NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

A TWO DAYS' MEETING OF ELDERS, SAINTS AND STRANGERS.

HORSE CREEK, MITCHEL CO., N. C. Sept. 27th, 1886.

Editor Deseret News:

Contrary to expectation the Elders of this Conference were notified that Sept. 25th and 26th would be spent in a two days' Conference at Horse Creek, Mitchel Co., N. C., where there is a Branch of the Church. Accordingly we postponed our appointments in our fields of labor, and betook ourselves to the rendezvous. On arriving here, with the exception of Brother David Vance, we found the Saints well and happy in the expectation of a good time. Joyful and congenial were the greetings of old companions, as we clasped the hand of friendship, and related our experiences to one another. Nature afforded us a of timber near by, where we erected a temporary stand and seats.

On Friday morning we were joined by the President of the mission, and on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. we assembled and were called to order by Elder Taylor, President of the Conference.

Elders Chipman, Beard and our President spoke to us in the forenoon, followed in the afternoon by Elders Rich, Crandall, Snow, Stanford, Thorne and Taylor, all of whom simplified the first principles of the Gospel, with special reference to their saving powers, drawing copiously from nature for their illustrations.

Our second day's meeting was more largely attended, some of the Saints coming from the adjoining counties. Our seats were filled and some had to recline on mother earth. In the forenoon, we were addressed by Elder Gibbs and the President of the Mission; in the afternoon by Elders Crowther, Lindsay, Coyle, Eddington and Taylor, who instructed us in the Gospel and on various subjects pertaining to our duties as Latter-day Saints. At the close of the Conference, was read showing twenty-five baptisms during the term ending August 31st ult. A good spirit prevailed; everything went off smoothly. The Saints feel well; the majority have the spirit of gathering, and their integrity in the main is commendable.

THE STATISTICAL REPORT

There are now thirteen Elders in this Conference, which number will be increased to twenty this fall. We are pleased to note a slight improvement in the health of Brother Vance, who is President of this branch.

To-day we bid adieu to our colleagues, and return to our fields renewed in spirits, faith and determination to do all in our power for the spread of truth.

WM. H. GIBBS, Clerk.

MARICOPA STAKE CONFERENCE.

The Maricopa Stake Conference was held in Mesa on September 25th and 26th. There were present H. C. Rogers and C. I. Robson of the Stake Presidency, all the Bishops and a fair representation of the officers of the various quorums and associations. The singing was furnished by the Mesa and Alma choirs. Saturday was occupied by the ward and quorum officers who gave favorable reports of the same.

On Sunday the usual routine of business was attended to, after which the meetings were addressed by several Elders, among whom was Reuben Collett, recently returned from a mission to Europe. The instructions given were of a practical nature, especially calculated to encourage the youth in well doing.

James F. Johnson was appointed Stake President of the Y. M. M. I. A. in place of A. P. Spilsbury, who resigned.

GEORGE PASSEY,
Stake Clerk.

SHOT IN THE HEAD.

A Man Out Hunting Accidentally Kills Himself.

MONTPELIER, Idaho, October 1st, 1886.

Editor Deseret News:

Yesterday there occurred one of the most mournful scenes the little town of Montpelier has witnessed for years. It was brought about by the accidental shot of Brother Joseph M. Phelps, fatally wounding his own person, near Cokeville, Wyoming, a distance of about 30 miles from this place, at about 5 o'clock in the evening of the 29th ult. After having been to that place to transact some business, he was returning home. It appears he left his home here a few days previous to go to his ranch, ten miles from here, and proceeded to Cokeville in his buggy, taking his and thinking to kill game on the road. After completing his business he drove a short distance from the town, when two reports from a gun were heard, but no notice was taken of them until a short time after they sounded, when a gentleman traveling toward Cokeville came across his horse and buggy standing still in the road. The body of the unfortunate man was between the wheels and body of the buggy, and

THE TOP OF HIS HEAD WAS BLOWN OFF.

