

electric globe, with shades in red, and the hall windows had blinds of crepe paper in the prevailing tint. A specially charming feature was the score cards, which were cut in heart shape, each having an exquisite design in water colors in the center, the work of Mrs. Wells Culmer, the dainty landscaper showing marked artistic talent. The tables were tiny valentines. Mrs. Lynn was assisted by the Misses Lynn and Culmer in marking the games and serving refreshments. Following are the invited guests: Mesdames Clinton, Clinton, J. W. L. Ellerbeck, George Steiner, Gates, Roberts, Madison, Taylor, Smith, Duncan, McKenna, Hansen, Benedict, Walker, Sandler, George Lambert, Thomas Lambert, Dorn, Young, R. W. St. Valentine's has ruled the week, the emblem of his sway prevailing in nearly all the events of the week. Several charming valentine parties took place yesterday, among the more elaborate being those of Mrs. A. D. Lynn, Mrs. Twomey, Mrs. S. C. Dallas and Mrs. J. E. Clark, the idea being beautifully carried out in hearts and other devices suggestive of the day. Next week will be dominated by patriotic devices emblematic of Washington's birthday, one of the most notable promising to be the Martha Washington tea to be given on Saturday by Mrs. Franklyn and Mrs. Nye.

One of the prettiest events of the week was the wedding reception of Miss Ella McDonald and Mr. Richard Chamberlain on Wednesday night, the event taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, on Fourth South street, the marriage ceremony having been performed at noon in the Temple. The rooms were decorated with a profusion of palms, flowers and smilax, the drawing-room which was in white and green being especially pretty. The alcove at the end of the room was banked with palms and flowers, and overhead was a curtain of smilax intertwined with streamers of white ribbon, a shower bouquet of white roses and carnations hanging from a golden horseshoe above forming a centerpiece. White carnations and roses stood about in vases on mantels and tables, and the chandeliers were entwined with smilax. Tables were spread in three rooms which opened into each other, and a sumptuous banquet was served. The decorations in the supper room were beautifully carried out in pink and white. A feature of the evening was a short program of music and recitations, furnished by Prof. Joseph Daynes, Misses Edna and Kate Dwyer, Miss Winnie Tibbs, Miss Beanie Frost and George Margrett. Dancing was enjoyed, the music being furnished by Prof. Daynes and the McDonald orchestra. The bride was gowned in a beautiful gown of corn colored silk brocade trimmed with accordion plaited ribbon of white liberty silk, made on a tulle, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Those present were: Mrs. Joseph E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winder, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Young, Mr. and Mrs. Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Anna M. Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. One of the most elaborate and charming of valentine parties was that given by Mrs. A. D. Lynn yesterday at her home on Fourth East street. The rooms were transformed into a bower of hearts, festoons of hearts ranging from scarlet to violet, being strung from large chandeliers to the four corners of the rooms, and panning the doorways, while triple strands in three sizes formed cornices for the archways of the folding doors. On the lace curtains, sprays of hearts in artistic arrangement and everywhere throughout the house were seen the dainty red emblems of Cupid's wiles. The blinds were drawn and the rooms lighted with
