

"Messrs. J. P. Thomas, Phil. E. Evans and Jos. Hyde, of this valley, are the possessors of the finest sheep in the Territory. He is a three-year-old Cotswold ram, name Gloster Chief, bred by Henry Cole, Cirencester, Gloucestershire, England, and imported in 1874, by Beattie & Miller, of Pickering, Ontario, Canada, and from them purchased and brought to Montana this season by C. W. Cook & Bro., Camp Baker. He took the first premium at the Territorial Fair last week, and cost his present owners $500. They will use him the next season, to improve their own flocks. Gloster Chief weighs 375 pounds, and shears wool thirteen inches long. This, and all wool over four and one-half inches long, is known as combing wool, and sells at five to ten cents advance on the ordinary quality."

Departed.—Mayor Fotheringham, of Beaver, left hurriedly for home this morning. It is supposed by his friends that the Mayor heard some unwelcome news which caused him to "vacate" so suddenly.

Eleventh Ward Concert.—There was a good attendance at the concert held in the Eleventh Ward School-house last evening, the audience manifesting their approval by repeated applause. The entertainment was conducted by Prof. C. J. Thomas, and, as a whole, was quite successful.

The Fly.—Although we have had some very cold nights and some rather blustery days, we are unable to perceive any diminution in the ranks of the house-fly brigade; the little nuisances seem determined not to give up at present, and are as industrious and bothersome as though Winter were months off.

Habeas Corpus.—Yesterday Louis Ordner, a beer seller of this city, refused to pay the license imposed by ordinance upon that business, for which he was arrested, fined, and, in the absence of payment, was consigned to jail. He was brought before Judge Schaeffer this afternoon on a writ of habeas corpus, and at the Judge's instance, was released upon his own recognizance till Monday at noon.

The Beaver Justiceship.—We learn that Judge Boreman, though practically admitting that the Beaver County Court alone had the power of filling the vacancy in the office of justice of the peace for that precinct, granted the mandamus applied for by Poole, requiring the county clerk to give him a certificate of election. Judge Sutherland, for the clerk, immediately asked Judge B. to fix the amount of bond on appeal, but his honor refused to do so. So it seems the people of Beaver are to have foisted upon them for an important office a man who was not legally elected and has no legal claim upon the position whatever. Things are progressing.

Third District Court.—The concluding argument in the Chambers vs. Pitt case was made this morning by Mr. Bennett, when the Judge charged the jury and sent them to their room.

As numerous motions were on the tapis, the probabilities of a decision in the Wells-Patton case being reached were slim.

The jury in the case of Chambers vs. Pitts, came into court shortly after their retirement, and rendered a verdict for the plaintiff.

The case of Young vs. Young came up on motion of plaintiff's attorneys, at 2 p. m. After argument by counsel pro and con, Judge Schaeffer briefly reviewed the case, and decided that unless the money previously adjudged the plaintiff was paid within ten days, an attachment should issue without application to bring the defendant into court to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

Caught in the Act.—W. H. Dugard, hailing from Salt Lake, came to Ogden a day or two ago, and seeking employment as a jeweler, was engaged by Mr. I. E. Brown on Fifth Street. This morning Mr. Brown entered the store and caught Dugard in the act of pocketing some watch material. He called in the Captain of Police, and on searching Dugard about $19 worth of springs, crystals and other "fixings" were found on his person. He pleaded guilty of petty larceny before Alderman Brown, and was fined $30 and costs. He will work it out on the streets, when anybody can tell his trade by the jewelry he wears on his ankle. He has a kit of jeweler's tools in his possession; nobody seems to know where they came from.—Ogden Junction, Oct. 13.

Life of Brigham Young, or Utah and Her Founders. This is a work of 458 pages, with a supplement additional of 51 pages. By Edward W. Tullidge. It is excellently printed, in clear, large type, on good, thick, tinted paper, and is prefaced with an engraved likeness of Brigham Young.

This work treats, in 32 chapters, of the life and work of Brigham Young, beginning with the exodus from Nauvoo, and continuing up to the present. It is in a large degree a history of Utah and its most prominent men, and is written in the author's imaginative, nervous, vigorous, incisive style. It will be read with interest by all who are in any wise concerned in Utah and the people thereof.

The supplement contains brief biographical sketches of H. C. Kimball, G. A. Smith, D. H. Wells, W. Woodruff, L. Saow, W. H. Hooper, G. Q. Cannon, Ed. Hunter, J. Sharp, W. Budge, E. Smith, F. Little, W. Jennings, A. Pyper, N. Groesbeck, Walker Brothers, W. S. Godbe, H. W. Lawrence, W. C. Staines, A. M. Musser, O. Hyde, F. D. Richards, C. C. Rich, O. Pratt, P. P. Pratt, E. Snow, J. Taylor, A. Carrington, and J. F. Smith.

