute the name of Thomas W. Ferry. Disagreed to, yeas 18, nays 28, and the resolution passed.

Thurman was conducted to the chair by Ferry, the former remarking on the way thither: "Turn about is fair play." Thurman, on taking the chair, said: "Senators, it is only necessary for me to say in the fewest possible words that I sincerely thank you for this mark of your confidence."

The journal was then read.

Bills were introduced by Jones to provide for the speedy completion of a line of railroad and telegraph between the ports of the lower Mississippi River and southern frontier of the United States and to aid in the construction of the same and for other purposes.

Hoar asked to be relieved from service on the committee on agriculture, and Cameron, Wisconsin, asked to be relieved as a member of the committee on routes to the seaboard.

Bell was appointed to fill both vacancies.

The vacancy on the committee on education and labor was filled by the appointment of Lamar.

The army appropriation bill was taken up and Logan addressed the Senate. He thought the question now before the body more important than any other that had arisen since 1861, when the same sentiments which prompted the present legislation, expressed by many of the same men now uttering them, led to the war. He denounced the proposed legislation as bad in itself, and as being attempted by unparliamentary practices. He discussed at considerable length the question of protecting colored men in their right; maintained that government must reserve the right to interfere when fraud was committed and punishment refused by the state authorities. He warned the democracy against going too far; the people would, if necessary, rise and by force protect their rights from destruction. He confessed he had been disappointed in finding that the democracy were bent on destroying the peace of the country. The extreme conciliation extended them had not been met in a similar spirit. He charged the democrats with tampering with the peace and harmony of the country, and with insincerity in working its destruction. The democratic party were responsible for whatever discord exists. The republicans had courted peace by every concession honor and dignity would permit. They will make further sacrifices even, but the democracy must understand that they will do nothing dishonorable to them or to the country; they will not relinquish the principles which inured to the people, gained by the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution; they will not permit the modification of the rights of 4,000,000 of the people of the south, who have been liberated from slavery and admitted to the rights of citizenship; they shall not be remanded to the condition of serfdom or peonage. Let me invite them to a place which is honorable, and which will make us a model for all the people for centuries to come; a peace which must be built on the high respect of citizens of the common country; it must rest on the concession of equal rights to all citizens of the republic, black or white, native or foreign born; a peace that knows no state lines for abrogating the rights of American citizens; a peace which would enable all people to cluster around the American flag as an emblem of their sovereignty, patriotism and virtue—a people strong enough to defy the power of the world, and who will protect its citizens in all their constitutional rights on land and sea, at home and abroad, elevating the great future of our country, clear and full, in the blazing sunlight of our hope.

Beck said the last sentence of the gentleman's speech was a synopsis of the democratic policy. All the indictments and arraignments seemed very unnecessary in view of the fact that there was but the simple proposition under discussion, whether the people, by their representatives in Congress, have a right peaceably to pass a law saying that States shall conduct their own elections, uncontrolled by military interference; that juries shall be free from test oaths and State affairs be managed without the interference of federal bayonets. The senator from Illinois complained that the colored people were not represented here now. No man, white or black, would think of comparing men who represented the south under the republican rule with those now sitting around him. The south, to-day, was represented by men who were the peers of any gentlemen on the other side. He denied that any revolutionary language had been uttered by him. He had not threatened the President, but, although he favored the separating of this measure from the appropriation bill, he believed the President would sign the bill as he ought, since it was perfectly constitutional. His past conduct indicated this. The republicans could not make him act as a party president. Were he president he would resent the threats of veto made by his party as unbecoming. Regarding the small number of troops east of Omaha, it is easy to concentrate them, and 4,500 were concentrated in Louisiana when it was necessary for republicans to carry that State. He quoted from President Hayes' inaugural address and said: The liberal spirit there shown had been followed out so far, and would probably continue to be in spite of the clamor about revolution. What had been done since the South "captured the capitol" that had not been for the good of the whole country? Have we not opposed corruption, maintained local self-government and equal rights? Sought to make civil power superior to military? Demanded fair trials by the jury, honest elections conducted by the states themselves and upheld the just powers of the federal government in all the great national affairs that reach beyond State lines? If a true comparison were drawn between the condition of the southern States now and their condition some years ago, the speech of the gentleman from Illinois, Logan, would fall to the ground before the truth of the case. The negroes had learned that the democrats were their true friends and were no longer deceived by the promises of republicans. Let them alone and the democratic party will bring them up to the highest civilization of which they are capable at the earliest possible moment. Beck quoted from Evart's speech at the Cooper Institute, January 12, 1875, at a meeting called to consider the action of the troops in Louisiana, and from a speech made in the Senate by Seward in 1856, in which he pointed out the danger of relying on the army to enforce laws, and said the best warrant for making just laws was enlightened public opinion. Beck alluded to the fact that General Gilbert broke up the democratic convention in Kentucky, in 1863, with three or four soldiers. They were not afraid of those few men, but they submitted because the United States government was behind the soldiers. During that summer martial law was proclaimed in Kentucky and military officers were sent to the polls and closed them, refusing to allow votes to be cast for loyal men. Charles Wyckliffe, former postmaster-general of the United States, was the democratic candidate for governor. He had been in Congress and voted money to carry on the war, but the United States troops prevented votes from being cast for him, and yet it had been asserted here that there had never been restraint by military power at the polls.