He had evidently fired his first shot at some game and was getting out of his vehicle to shoot again when the weapon was accidently discharged, the entire charge entering his head.

The gentleman immediately carried the news to Cokeville, from whence the sad intelligence was conveyed by wire to his family. The latter in deepest sorrow were awaiting full particulars of the case until midnight, when the corpse was brought into the house. It had been brought from Cokeville in a wagon by his friends.

A very handsome casket was made by Messrs. Hillier and Kinnersley and at 4 p.m. yesterday the Meeting House was with friends who convened to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed dead.

Comforting and consoling remarks were made by the brethren who addressed the assembly.

Brother Phelps leaves a family numbering twenty souls, besides a multiplicity of friends, to mourn his loss.

Yours, etc., MONTPELIER.

How a Humorist Managed to Get Ahead of the Pickpockets.

"If you are going down to Coney Island for the day," said a New York newspaper man to me, "don't tempt 'em. It would be wrong."

"Tempt who?"

"The pickpockets, my boy. Coney Island is their paradise. Leave behind you whatever you don't want to part with for good. You've got western hay seed in your hair, and they'll spot you on sight."

"Do I look green?"

"Well—ahem! Say, don't argue that question, but take my advice. They'd rob even Inspector Byrnes down there."

I left behind me some trinkets of no particular value except to the owner, distributed the sum of $8 in my seven or eight pockets, and bought tickets at the foot of Whitehall street.

In jaunting around New York I had been a liberal patron of the fiend who sells lemon drops at five cents a package and puts a prize in the bottom of every package. I had thus accumulated a sheepskin wallet, a big brass watch chain, a paste diamond pin and several other valuable works of virtue and art. I bored the diamond into my shirt, pinned the watch-chain into my pocket and stuffed the wallet with pieces of newspaper until it seemed to bulge out with about $600 in greenbacks. I wanted to see what the old fraternity could do when given a fair show.

On the boat going down to Bay Ridge a very nice young man brought his camp stool over near mine and remarked that it was a hot day. We settled that point inside of a minute, and he was so pleased to find that I didn't differ with him that he stuck to me when we landed. Between the Battery and Cony Island he made two attempts on that watch chain, but didn't get it.

When we got down to Brighton he was met by two pals. They offered to take me into a side show, where Joe, the dog-faced Russian, and a dozen monkeys were holding forth, and I accepted. Among the crowd in there were several other gentlemen of enterprise and lability but they let me severely alone. I was the property of the other gang. We were standing in front of Joe-Joe, and I was asking him a few leading questions about Russian religion and politics, when the man on the right crowded me and the one on my left fished for my watch and chain. After some little trouble he got the chain. He was after the wallet, when I moved away and baffled him.

I was going off to see the rest of the sights alone, but they wouldn't have it that way. Was I not a stranger, far, far from home, and was it not a duty as well as a pleasure for them to make things pleasant for me? So I went over with them to see some more monkeys in another show, and to hear a fat girl sing: "Gently Down the Stream of Time." The monkeys stood on their heads, and the fat girl trilled her lay, and as the three pressed me into a corner to get a closer view of a pelican—the only living pelican which ever accompanied herself on the harp, or something of that sort, some one got the stuffed wallet. I plainly felt the hand which took it, but I did not want to hurt his feelings.

By this time I was a little tired of side-shows, and I wanted to go out and see the marine railway. My three friends would not permit me to go alone. I might get run over by the engine, or fall through the trestlework, and they should always blame themselves for it. We went away while the fat girl was trilling her lay some more, but instead of going to the railway we got tired and sat down on a bench to hear some music. It was by an Italian opera company. There were two fiddles and a harp, and the performance was entirely satisfactory to the audience. After a couple of airs had been rendered in a heart-melting manner one of my friends held his hat upon his hand before my eyes and asked me if I saw a hole in the crown. While I was anxiously trying to discover one to oblige him he used the other to remove my diamond pin. I knew the trick, and was watching his motion, but he got the jewel out very deftly. It wasn't half a minute after that before the three pretended to see some one on the walk they had an engagement with, and I was suddenly left alone.

