Monogram kid gloves are in vogue.
Only one eighth of America attends church.
A little tumbler will often thrown down a big man.
Legislation has taken the red shirts off the New York firemen.
St. Louis owes over twelve million dollars.
Lobsters from Maine are exported to London.
"Washoe turtles" abound in the White Pine bunks.
Small pox is reduced to 32 cases a week in San Francisco.
At New Haven, recently, a poor family were discovered making a dinner on boiled dog.

Wild cat scalps cost Wisconsin $12,310 in 1898. Her wild cat banks are costlier still.
Medical men are condemning velocipedes. They assert that the bicycle causes abscesses and malformations.
Why cannot the Emperor Napoleon insure his life? No one can be found who can make out his policy.
A New Jersey damsel eloped with her adorer, and married another lover while the first one was in quest of a minister.
At sixteen a woman prefers the best dancer in the house; at two-and-twenty, the best talker; and at thirty, the richest man.
A troop of women acrobats are now amusing the London public with their performances at a music hall. They are of French importation.
The remarkable proposition is made to cut up the lava lately thrown out by Vesuvius, sell it for paving stones and use the proceeds for the benefit of the sufferers by the eruption.
Rev. Edwin Burham, of the Holyoke (Mass.) Baptist Church, in his sermon, the other Sunday evening, called feticide "the foulest crime on record; a crime not even known in Sodom."
"Ma, somebody's going to die!" said a knowing little fellow, who was looking out of the window into the street. "Why?" asked the anxious mother. "Cause the doctor's just gone by," was the reply.
Drunkenness has become fearfully prevalent among the wine-growing districts of California. Even young girls are sometimes seen reeling in the streets under the influence of the "pure California."
It is proposed in Great Britain to celebrate, by a grand display, the centennial anniversary of the birth of the great novelist, Walter Scott, which will occur on August 15, 1871.
The first Sunday school in the world was established by Ludwig Hacker, in Ephrata, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, in 1740. Robert Ralke started one in Gloucester, England, in 1782, and he has generally been credited as the originator of such schools.
A correspondent gives a conversation between two five-year old misses, which others should heed:
"Anna, you are a Unitarian."
"Yes, and you are a Presbyterian."
"Now, I should like to know what is the difference."
"O, I don't know. All the difference I can see, is one is a 'tarian and the other is a 'terian."
The soul of the Paris police is a comparatively young man, named Andre Bernard, who used to be chief of the French detectives and spies in London. He has a truly wonderful memory, knows most of the revolutionary characters of France, is very fertile and ready in "working up" a case, and is endowed with the most impetuous temper. He receives an annual salary of ten thousand francs. He sleeps and eats at the Prefecture, which he rarely leaves, save on holidays.
We understand that to-day the workmen at the U. P. R. R. Bridge commenced putting down towards the rock bottom of the Missouri river one of the cast iron pneumatic piles upon which the piers are to be constructed for the spans of the Bridge. These cast iron tubes, or piles as they are called, are huge things to handle. They are hollow, are about eight feet in diameter and about ten feet long, and weigh, each about eight tons. They will have to be sunk to the depth of sixty or eighty feet before reaching the rock bottom, and when once down we think they will be very apt to remain where they are put. Council Bluffs Eagle March 21st.
Robert Simson, the Scottish mathematician, was noted for his absentmindedness. He used to sit at his open window on the ground floor, deep in geometry, and when accosted by a beggar would come himself, hear a few words of the story, make his donation and dive. Some day he stopped a mendicant on his way to the window with "Now! do as we tell you and you will get something from that gentleman and a shilling from us besides. He will ask who you are, and you will say Robert Simson, son of John Simson, of Kirktonhill." The man did as he was told; Simson gave him a coin and dropped off. He soon roused himself and said, "Robert Simson! son of John Simson! of Kirktonhill! why, that is myself! that man must be an impostor!"
