

EVERYBODY

is talking and thinking about Christmas presents—When it comes right down to it, what is more sensible—or more needed than shoes? We've shoes for father—mother—brother or sister—and shoes that'll wear—and make the wearer think of you for a long time.

appearance of any, it had the mark of Eve's having bitten it, to warn men from meddling with a substance possessing such noxious properties.

No Cloth on the Table at Luncheon Parties

For luncheon parties it is no longer correct to spread a tablecloth over the entire table, but before each guest a dainty open-work serviette is spread, like a miniature tablecloth, and the polished mahogany or walnut table makes a good background for the snowy linen. These serviettes vie with each other in the elaboration of their designs. Making the handsome borders in drawn thread work, for the serviettes and afternoon tea cloths, is one of the prettiest and most fashionable form of fancy work just now.—London Telegraph.

Washing Silks, Mulls and Challis.

By the exercise of considerable judgment and patience a nice dress may be cleaned without taking it apart. To cleanse a challis trimmed with lace and silk soak it over night in soap bark and cold water, and wash it next morning in the same, being sure to rinse it thoroughly. It can be ironed like any other goods, but it requires ingenuity to get all the out-of-the-way places.

Delicately-tinted mulls and nearly all delicate goods to be cleaned must be soaked over night in salt water and washed in soap bark and cold water. To wash white mull yokes place them in hot water, soap bark and ammonia, and leave them over night. In the morning they should have another bath of the same kind and then be rinsed in hot water.

Housekeeping Hints.

A refrigerator should have a weekly scrubbing to keep it sweet and clean, and a monthly scrubbing in the back yard to avoid any possibility of its getting sour. Canned fruit and vegetables should be removed from the cans as soon as they are opened.

Condensed milk should be taken from the cans as soon as opened and kept in little white covered jars, such as fancy cheese come in.

Silver can be kept clean without weekly cleaning with whitening if carefully washed in hot suds every time it is used.

A bit of pumice stone kept in a convenient place in the bathroom will be handy for removing ink and berry stains from the fingers.

Clean bamboo furniture with a brush dipped in salt water.

When buying a sirloin of beef avoid the large cut, for it has a round piece of bone on the upper side and the meat is coarser than in the other cuts.

For sewing machine oil use equal parts of salad oil and paraffin, and you will be delighted with the way the wheels go round.

Always dry slices of bread cut for toast in the oven before placing on the toasting fork.

Alcohol can now be carried about in trunk or handbag without fear of its spilling. It is put up in small, round tin boxes, and resembles paste. It is only necessary to remove the cover of the box and light the paste, which is warranted to burn for an hour or so. Three little prongs like a tripod fit over the box, and crimping tongs, a small flat iron or a kettle of water can be heated.

A Mirror in the Ceiling.

Formerly, when a young woman sat with her head tilted and an expression of spiritual serenity on her countenance while she discussed such important subjects as the composition of sandwiches or the last new cotton figure, it meant that she was fully alive to the attractions of the upturned head, and that she was aware that carefully inserted in the ceiling of her den is a mirror which reflects her graceful positions, her dreamy eyes and the expression of her vis-a-vis when he turns to regard his lost self-possession. This mirror is now a needed completion to the draperies, the sanctuary lamps, rosaries, Malay crosses, cushions and the innumerable other things of the most charming and popular nook in the house.—New York Herald.

Lace Made of Human Hair.

Of all the curious kinds of lace, especially old lace, the most curious is that which is called point tulle. It is very rare, and was made of human hair. French collectors say that it exists in the present day only in their cabinets. It was confined to the early part of the sixteenth century. Margaret, Countess of Lennox, the mother of the wretched Darnley, sent from the Tower, where she was imprisoned when her son, Lord Charles Lennox, married the daughter of Boss of Hardwicke, a bit of this kind of lace to Mary Queen of Scots. This is a very strong proof of her belief in the queen's innocence of the guilt that had been imputed to her. The little square of point tulle was worked by the old countess' own hands from her own gray hair. It was, in fact, half mixed with hair. It is said to be strong enough for these things now.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Of Interest to Women.

