

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Broken Bridge.—There is a badly broken bridge over a drainage canal between the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad depot and the Jordan River bridge. It is almost impassable and should be repaired by the party upon whom the duty devolves.

Married.—In this city, September 11, 1882, by Bishop Wm. Thorne, at the residence of the bride's parents, in the 4th Ward, Miss Georgia A. Needham, daughter of Jas. Needham, Esq., and Mr. Eli E. Price. Their friends gathered at the house and all had a pleasant time.

The Marquis of Lorne.—The Marquis of Lorne, the Prince of Wales's representative in Ogden, arrived yesterday morning, and left for the West at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. They spent most of the day in Ogden Canyon. Governor Murray was in Ogden, and was presented to the party.

How.—L. M. Savage, of Sunset, Apache County, Arizona Territory, writes thus: "Will you please publish an effective method of cleaning a mill of weaver?"

Bereavement.—We regret to hear of the death of the little son of Brother and Sister West, of Ogden, which occurred last Sunday. The father of the little one, Elder Joseph A. West, being absent on a mission, in England, makes the bereavement all the more distressing. The parents have our sincere sympathy.

Petty Stealing.—Last night a man who had been in the premises of Mrs. A. B. Clark, in the Sixteenth Ward, stole a quantity of underclothing and several pieces of dress and table linen. Last week an aged lady named Mrs. Crockett, met with a similar misfortune on a larger scale. Petty stealers seem to be actually plying their vocation just now.

Departure of Missionaries.—The following Elders left this city this morning on missions to Europe:

Thomas Emmett, Ogden; Job Hambley, Sugar House; Peter Anderson, Peterson; John Stucki, Santa Clara; Geo. Atkins, Jr., Tooele; E. M. Dagdale, Plover; Jno. Binks, The Two Springville; Wm. G. Garret, Hooper; Chas. Reynolds, 21st Ward, Salt Lake City; A. Bauer, Geo. Perry, Cedar; Thos. Ogden, Richfield; A. O. Anderson, Glenwood; Muna Rosenlund, Sweden; D. W. Tullis, Pinto; L. P. Johnson, Hooper; John Schless, Washington; Solomon King, Salina; A. Newberger, John Ledermann, Logan.

Miss Olsen's Benefit.—In another column appears the announcement of the entertainment to be given on Thursday evening, for the benefit of Miss Agnes Olsen. This lady has become as well known from her connection with the Tabernacle choir, in which she is one of the principal voices, and from her numerous appearances before the public in concert and various entertainments, that any mention of her merits is superfluous. The interest taken in her benefit will be best shown by a glance at the programme in which we found the names of the best talent in the city.

A Marvellous Escape.—On Saturday evening a serious accident occurred on the Utah & Northern track at the crossing with the lane to Marietta settlement. Two men—Albert Amundson and W. Wallace, the latter of Plain City—were driving towards Marietta where the former party wished to visit a brother. Just as they were crossing the track the U. & N. passenger train No. 8, north-bound, came along and struck the vehicle, giving it such an impetus that the whole party, horse, wagon and inmates were hurled 45 feet. I was a most marvelous escape; for of the two men Amundson received only a scalp wound, which was afterwards sewed up by Dr. Mitchell, of this city, and Wallace was bruised on his arm, not materially. One of the horses broke a leg and had to be shot, while the other animal escaped unhurt.—Ogden Herald.

The Gem Tellurion.—We have had the pleasure of examining a very beautiful and useful instrument recently by Mr. S. C. Shaw, of San Francisco, called the Gem Tellurion, which brings, as it were, the sun, the earth and the moon into the hands of the student, who thus easily sees, and without effort on his part, is soon made acquainted with the movements and the relative positions of the three globes in which we are most interested. This instrument is constructed with the utmost accuracy, beautifully illustrating the seasons, the changes in the moon's phases, the continual change in the length of day and night. A nicely jigsawed cast-iron globe, thirteen inches in diameter, is the pedestal of the machinery, on the top of the disc, near its periphery, is a perpetual calendar, giving months and dates whereby the direction of the earth's revolution around the sun is indicated.

