Several Hundred Thousand Will be Distributed This Month.

COMMISSIONER KEPT BUSY.

Restrictions of the New Fish and Game Law Will be Felt by the Old Fishermen.

This is Fish and Game Commissioner Sharp's busy month, at least this is the month when he ships out most of the trout that are to make their future homes in the various streams of the State. It is surprising that these little troutlets from a month to two months old are able to take care of themselves. One would think they ought to be still under their mothers' care, but as a matter of fact the mother has very little to do with her progeny beyond laying the eggs from which they are hatched, if, indeed, they have the good luck to escape being drowned before the spawn is hatched, which, except in fish hatcheries, seems to be the rule rather than the exception. These little fellows, not much longer than your thumb nail are sent out to battle with the world. The fish commissioner says that they are better able to take care of themselves at the tender age than they would be if considerably older. They are so small that they have a better chance of getting out of the way when some big hungry fish come along, and they have a chance to grow up with the country, so to speak.

On Monday, 100,000 of these small fry, which by the way are all eastern brook trout, will be sent to Heber City for distribution in Wasatch county. They are sent out in large cans a good deal like milk cans. A shipment of 75,000 will go to Utah county for distribution in Provo river and Diamond creek, and 30,000 will go to Millard county. A consignment of 300,000 will go to Rich county to take their chances in Bear lake, the State of Idaho standing its share of the expense, as the lake is half in Idaho.

As soon as the roads are in fit condition for their transportation 100,000 will be sent into Summit county to make their future home in the Weber river, and some time between the 20th and the end of the month 30,000 will be sent to Price to be planted in the streams of Emery county. About the 25th, 15,000 will go to Tooele county, and 15,000 or 20,000 to Davis county. Some 45,000 will be planted in the streams of Salt Lake county.

According to the fish and game law recently passed native and eastern lake trout and black bass, taken from Utah, Bear, Sevier, Fish and Panguitch lakes may be sold for food, but it is a penalty to sell any others—land locked salmon. It is a question how this law will be observed by the class of fishers who make a living by selling brook trout, which they kill wholesale in the streams by the use of giant powder.

NEW SMOKE CONSUMER.

An Invention of Great Apparent Practical Value Under Test.

Experiments are now being made with a new smoke consumer at the Utah Light and Power company's plant on Fourth West street, which, if as successful from an economic standpoint as thus far proved to be in regard to the consumption of smoke, will prove the invention to be of much practical value. A. M. Grant and Engineer Hayward are conducting the experiments with the new smoke consumer, which was put into operation for the first time yesterday. The method of operation is as follows:

The coal is run through a pulverizer into a pipe connected to another pipe through which air is forced by means of a fan. The air produced suction and the coal and air mixed together, almost forming a gas, are blown under a brick arch where the mixture ignites producing a terrific heat. The air pressure used is not much over one-half an ounce.

The object of the process is to oxidize the coal particles with the oxygen of the air and thus enable complete combustion of the gases to take place. The experiment thus far has proved to be a success. Four hundred and fifty pounds of coal are being used per hour and the power being generated is between 120 and 140 horse power.

Scarcely any gases come from the chimney and Engineer Hayward said today that the air produced suction and the coal and air mixed together, almost forming a gas, are blown under a brick arch where the mixture ignites producing a terrific heat. The air pressure used is not much over one-half an ounce.

Mr. Grant said that it was the intention of the owners to have the City Council witness a test soon.

WITH THE JUSTICES.

stay the injunction recently ordered to issue until an appeal had been set. The injunction restrains Ogden City from interference with the management of the Ogden waterworks and gives to the plaintiffs, the Ogden Waterworks company, the sole right to operate and use the stop cocks and curb boxes, etc. Judge Marshall thought that the injunction should take effect at once and denied the petition, also fixing the cost bonds for an appeal, in the sum of $300.

Judge Marshall, at this morning's session of the Federal court, handed down an opinion in the J. M. Pearson bankruptcy case. The opinion concerned the report of the referee in regard to the payment of counsel fees to the attorneys engaged by the trustee in settling the estate of J. M. Pearson.

The court held that the trustee had the right to employ counsel and that the counsel fees should be paid out of the estate of the bankruptcy. He ordered the order of the referee denying the petition to be vacated and the matter remanded to him with directions to allow such counsel fees as were due.

Scrofula

Is a disease as old as antiquity, and as young as the newest born infant.

It has infested the blood of humanity from ancient times down to the present minute.

It is hereditary or may be acquired. It appears in swollen glands, scrofulous sores, hip disease, boils, pimples, eruptions, and, as believed by high authorities, even in the forms of catarrh and rheumatism.

