HOW TO GROW RUBBER IN MEXICO Also Interesting Facts in the Product of Coffee, Bananas, Vanilla Beans, etc., Furnished in a Letter Home from Herbert E. Cutler.

J. C. Cutler is the recipient of an in- | from 700 to 800 bunches of this fruit at teresting letter from his son, Herbert E. Cutler, who is at Tampico, Mex., in which the young man says:

"Here is one of the most promising parts of Mexico. Here is land that is in every way the equal of that on the fruit when 12 months old. This coun-try is gradually taking trade away from Colombia, and other South Amerinto river for all purposes except the wing of rubber trees. Rubber trees ve not been tried here, but it is sught the light frosts that sometimes the this latitude would endanger the MIT KR though if the trees once got there would be no harm done started by frost such as they have here, ast frost was four years ago. It did no damage except to orange blos-soms, and just touched the leaves of soms, and just touched the leaves of barana trees. Rubber trees grow wild around Tuxpan, 90 miles south of here, and could be cultivated very success-ully, but the transportation facilities by but the transportation facilities e not as good there as here. All kinds fruits, coffee, sugar cane, banana was and pineapple also grow there as ey do here on the Panuco. But on of frults, they do here on the parted. But one place where this Panuco river is the one place where I would like to get hold of some land, and I am going to investigate things theroughly along its banks a couple of theroughly along its banks a couple of it is navigable all that distance undred home. It is having bit an unstantial distance and much farther for big steamers. The railroad is not far off at any point, and the climate is perfect. As I said, rubber had not been experimented with, but I believe it could be grown, and as for coffee and bananas I want to give ou a few facts in regard to them. offse trees are planted from 400 to 600 conce trees are planted from 400 to 600 to the acre, sometimes more, and bear from 1% to 2% pounds to the tree each year, The cost of clearing land, plant-ing and so on is put very conservatively as follows, in gold. Say you started properly with 100 acres of land, costing $2 per acre (high estimate)......$ 200 Expenses of first year in prepara-

