Athletic Work at Chicago. Athletic Work at Chicago.

An exchange says: Frank L. West, son of Joseph West of Ogden, entered the Chicago university taking up mathematics, chemistry and physics, in the early summer of last year. It was his intention at that time to remain only for the summer school and then go rarther east, either to Cornell or Johns Hopkins at Philadelphia. Upon the conclusion of the summer school, however, the professors under whom he had studied, discovering that he was an exceptionally good student, prevailed upon him to remain at Chicago, where on the first of the year he was made assistant teacher of physics and given charge of the experiment work of the laboratory at a good salary, with free tuition and a 12-hour study period besides.

Frank West was not only selected as one of the six but was declared, by a lead of 100 points above his next competitor, to be the best man in their gymnusium, and for this was awarded the university. sium, and for this was awarded the university medal and had his name inscribed on the college banner as its champion.

One of the intercollegiate meets has already taken place in which four of the leading universities participated and the Chicago university took first place.

STAHL WAS NOT MANAGER.

Discharged as Boston Leader Before Committing Suicide.

James Hardy, one of St. Louis' best ball fans, and who has the contract of auling the clubs to and from ball parks of St. Louis, said that Chick Stahl, late commander of the Boston Americans.

very bad condition. I was treated by a number of eminent physicians for chronic catarrhal gastritis and dilatation of the stomach, and obtained no relief. I grew gradually worse, my breathing was so difficult at times that I thought I would die. My heart was in very bad condition from poor circulation and pressure of the dilated stomach. I decided it was only a matter of a very short time with me. I was advised to try Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure, and before I had finished taking one bottle of the medicine I felt like a new being. I took eight bottles of the medicine, and am entirely cured, for a matter of about $8.00 in the face of two hundreds spent in the two years before without relief."

told him the day before he committed suicide that he was no longer manager.

"I was at West Baden when Boston was there training in March, and left for home the day before Stahl killed himself," says Hardy. "That morning, while sliting on the hotel porch with Stahl I said to him: 'As you are manager now. I want you to give me the order to haul your team when it plays in St. Louis,"

"I'm no longer the manager,' replied Stahl. "I asked for an explanation, but he

It was rumored at the time that Taylor and Stahl had engaged in several wordy wars. Collins has often claimed that he was hadly interfered with by the owners of the club, and that was the reason he kicked over the traces. Taylor joined his club here last Saturday when Oberlin was knocked out of the box. Harris took his place. Taylor d'd out l'ke his work and that night suspended him. "We keep our lamps open and never overlock a bet," declared Fielder Jones, manager of the team in question. "We use our noodles all the time."

"I'm too young a manager to express an epinion," said Bob Unglaub of the Figrims, "but my own notion is that it is something besides luck.

"When you are fighting out success in baseball you want to ignore luck and brawn and weight and speed and just think of the cold-blooded, unsentimental plot of the opposition to win the game by just outguessing you."

"I throw up my hands," remarked Jimmy Mczleer. "We used to spring some surprises on the opposition in the old days here in Cleveland, when we had Tebeau, O'Contor and Burkett to help us plot—but they were nothing to the things that the mob up in Chleago introduces you to. Why, I remember one series we played there, when it actually took us a safe bit for every base we get a man around, while they were getting a run for every safety."

"Somebody on that team was a student of our old style of playing the game in Baltimore. You hear folks say nowadays: 'Detroit outbatted Chicago, but was outgeneraled.'