It can be cured by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla faithfully and persistently.

We know this, because Hood's Sarsaparilla has done it.

It will cure you if you give it a trial. You should begin to take it today.

who can spare the time so there is a possibility that the meeting will be very largely attended. It is probable that the meeting of this afternoon will be fruitful of results, but there is a strong likelihood some line of action will be agreed upon. It is possible that the men will appoint a new conference committee to act with the group of officials who are handling the dispute for the railroads. Vice President Warren gave out the following statement today:

"We have been receiving many expressions from employees of a desire to have a new committee selected by them to meet the company and discuss the matter. The propositions submitted by the company are as follows: There has been no doubt that the new committee appointed. The officers of the company, as previously stated, are always ready to confer with employees on matters of mutual interest. Mr. Waite and Mr. Shea, representing the engineers and firemen respectively, called upon Superintendent Oldhausen and West yesterday and arranged for a meeting between their committee and the local officers of the company for this afternoon to further discuss the propositions submitted by the company. John V. Waite, representing the engineers, and Timothy Shea, on behalf of the firemen, called at the depot of the Central Railroad of New Jersey this afternoon and went at once to the office of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. They were received by Mr. Oldhausen and Division Superintendent Wenta and a conference was begun behind closed doors. With Waite and Shea were several other men who were said to be representatives of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. It was said that the pay schedule was at once taken under consideration. Shortly before 3 o'clock the train from Wilkesbarre bearing the grievance committee of that division of the road arrived. The committee was met at the train by officials of the Central road, and were escorted to the office of Superintendent Oldhausen, where the conference was going on.

AFAIRS IN PHILIPPINES.

President and Secy. Root Have Conference on Them.

Washington, April 11.—Secy. Root talked with the President this morning about affairs in the Philippines referring to a cablegram just received at the war department announcing the surrender of a number of Filipinos with their arms.

Secy. Root said he had received no official information of the purpose of the Cuban constitutional convention to send a delegation to Washington to ask a modification of the Platt amendment. That the president would receive the members is certain. He would not only do so, but would listen attentively to all that was said. It is the opinion of official circles that he would make no promise but that he would give the Cubans to understand that the Platt amendment voices both the official and public opinion of the United States.

HARRISON'S WAR RECORD.

How General Harrison turned his back on all fair prospects and determined to offer his services to his country at the opening of the civil war has been told as follows, says the Des Moines Leader:

"I went one day to see Governor Morton with Mr. Wallace, to seek an appointment as lieutenant for a young man in the northern part of the State. After getting through with this business Governor Morton invited me to an inner room. He there spoke of the call and of the response being made thereto. The governor seemed discouraged at the apathy of the people, and, pointing over toward the Gallop block where men were dressing suits, remarked that men were more interested in their own business than in the safety of the nation. I said right there: 'Governor, if I can be of service to my country I am ready to go.'"

"He said: 'You can; you can raise a regiment in this district.' I went on to say: 'You have a good office, and it would be too much to ask you to give it up; but you get up the regiment and we can find someone else to take it into the field.' I said: 'No, if I make a recruiting speech at a war meeting, I promise you to go with them and to stay as long as they do, if I live that long.' 'Well,' said the governor, 'you can command the regiment.' I said: 'I don't know that I want to. I have no military experience. We can see about that.'"

After this conversation Mr. Harrison proceeded up the street with Mr. Wallace and bought a military cap; they got out hand bills for a war meeting, lined a life and drum and hung the flag out of a window. Mr. Harrison took out a second lieutenant's recruiting commission in July, 1862, and raised and took the first company (A) of the Seventeenth regiment into camp, and in less than thirty days from the date of the first recruiting commission he was in Kentucky with 1,010 men, having been first promoted to a captaincy and then to a colonelcy.

This was the first regiment in the field under that call. The record of the Seventeenth infantry was a notable one and the story of the battles of Resaca and Peach Tree Creek, and General Harrison's conduct for bravery, won him the title of the inspiring pages of the history of the civil war.

TO HAVE AND TO HOLD EXPLAINED

"Miss Johnson," authors of "To Have and To Hold," says a reader of the Philadelphia Telegraph, who knows her personally, "is the frailest, daintiest little lady imaginable. Far from being the dashing creature one would think from reading her novels, she looks as if she had not strength or energy to put her thoughts on paper. She told me that her methods of work are somewhat peculiar. She prefers to begin to write at 11 o'clock in the evening, when everything about her is still and there are no discordant noises to distract her attention. She writes only in the south, and, as far as possible on moonlight nights, seated at a window, through which the moonlight is streaming."