The Bon Marche department store in Paris has the largest kitchen in the world. It provides food for all the 4,000 employees of the house.

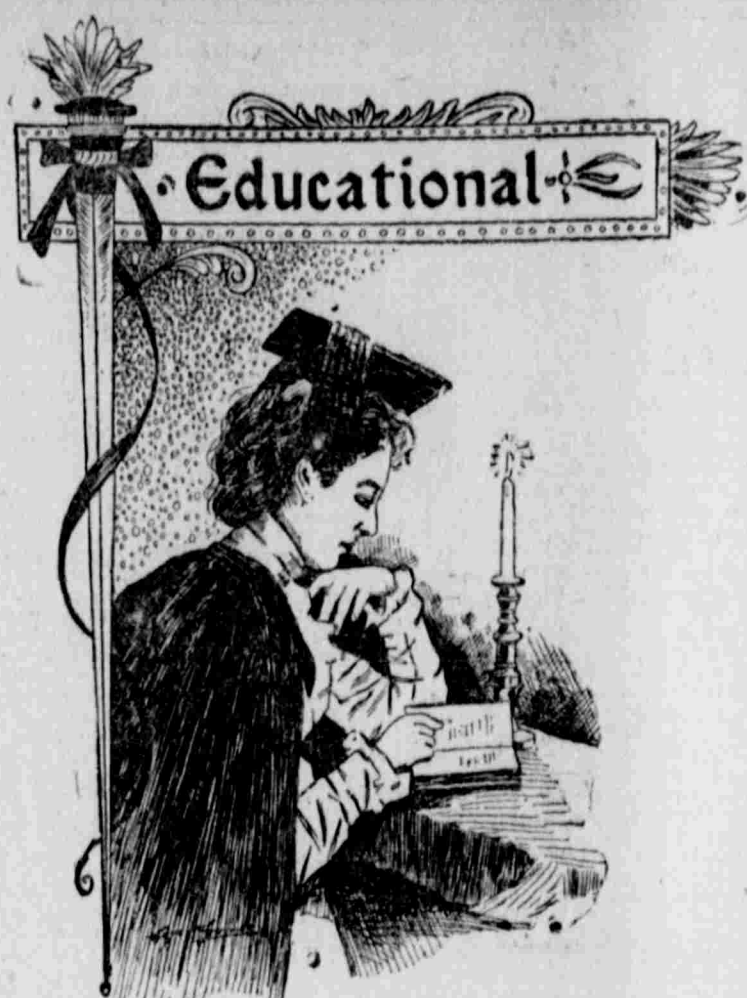

Gray, pink, duck-egg blue, fawn and mauve are among the new patterns, and the only dark colors likely to be worn are brown, navy blue, and, best of all, a rich, subdued red, known as "claret color." This latter is said to have caught on in Paris.

The dresses of school girls show wear quickest on the underside of the arm, from elbow to wrist, where the rubbing against desk or book is most constant. In a school room the other day it was noticed that several of the girls wore sleeve protectors made from material of the frocks. They were merely straightened cuffs, slightly full, and shirred at each end on an elastic band.

Sandow claims that by fresh air and exercise, and these two factors alone, can a woman preserve an ideal figure. He disapproves of corsets, qualifying them as tight spines, and attributes to their use weakness of the muscles of the back and a susceptibility to lung disease.

"Sunshine teas" are the rage in London, the sunshine being obtained by everything being yellow, and on a pale yellow card each guest writes a verse of poetry, which is presented to the hostess as a ray of sunshine. The edibles are as yellow as possible, and are all served on yellow platters and plates, while the decorations are yellow chrysanthemums and yellow-shaded lamps or candles. The maids should be dressed in yellow, to represent "sunbeams."

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

The lecture hall was crowded last night to hear Mrs. A. C. Ewing deliver her splendid lecture, "Recent American Fiction." It was delivered in a bright, easy manner, and her auditors followed her with deep interest throughout her entire discourse.

The meeting of the Microscopical society Thursday night was another of that society's star performances. The lectures of Dr. Talmage and Prof. Bradford were gems.

