PITT'S CLEVER DEDUCTION.

By Employing Conan Doyle Tactics He Locates Auto Owner.

The mystery of the lost automobile s a mystery no longer. Chief of Police Tom D. Pitt, did the Sherlock Holmes act in finding the owner and he claims to have done so by the pro-cess of deduction. He asked himself these questions and then started to work: "Who would use a public highway for a garage? What automobile owner cares so little for his machine that he would leave it in the streets unprotect-ed for two days and nights?" There could be only one answer and it came after the chief had done some hard thinking. Tom Homer, of course. Homer was notified that his ma-chine had been confiscated and was held at police headquarters until Tom pald the city garage rent. Mr. Homer appeard late yesterday afternoon and managed to get the machine without, olice Tom D. Pitt, did the Sherlock

MISSED HER PURSE.

Excitement Prevailed in Southeast Part of City in Consequence.

For nearly three hours this morning great excitement prevailed for several block around the neighborhood of 1432 Eleventh East street, the residence of Mrs. D. C. Kimball, and was the cause of calling out Chief Pitt, Detectives Wilson, Chase and Schulze, and officers Phillips, Golding and Moore, the patrol wagon and the chief's buggy. Word came to headquarters that a couple, a man and a woman, were in couple, a man and a woman, were in the neighborhood selling some kind of disinfectani, and that after the man left the home of Mrs. Kimball the latter missod $17 which was in a purse lying on the dresser. Mrs. Kimball was not at home when the man called but the door was unlocked. She re-turned in a few minutes, missed the purse and at once suspected the man of stealing it. She rushed into the home of a neighbor and trantically notified the police. Detective Wilson and Officer Phillips, who live near the Kimball home, were routed out of bed and given a descrip-tion of the suspected couple. It was reported that they had boarded a down-town car. The patrol wagon with sev-

ing that the Royal bakery was on fire. Flames were seen shooting sky-ward and a large crowd rushed to the place expecting to see a big conflagra-tion, but they were agreeably disap-pointed. The fire was nothing more than burning grease in the smokestack, but for a time it was decidedly hot and threatened to set fire to the building. No damage whatever was done and the firemen remained on the scene un-til the blaze died out. No damage whatever was done and the fremen remained on the scene un-til the blaze died out. Almost at the same time as the alarm from the bakery, there was an-other from the residence of G. Soffe, 325 Hazel court, where a defective flue was the cause of a fire in the summer kitchen The alarm was answered by the apparatus from No. 4 station and Electrician Sheeley acted as assistant acting chief and went to the place in a buggy. Sheeley made a great run from headquarters and, according to some of the firemen turned the corner at Second East and First South streets on one wheel, but he got there just the same. While going to the bakery call the chemical wagon slipped one of the rubber tires. The wheel is now being repaired.

. . . Mrs. Samuel Adams will be here shortly to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McMillan,

A pretty wedding of yesterday was that of Miss M. Rose Watts and Leon-ard Cahoon, the ceremony being per-formed at the home of the bride at Murray with Elshop Miller officiating in the presence of the near relatives and friends. The parlor was decorat-ed in pink roses, the bridal party standing in front of a bank of them mingled with green and the dining room in red, with strands of red hearts brought from the chandelier to the corners, and red roses on the table and all about the room. The grounds were hung with Japanese lanterns and ar-ranged with cosy corners and about 35 near friends and relatives were pres-ent. Mr. and Mrs. Cahoon will be at home after July 10 at 706 east Twelfth South street. South street. . . .

Among the many temple marriages of yesterday was that of Miss Lettic Davis and John Sanders of Murray, and Miss Lillie Park and Jesse H. Hultz of Mill Creek.

At 8 o'clock last evening Miss Lena Lamph and Sydney Rogers were mar-ried at the home of the bride's par-ents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lamph, 836 west Third North street, Bishop William McMillan officiating. A large number of relatives and intimate triends were nessent a wedding supfriends were present, a wedding sup per following the ceremony. 'The dec