We understand it has received the endorsement of the principal educators on the Pacific Coast and would, doubtless be very useful in every school in this Territory. H. N. Willard, West Temple Street, between Second and Third Streets, will act as agent for Mr. Shaw.

Brother Nathan Meade desires to have the members of the 11th Ward Primary Association and all who took part in the funeral service of his beloved son Nathan, who was buried yesterday.

AN OLD TIME INCIDENT.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT ASSEL SMITH, THE PROPHET'S GRANDFATHER.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 11th, 1882.

Editor Deseret News:—Believing that the following clipping, from the Beverly (Mass.) Citizen, would be interesting to many of your readers, relating as it does to the character of Asael Smith, the grandfather of the Prophet Joseph Smith; coupled with a desire my part for its preservation, I forward it to you for their place in the columns of the News.

Very Respectfully,
 JOS. F. SMITH.

"Visiting a neighboring town a few days ago, the clerk very kindly allowed us to make a copy of the following schedule of taxable property returned to the selectmen, at their request, by author, which paper is in the clerk's office. And thinking it a model for the purposes for which it was designed, as well as to acquaint ourselves with the spirit of humor existing among a people, remarkable for their manners, nearly a century ago; if adjudged serviceable, it is most cordially tendered:

I have two polls, the one is poor, I have two cows and water more, I have no sheep, but fifteen sheep. No more than these this year I keep.

Steers that I have over all, one pair, Two calves I have over all, Three heifers two years old I own, One heifer's calf that's poorly grown.

My land is acres sixty-two, Which reach the records you'll find 'trot And this I have in store, I'll thank you if you'll tax no more.

"To the selectmen of Topsfield, Asael Smith, March, 1788."

The preservation of this document naturally induces us to inquire as to the character of the reception by the board of officers to whom it was directed, and it may not be an easy task to determine. Whether their official perukes wriggled in their vain endeavor to suppress their laughter while reading it, or whether they looked over their glasses with unspoken indignation at the temerity of a man to present such a part of the author, due to such an august and important body, "deponent saith not." Certain it is, whether viewed as an incendiary document that ought to be destroyed, or as a specimen of the humor of the time, it is a document of no small value.

A word in regard to the author, Asael Smith. Soon after the occurrence related above, Mr. Smith, with his family, removed to Vermont, where his grandson, the notable "Mormon prophet," was born; through whose influence the civilized world has been made to stand on its head.

Other papers left by Mr. Smith—the original copies are still in the hands of his friends—one of which was read to us by the gentlemanly clerk, impressed us with its character, and through this avenue we got a glimpse of the man, as a man of fine culture, gifted in both justice and mercy, and unexcelled with uncommon executive ability. Brilliant flashes of humor coupled with a deep sense of dependence and profound acquiescence in the government of "the Supreme Ruler of universal nature," and the untrammelled freedom of the human conscience, were interwoven in all its sentences, which at once stamped him as a Christian patriot who had a clear comprehension of the depths of the "repose" so recently secured, in its relation to the future prosperity of the new Republic, and fitted him to occupy an honorable position among the foundation stones upon which it was to be constructed.

A SLANDER DENOUNCED.—BUT VERY LIMITEDLY CORRECTED.

Mr. S. P. Rounds, Jr., of the well-known Chicago printing firm and dealers in printing materials visited Salt Lake with the Illinois editorial excursion party a few weeks since. When the company visited Denver on the homeward trip, an infamous and malicious article was published in the Tribune of that city, intended to reflect upon the "Mormons" and their institutions.

Mr. Rounds was made the centre figure of the infamous story, and it was made to appear as if he were the narrator of the tale. In writing to a friend in this city he speaks of the matter as follows:

The scurrilous article that appeared in the Denver Tribune has caused me more pain than I can express to you. The whole originated from the diseased imagination of a so-called reporter who was apparently short of manuscript and sought to fill space in his contemptible sheet by reporting what he supposed would take as a sensational article. At my expense. I can assure and prove to you that not one word of that article came from me. I can conscientiously say that party who spoke in words of praise worthy of the enterprise and thrift and trustworthiness of the "Mormons."

