James O'Neill's Two Plays—Kitty Foe—Paula, Victim of Death—When Coming West—Guest and Her Newborn Husband.

The appearance of James O'Neill has always been an event with Salt Lake theatre-goers, and the same yesterday morning, when he came to the stage as a strong, manly, and virile figure. For the last few years a slender figure has been going up from all the great dramatic writers, who, when Mr. O'Neill is seen, are not only in a dramatic sense, but also in a physical sense, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art. The play is a masterpiece of dramatic art, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art.

When James O'Neill's "Kitty Foe" was first produced, it was a masterpiece of dramatic art. The following dispatch from Mr. O'Neill's manager reached the News this morning:

Los Angeles, Feb. 2, 1904. Last night in Salt Lake, James O'Neill presented his famous drama "Kitty Foe" before a large and enthusiastic audience. The play was a masterpiece of dramatic art, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art.

A letter from charming Lola Gleason to the playwright, Charles L. Johnson, contains the following which is all news to the theatre, that "Kitty Foe" will come West again next season. Miss Gleason says that "Kitty Foe" is a masterpiece of dramatic art, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art.

John Kelly, in "McFadden's Dabbling," is the attraction that follows O'Neill's "Kitty Foe." Kelly made a triumphal return to the stage, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art.

We notice with surprise a statement in the New York Sun that William Morris will go starring next season in tragedy. Mr. Morris made one mistake when he left the theatre, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art.

Another Salt Lake letter has been received from the theatre, that "Kitty Foe" will come West again next season. Miss Gleason says that "Kitty Foe" is a masterpiece of dramatic art, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art.

Paul, says the New York Herald, is doing tremendous business in the theatre. The play is a masterpiece of dramatic art, and it is not surprising that the new drama, "Kitty Foe," is a masterpiece of dramatic art.