Hoar—That was in the war.

Beck—Kentucky, at that time, was paying her taxes to the federal government, and had 60,000 men in the federal army. President Lincoln had on one occasion been obliged to interfere and partly rescind the orders given to General Schenck in Maryland, because of the abuse made of the military. Reverting to Blaine's statement that the cry against military despotism was likely to injure the country, Beck said the democrats were not alone in denouncing the administration of affairs. He quoted from the remarks of Stanley Matthews in the liberal convention of 1872, composed of men who had been republicans, in which Matthews denounced the action of government, especially on the use of the military power. Beck yielded to a motion to adjourn, and will conclude to-morrow.

Adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 15.—After the reading of the journal, the Speaker called the committees for reports. The only report submitted was from the committee on accounts, relative to the committee clerk's report. It was adopted, and consideration was resumed of the Senate bill for the purchase or construction of a retrigerating ship for the disinfection of vessels and cargoes. The bill passed with a trifling amendment.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the legislative bill, the pending question being on Bragg's motion to insert a clause repealing the law creating the southern claims commission and substitute therefor the one offered by Young (Tenn.) abolishing the commission, but transferring all claims now pending before it to the court of claims.

Bragg favored the proposition.

Garfield said the proposition of Young to transfer all the pending propositions to the court of claims would be equivalent to breaking down all distinction between loyalty and disloyalty in regard to about 8,000 claims.

Bragg said his idea in offering the amendment was to prevent government paying a debt for which it is not liable, to prevent republicans from publishing campaign documents calling the democrats confederates who are attempting to rob government.

Springer moved to amend Young's substitute by adding a proviso that cases thus transferred to the court of claims shall be subject to the same defence by the government that could have been made if the cases were pending before the commission. Rejected, with only 35 affirmative votes.

Young's substitute was rejected, 112 to 60.

Springer offered an amendment abolishing the southern claims commission and providing that any person who may have a claim against the United States in which the court of claims would not now have jurisdiction, but founded on equity and justice, and not barred by limitation, may file his plea in the court of claims. It further provides that the court shall report its finding to Congress, and Congress shall not allow or authorize the payment of any private claim not payable under the existing law until the claims have been investigated by the court of claims. Without disposing of the pending amendments, the committee rose, and the House directed that all debate on amendments shall close in ten minutes after the House again goes into committee. Adjourned.

Decline in Provisions.

CHICAGO, 15. — Private advices from New York say that James R. Keene has given large orders to sell wheat in this market, and that Chicago operators are bearing the market in New York. Provisions have declined rapidly to-day.

Bills to be Introduced.

WASHINGTON, 15.—A special says: The members of the House had, altogether, over 1,000 bills at the Capitol, to-day, to introduce. All the House committees will organize to-morrow.

Three Months' Failure Record.

The following is the report of Dunbarlow and Co., showing the number of failures in the United States and Canada, for the three months ending March 31st, 1879.