The class of '01 has challenged the class of '00 to a joint debate and story telling contest. The challenge has been accepted and will be one of the spirited events of the term. The time is not yet decided upon.

The class of '00 met Friday to consider the challenge thrown at their feet by the hughty '01's. They decided to accept the challenge, and teach their younger brothers and sisters a sound lesson in polemics as well as to what constitutes a good story.

The Normal society met yesterday and as usual a most interesting program was rendered, which was as follows:

Current Events.....Mr. Peterson
Piano solo.....Miss Reese
Recitation.....Miss Parral
Reading.....Prof. Babcock

The Democratic primary of the University precinct will be held on December 11th, for the purpose of electing delegates to the Democratic county-State convention, to be held in the University building on December 18th. This new lesson in practical civics is being given to a number of astute politicians out of some of the students.

The University Dramatic club will on the 21st inst. present to the Salt Lake public in the Theater the high-toned farce, "The Weaker Sex." And the public may look forward to a genuine treat, for the company under the skillful training of Miss Babcock is working assiduously, and acquiring an excellent reputation.

Those who make up the cast are the Misses Barnum, Thomas, Boyce, Holbrook, Walker, Cahoon, Butler and Messrs. Richards, Best, Gibbs, Ames, Wellen, Saunders and Grover.

Captain Hyde has given up school, and football, to take a cruise on the sea of matrimony. No doubt he will have smooth sailing.

The football team did not go to Logan to play the A. C. team today. Manager Riser received a letter from Prof. Langdon of the A. C. Team the other day stating that some of the men had been injured while practicing, therefore the game has been postponed one week.

Sometime before the holidays the college men will hold a meeting to discuss their mutual interests, and the best methods to adopt in regard to their work, etc. A banquet will be served at the time at the expense of the Delta Phi society.

There has been a number of accessions to the membership of the University club, all of whom are enthusiastic workers in educational pursuits. They are: Ernest Bamberg, Williams college, B. A., class of 1898; Albert R. Hager, University of Wisconsin, B. S., class of 1896; L. E. Ritter, Jr., Columbia college, M. E., class of 1899; O. H. Bort, Houghton college, M. E., class of 1891; R. L. Fowler, Illinois university, B. S., class of 1898. The club is in a prosperous condition.

BEAVER BRANCH OF THE B. Y. A.

Our school is still increasing, and before long we will be obliged to call for more rooms.

C. T. Stoney has been given charge of the winter course students.

Thanksgiving morning the students were entertained by the faculty; they were then dismissed until evening. The evening was spent in dancing and making calls.

Prof. Hickman of Provo lectured to the students on Friday night. His subject was "Character."

HIGH SCHOOL.

Today's football game with All High school was the last in which the High school team will be seen this season. The boys are certainly entitled to a rest. They can now recline on their glory until next year.

A lot of new apparatus has been received at the laboratory. This department of the school is rapidly becoming as well equipped as is necessary for the work done here.

The picture in the shadow box now is Edwin Evans' prize picture, exhibited at the late fair. The study is a sort of a pastoral. The picture will be described by one of the students at the general meeting next Monday morning.

The Red and Black, as bright and breezy as ever, put in its appearance again last Tuesday. The students are always ready to welcome their cheerful old friend. For it is the truest friend they have. It silently submits to becoming the means through which they air their profanity, flout their scribbles, and publish their many complaints. No other paper would stand it.

The senior class will meet Monday, to consider the time for holding their reception and banquet. It will probably be after the holidays.

BRIGHAM YOUNG ACADEMY.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Stetson has dropped a great social stone in the lake of thought at the Brigham Young Academy, and the rings are widening about it until they begin to touch the shores of action.

The suns rise red over the eastern mountains and promise a blinding snow storm for the students—if it does not clear up.

Last Monday night Apocryphal A. H. Lund and John Henry Smith spoke to a ## SPECIAL MEETING OF STUDENTS AND MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY.

Two of the young men of the Academy caused a ripple of horror over the school by their unusual appearance. The excitement subsided when the young men explained that they had shaved their heads with good intentions and not to match a zebra suit.