of undergrowth. The consular agent at Tuxpan, where we are going to inspect land, says there had been experiments made its 1890 in raising rubber in that district and that it proved a success in the interior on upper lands. The amount of crude rubber exported from there in the two and one half recommending 1800 and one-half years preceding 1890 was 93,181 pounds, but there was no capital fruit when 12 months old. This coun-try is gradually taking trade away from Colombia, and other South Ameri-can countries on the banana, being nearer the market and raising finer fruit. From here it can be shipped either by rail or by steamboat, and this is the best region in Mexico for this fruit. The suckers can be bought and started for 5c each. A thousand of them are planted to the acre, and at the end of the first year they will produce $1,000 worth of fruit as a minimum. A Mr. Harrison, whom I met, owns a plantation up the river, and he says his small patch of ten acres, which is not a good, well kept one by any means, There are some triends of Mr, Allen down there who own a plantation and they are very enthusiastic about the future of that state. The Mexican government is going to dredge and put in good condition an old canal that connects those rubber lands with the then the values of property will ad-vance rapidly. We shall look about us well and I will let you know what is going on. a good, well kept one by any means, yields him $150 a month, and no care is taken of it. All they do is go out and cut off the bunches of bananas and la are seen on the river here at Tampico every day. There is good profit in both these products. The send them to Tampico by cance. You ask in your letter of the 24th if the figures given by Noble Warrum in the Herald on rubber are correct. I think he is a little bit too enthusiastic, vanilla vine is planted 300 to the acre, when planted with rubber and cocoa, think he is a little bit too enthusiastic, and therefore liable to exaggerate to some extent. The statement he makes that "100 acres of rubber will net an investor $20,000 a year in eight years" depends on the soll, locality and what success they have with the young plants. In one state, Chiapas, one case is known where three threes were transand will give about 64 pounds per acre The beans measure from six to ten The beins measure from six to ten inches in length and the price runs according to size, the quotations on seven, eight and nine inch beans being as follows last March: Seven inch beans, $14.00 per pound; eight incl beans, $15.00; nine inch beans, $16.00 is known where three trees were trans-On one plantation the beans cost $2.00 per pound to pick, cure and wrap, be planted from the forest and have been yielding for more than 35 years. The diameter of their trunks is about seven feet. They have given annually more ing wrapped in one pound bunches. Corn is the staple food for the Mexicans just as wheat is to the people of the United States, and the profits from than 50 pounds of guin each. This is an exceptional case. At present there is no fully developed rubber plantation in same are quite large. Dyewoods are grown that bring from $20.00 to $25.00 this country, and all statistics are per ton, and on some of the lands small quantities of valuable cabinet woods are found. All of the ordinary vege-tables of the more northern climes can based on experiments, principally in the state of Chiapas, though the states of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca are good rubber districts also. I have heard many men tables of the more northern chines can be grown on those same lands, in many places being grown as side crops "to assist in subduing the soil for tobacco and sugar cane," and are a source of profit while the crops that take years to mature are being taken care of. talk on the subject, have read much on it, and find that some are apt to give flattering figures, but none say any-thing about a failure in growing the trees and making big profits from same. After hearing and reading so many people's views on it. I have con-cluded it would be best to take an aver-Sugar can be put on the market at a cost of 2%c Mexican money per pound and will have a market right here in The age of them all, and think the following conservative estimate will give the best idea of its profitableness. It is one giv-en out by Richard Guenther, the Units ed States consul general to Mexico, in 1890, and is one that does not overesti-mate but is more likely to underestithis country for years to come. The price given in the Mexican Herald is now $2.50 per arroba, an arroba being equal to 25 pounds. So you see there are big profits in all these things if properly managed. The reason for these big profits lies in the fact that mate, but is more likely to underesti-mate the profits. Colonel Allen,my room mate the profits. Colonel After, my room mate, has studied up the matter thoroughly and thinks this is the best authority that can be found on hub-ber. I will give it you in full. "It is made upon a basis of 10,000 trees, planted about 23 feet apart, (a discover of 15 feet between trees is conthese virgin soils produce so abundant-ly and the prices paid for labor are so ridiculously low. Sugar cane matures eighteen month after planting and reproduces itself for from eight to twelve years without replanting. An average crop is 50 tons to the acre, and the cane will give ten per cent of its gross distance of 15 feet between trees is con-sidered the minimum). cane will give ten per cent of the gross weight of sugar, often a higher per-centage than this. Then there is the alcohol and other by-products which sometimes pay a dividend besides the entire expenses of the sugar mill. I have not decided when I shall go to have a found there was no regsidered the minimum). "Cost of clearing, planting and cul-tivating 160 acres of land for six years, $2,894.00, or $18 per acre. "In the sixth year these trees yield."

Vanilla and sarsaparilla are grown abundantly on the lands in the vicinity of Tuxpan and boatloads of sarsaparil-

in the sixth year these trees yield six pounds of milk each, or for 10,000 trees, 60,000 pounds of juice. The max-imum of water contained in this juice is 56 per cent, leaving 44 per cent of to Havana. I found there was no reg-ular line of steamers returning to this port from Havana, but they usually go to Vera Cruz and then up the coast to here. And the fare across to that place, without return, is $25.00 gold. I have come to the conclusion that if I go at all it will be by a freight steam-$11,880.00 er, and I do not know when that will be. The Hotel Louvre is the one I would have stayed at if I had gone. It is one where some people I met in the dest are going to take an eight or ten days be at least $11,880 less $792, the expense of collection and evaporation, or $11,-088, and as the yield of trees increase trip up the river to look at some lands. After that we shall also take other side 088, and as the yield of trees increase as they grow larger, this profit would be increasing for a number of years." The percentage of gum in the juice varies according to the kind of soil and the moisture of the atmosphere, from 32 to 50 per cent. There is no export duty on rubber. The price has been as high as $1.11 per pound and last August was $1.00 per pound, the increase for years in the price having been at the rate of 25 per cent a year.

low estimate, will produce 2 pounds each or 120,000 pounds, which, at 10 cents per pound, would be $12,000, and the expenses being put at $4,500 each year would leave a net profit of $7,500, or over 75 per cent a year on the money invested. And these expenses I have placed rather high so that I am sure there would be more profit in cof-fee than this shows. One authority says it costs about $7 silver to raise pick, clean and sack coffee, and that the selling price at the plantation has ranged at about $27 silver per 100 pounds for the past three years. Bananas can be raised at a big profit also. An acre of land will produce 25 per cent a year.