The whole article is a lie "made from whole cloth," and when it appeared in Denver I worked two whole days before I could see the man who promised me to contradict it, and as I can prove from my brother-in-law, who keeps the American House, Denver, where this reporter boards, that knowing I was with the party, he concocted that miserable slush, considering it a practical joke upon me, a week before I arrived in Denver.

Mr. Rounds did not, in hunting up the falsehood-hatching reporter, go far enough in making the needed rectification. It does not take much perception to enable a person to perceive that the agreement to make a correction of an individual who is capable of concocting such a string of fabrication is totally worthless, this being placed beyond doubt by the fact that no proper statement has ever appeared in the paper which published the fictional tissue. It does not appear as if Mr. Rounds had persistently insisted on the publication of the correction, and the statement to a friend here does not by any means begin to cover the ground. If Mr. Rounds can afford to let the matter remain as it is, the people who are slandered by the misrepresentation can certainly do so. They are used to matters of the kind, and such affairs are matters of comparison between men, but we are sorry for men professing special friendship for individual good feelings for the people, who permit their names to be used in such infamous connections without taking every available means to make the matter right.

THE GOSHEN DROWNING ACCIDENT.

THE MANNER IN WHICH JOHN M. FRECKLETON LOST HIS LIFE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 11th, 1882.

We have received a lengthy account of the drowning case which occurred at Goshen, Utah County, on the 8th inst. It appears that John M. Freckleton joined with some other young men in boating and bathing at the Goshen dam. After he had been in the water some time and swam about, he suddenly called out as if in distress. The others pushed out in the boat, but, in their hurry, neglected to take the oars. They had to return to the shore to get him and before they could reach him he sank for the third time and never rose again. One of the parties was within six feet of him when he finally disappeared below the surface of the water.

The people of Goshen turned out as soon as the alarm was given, but all that could then be done was to recover the body, which was over ten feet of water. A Danish boy diving a great many times in attempting to take it out, and finally succeeded by raising one foot and bringing it to the surface.

The deceased bore the reputation of being an exemplary young man. He was born in Salt Lake City, and was aged eighteen years, nine months and eight days. His parents, brothers and sisters, and other relatives, besides numerous friends, are stricken with grief at his untimely end.

SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES.
 SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 11th, 1882.

Messrs. Young Bros:—Gents—We are pleased to inform you that the 15 Domestic Sewing machines we are using in our shirt factory give perfect satisfaction. We are using them on linen bosoms and for all other work, and they turn out better work and more of it than any other machines we have in use. We shall in future use no others, and will be pleased to recommend them to anyone who uses a sewing machine.

Respectfully yours,

FROM "THE TRIBUNE."—The veterinary department in your valuable paper is always read by me with great interest and I value the information received from it a hundred fold more than the small amount paid for the paper. One year ago you published a letter from Dr. John Bates, relating the wonderful success he had had in curing sparrows and upland birds with Kendall's Spavin Cure, and his allusion to using it now in his practice for several human ailments on account of the success he had always had with it. The above statements from so prominent a Physician gave me great faith in its efficacy, and as I had been afflicted for years with rheumatism and hip-joint lameness so bad that I could hardly walk at times, I procured a bottle and as it has completely cured me I wish to proclaim it to all the world as the most wonderful discovery ever made for the benefit of afflicted men as well as for the poor horse, for which it was first used. As this remedy must be of incalculable value to the world, I write this letter to express my thankfulness to you for ever mentioning it in your column, and to ask another favor in behalf of my fellow men who are afflicted in body, that you continue to make known to the world, the value of Kendall's Spavin Cure for both man as well as beast.

Respectfully yours,
 ARNOLD PARKER.

CASE OF DIPHTHERIA.

GRANGER, Aug. 30th, 1882. To Dr. M. Don: Dear Sir—It is with much pleasure that I write to you, knowing it is my duty to do so, after the kind service you have rendered to my wife and children, and I can say that there is not one in twenty who would have had the patience to watch over them night and day as you did, until you saw a change for the better. I do believe if I had called you in time my other two children would have been here now, and if I can do you any good I certainly shall do so in recommending you to my friends. If you feel disposed to make use of this you can do so. Accept of my best wishes.

Yours truly,