The musical department has raised its voice in thanksgiving for one hundred superior hymnbooks containing sacred music from all the best composers.

Last Sunday all the domestic wards convened in a conference, over which President Cliff presided. The teachers and students spoke during the meeting.

On account of a change in train time devotional exercises are held from eleven to twelve. By this arrangement Elder McKenzie and other lecturers who come from Salt Lake will be able to continue their lectures.

Prof. Josiah Hickman was lecturing in Beaver and Millard counties Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The manual work in the training school is being emphasized and the little folks are learning paper-cutting, modeling, drawing and sewing.

Only one more week's regular study and some of the students will begin to tremble and others to smile more or less anxiously, for the hard test of examinations will hold sway over the Brigham Young Academy.

Prof. G. H. Brimhall received an invitation to conduct institute at Uintah, but refused because he will attend the State Teachers' association at Salt Lake City.

Saturday night Prof. Maude May Babcock gave a recital in the Brigham Young Academy. Her subject was Julius Caesar. Miss Babcock never fails to draw a large audience of critical admirers.

BRIGHAM YOUNG COLLEGE.

Special Correspondence.

Logan, Dec. 9.—A number of theological subjects have been discussed at chapel exercises this week by Instructor Merrill.

The training school is now full. It has been impossible to accommodate the large number of children who have applied for admittance. Principal Jensen receives new applications daily. A great interest is taken in the work of this school by the children and the training students.

The season's work of the Sappho club has begun. The first meeting was held last Tuesday for the purpose of reorganizing. The following corps of officers was installed: President, Miss Emma Kewley; vice president, Miss Louisa Wauguard; secretary, Miss Lottie Hall; assistant secretary, Miss Rachel Parker; treasurer, Miss Frances Leatham. It is said that the ladies expect to win the College championship in oratorical contests, heretofore held by the Phi Poeta society. Boys, prepare yourselves.

The rumor to the effect that athletic sports are to be stopped in the College is without foundation. The trustees and faculty are very much interested in this work and are doing all they can to encourage it.

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Special Correspondence.

Logan, Dec. 9.—The reception to the faculty given last week by the Soror Literary society, was a very enjoyable affair. A game of curio, by all boys, a recitation by Miss Moeuch, and delicate refreshments were part of the sources of pleasure. The greatest pleasure, however, was the renewal of acquaintances between teachers and students.

Professor Paul, formerly president of the college, will deliver a lecture in the interests of art, and under the auspices of the Art Institute, on Saturday evening. The subject is The Theory of the Beautiful.

The game of football arranged between the college and University teams has had to be postponed, partly on account of the accident to Professor Langton while practicing, and partly for other reasons. Professor Langton met his classes today.

Bulletins are preparing at the station on egg production, by Mr. Dryden, on sugar beets in Sanpete county by Mr. Foster, on the flow of water in irrigation canals by Mr. Fortier.

Miss Moeuch's sister, who has been visiting her for some time, returned to Ogden Thursday.

Rev. Mr. Clemensen conducted chapel exercises Tuesday morning, speaking on manliness among students.

Joseph Bithell, who has been a student at the college for several years, has been compelled by ill health to abandon his studies for the present. He left college on Tuesday.

There was a good attendance of students the day following Thanksgiving vacation. A few, however, have not yet returned.

Dr. Tanner returned on Monday from Salt Lake City, where he spent his holiday.

L. D. S. COLLEGE.

D. J. McRae arrived in the city on Dec. 5th from Thatcher, Arizona, where he has had charge of the commercial department in the academy. He has been engaged to teach in the L. D. S. college. John K. Burnham has taken the position at Thatcher.

Mr. McRae recently passed examination before the Photographic Institute of Cincinnati, Ohio, and received a teachers' certificate in photography. It is the third one given to a Utah student, Joseph Anderson and Edward Holt respectively holding the first and second.

Mr. D. E. Harris of Juarez, Mexico, visited the college yesterday.

The students last Monday met in mass meeting and decided to organize