	Number Failures	Amount Liabilities
Eastern States,	343	$ 8,840,842
Middle States,	831	114,394,647
Southern States,	495	8,117,908
Western States,	648	8,389,237
Pacific States and Territories,	207	4,859,047
Total,	2,524	43,112,685
Dominion of Canada	634	15,648,697

During the corresponding period in 1878 there were 3,355 failures in the United States, with liabilities amounting to $82,078,826, and for the three months in 1877 there were 2,869 failures, with liabilities of $54,538,070. Dunbarlow & Company report the total number of failures in the United States and Territories for the three months ending March 31, at 2,524, amounting to $43,648,697; total number in the Pacific States and Territories, 207, amounting to $4,859,047.

The Commercial Bulletin notes the decrease from the first quarter last year as another healthful sign, denoting an improvement in the business situation compared with the corresponding period of last year, the decrease is 831 equal to 25 per cent. In the amount of liabilities, however, even a greater reduction is shown, the failures for the last months being only slightly in excess of one-half in amount of those for the similar perion of 1878. Last monthly circular of Smith, Edwards & Company, Liverpool, referring to Beaconfield's recent allusions to the causes of monetary disturbances, says the question of bimetalism is exciting great interest now throughout Lancashire, and the opinion is steadily tending in the direction of Metalism, but the interests in London opposed to it are so powerful that it is doubtful whether any decided step can be taken in that direction for a long time to come.

Convention of Colored Men.

LITTLE ROCK, 15.—The convention of colored men adopted a resolution approving the late resolution of Senator Windom, introduced in Congress, and asserting that many Arkansas negroes are not allowed constitutional rights. Two colored commissioners were appointed to consider the question of migrating to some suitable State or Territory, and recommending a national loan or donation to aid in settling the Territory selected.

FOREIGN.

MEXICO.

Diaz' Message to Congress.

CITY OF MEXICO, 15.—Congress opened on the 1st instant., when President Diaz delivered an important message. He informs congress of the conclusion of a contract by the secretary of public works for laying a sub-marine and land line telegraph from the Gulf port of the United States along the Mexican coast, touching at various Mexican ports, and passing by way of the Isthmus of Thuantepec to the Pacific Coast, where it is to terminate. Referring to the United States, President Diaz complains that the order of General Ord for pursuing the raiders across the border is still in force, and the treaty of 1848 is thereby violated. President Diaz hopes that the United States, in obeying the dictates of justice and considering the interests of commerce and industry, will revoke that order, as it is contrary to international law. The President hopes the patriotism of congress will approve the international exposition

A CONQUEROR OF CONSUMPTION!

HALL'S BALSAM

FOR THE LUNGS,

ERADICATES

Coughs, Colds, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Diseases of the Breathing Organs.

HALL'S BALSAM

Is the LEADING SPECIFIC for CONSUMPTION.

It soothes and heals the membrane of the lungs, inflamed and poisoned by the disease, and remedies the night sweats and tightness across the chest which accompany it.

CONSUMPTION

is not an incurable malady. It is only necessary to have the right remedy, and HALL'S BALSAM is that remedy.

DON'T DESPAIR OF RELIEF, for this benign specific may cure you, even though professional aid fails.

READ THE FOLLOWING:

Dr. D. D. Wright, of Cincinnati, sends us the subjoined professional indorsement: "I have prescribed Hall's Balsam in a large number of cases and always with success." He adds that "in one case a patient with every appearance of confirmed consumption was restored to his usual health soon after commencing to take the Balsam."

John Kuhn, of Lafayette, Ind., writes, "One year ago I was to all appearance in the last stages of consumption and got so low our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours." Mr. Kuhn further states that "after taking nine bottles of HALL'S BALSAM he is now in perfect health, having used no other medicine."

The above brief extracts are taken from a

MASS OF EVIDENCE

which has been accumulating during a period of TWENTY-NINE YEARS, proving an efficacy of HALL'S BALSAM in all cases where the breathing organs are affected, and showing the estimation in which the remedy is held by the public and medical profession. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1.00 per bottle.