I went over to the railway and made the trip to Manhattan and back, and was leaning against a post near the Exhibition building, when one of the pickpockets walked up to me. His brow was bathed in gloom. He looked exactly as I did one day four years ago, when I found myself in Richmond and remembered that my wallet was under a hotel mattress in Washington. He had the three stolen snide articles in his hand, and he held them out to me and feelingly said:

"Say, what kind of a galoot are you, anyhow?"

I felt pizened mean, and I tried to make him believe so, but he flung the articles down in deep disgust and turned away with the remark:

"It is just such western specimens as you are who have given everything beyond Canada a bad name. There's your stuff, sir, and I'll be hanged if you are a gentleman!"

I called and called to him, but he would not return to argue the point with me.—M. Quad, in Detroit Free Press.

COLORADO ITEMS.

In Denver on Saturday last a young man, a bill poster named Flynn, fell from a roof to the pavement, a distance of twelve feet, and was picked up insensible, blood flowing from his left ear. The skull was fractured near that organ, and the attending physicians considered the case hopeless.

Michael Hunt, who has been for many years in the employ of the Denver Water Company, fell dead in that city last Saturday. He was on his way to work, about half-past six in the morning, with his dinner pail in his hand, when he suddenly dropped his pail and fell. A passer-by saw him fall and called up the patrol, but Hunt was dead when the wagon arrived. The body was taken to the coroner's office, where it was decided that the cause of death was heart disease, and no inquest was therefore necessary.

A shooting affair occurred on the Boulder road, near Denver, the other day, in which the shooter got well thrashed. A young farm hand named Despain heard that another young man named Lovejoy was carrying a pistol for him. The two met and Despain asked Lovejoy if it was true that he intended to shoot the latter. Lovejoy, by way of reply whipped out a revolver and fired at Despain, making a scalp wound and stunning him for a few moments. He quickly recovered, however, ran after and caught Lovejoy and gave him a severe beating.

As engineer John Rice, was oiling his engine at Salida, Sept. 30th, he made the ghastly discovery of fragments of human remains on the pilot and trucks of his engine. Rice stated that while running very rapidly about three miles east of Brown's Canon, he saw a dark object in the centre of the track, but supposed it was only a pile of ashes. On another engine that arrived a few moments after Rice's there were also found several fragments of human muscles and fragments of clothing. The coroner was at once notified and went on an engine, and found at the spot indicated by Engineer Rice the horribly mangled remains of a man. The body was taken to Brown's cañon, where it was identified as that of Andrew O'Brien, a section hand on the railroad. A bottle of whisky was found near the place where he met his death.

In Denver last Friday a most distressing scene occurred. A lady was passing along wheeling in a carriage a baby, while at her side toddled a bright little fellow. Suddenly a terrible change overcome the woman, and with the wildest shrieks she darted at the children as if she would claw them to death. She overturned the cab, throwing the baby violently to the earth and clutched the older child in a savage manner, shaking it vigorously. The outcries of the mother and her children startled the people on the streets and the inhabitants of the neighboring stores. In a moment a strong man rushed out and grappled the woman's hands before she could do serious harm to her offspring. She struggled and screamed in a manner very heartrending, mingled as it was with the outcries of the two babes, who were frightened almost to death. An officer soon made his appearance and taking the woman to the back room of a store, secured her until he could call a cab. When it arrived the children and the mother were placed within and a gentleman friend volunteered to see them to their home. No sooner did the frenzied mother perceive her children sitting opposite than she started to reach them with another terrible cry. She was restrained after considerable trouble and the cab was driven rapidly away. The lady was certainly attacked by a convulsion which frenzied her and set her mind into a murderous fury. The event was too distressing to give names.

Mr. J. McEllen, Port Huron, Mich., cured his cough with Red Star Cough Cure.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and —between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Day Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown.

A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.