Garroting.—This morning, at 10 o'clock, before Justice Pyper, Frank Treseder and Charles Howard were arraigned, charged with highway robbery, committed last evening, upon the person of Mr. John Hepworth, of this city. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Hepworth and police officer Alexander Burt. It was developed that the two young men were seen together as if watching or waiting for some one, just previous to the robbery; that Treseder was positively the party who throttled Mr. Hepworth and called to his accomplice to "go through him;" that so far as the darkness of the evening and the attendant circumstances would admit of a conclusion, Howard answered the description of the other party; that Mr. Hepworth's gold watch, worth $180, was taken from his pocket, the robber breaking a string with which it was tied to Mr. H.'s vest to get it away, the fragment of the string attached to the watch when produced in court and that remaining upon the vest corresponding exactly. The watch was correctly described by Mr. Hepworth, and identified in court as his property, and it was further developed that Mr. Burt took it from the person of Treseder upon searching him after the arrest.

The two defendants were arrested by Mr. Burt just as they were in the act of entering the Occidental Saloon, the robbed man pointing them out to the officer and recognizing Treseder as being beyond doubt one of the parties. Both pleaded not guilty, and were separately arraigned for examination. Howard conducted his own case, basing his defense upon the fact of Mr. Hepworth being unable to swear positively that he was the person who accompanied Treseder. General Barnum having been sent for by the latter defendant, appeared and waived examination, whereupon the Justice held each of the parties to answer to the grand jury of the district court, fixing the amount of bond in both cases at $1,000, in default thereof to be committed jail.

Tree Planting.—The following is from that useful periodical, the American Agriculturist, for October—

In all localities where the autumns are long and mild, it is decidedly better to plant trees, except stone fruits, in the fall. The soil is in better condition, and the work can be more thoroughly done than in the uncertain weather of spring. The trees should be set as soon as the re-falling of the leaves shows that their duties are over; if set soon, the trees will become well established, or, "get a good hold of the soil," as gardeners say, before winter sets in. Even if spring-planting be preferred, it is better to procure trees now and heel them in, to be in readiness for setting next spring; transportation is much safer at this season, and this plan will save much anxiety and hurry. A mound of earth a foot high, raised around each tree before the ground freezes, will serve better than a stake, and help protect it from mice. Prepare the land for spring planting.

Heeling-in.—There is a wrong and a right way with this. If a bundle of trees is dumped into a hole, with some earth thrown carelessly over the roots, probably the majority will be found dead in the spring. The right way is to open a wide trench 12 or 18 inches deep, place in the trees singly at an angle of 45 degrees or more, and cover the roots of each with mellow soil, taking care to fill in around completely, leaving no spaces, and finish by banking up well, and provide a channel for the water to run off. The trees should lean towards the south, so that the branches will shade the trunks; if mice are troublesome, it is better to stand the trees upright, and bank the earth all around them. When heeling-in is well done, the trees will pass the winter as safely as if in the nursery, and they are at hand whenever planting can be done.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, OCT. 16.

Found.—A pocket book containing a small quantity of money was found to-day near the Temple Block. The owner can have the same by calling at this office and proving property.

Third District Court.—The case of Leonard Wines et al. vs. B. C. Stevens was called this morning, and a jury impaneled. The hearing of evidence occupied the entire morning hour without having concluded.

Winn a Prisoner.—If Winn rode off to the mountains, as announced in our Tuesday's issue, he rode back again, as he was found at his residence on Tuesday evening by the marshal, and brought to Beaver a prisoner, where he is now held.—Beaver Enterprise, Oct. 12.

"Two Souls," &c.—Miss Annie Park, for some years connected with the NEWS office, was united in marriage, to-day, to Mr. Joshua Midgley, Jr. Our loss is his gain, and the best wishes of all the lady's former associates in the office follow the happy pair.

Tabernacle Services.—Elder John Taylor occupied the entire time yesterday afternoon at the Tabernacle, speaking upon the general principles that should govern the Saints in their earthly pilgrimage and which are best calculated to insure happiness and salvation. There was a good congregation and an excellent feeling existed.

Arrivals.—Elders Lorenzo D. Young, son of President Brigham Young, and James T. Wilson, both of Salt Lake City, arrived in Liverpool, per S. S. Idaho, on Saturday, 16th inst., at 10:30 p. m., in good health and spirits. Elder Young attended the Manchester Conference the following day. On the 19th, Elder Wilson proceeded to visit friends in Belfast, Ireland, and will labor in that city and vicinity as the way may open.—Millennial Star, Sept. 25.

The Ladies' Store.—The display made by the Ladies' Co-operative Store, in the Old Constitution Building, is one of the finest in the city, and what makes it all the more acceptable and gratifying, is the fact that the various fabrics on exhibition and for sale are the "workmanship of our own hands." Those who require anything in the nature of cloths, whether of silk, wool, linen or cotton, or other articles usually produced in Utah, would consult their best interests by calling upon the ladies.

Importunate.—A woman appeared before Judge Pyper to-day on behalf of a "near and dear" relative who had fallen into the clutches of the law some time ago, and is still in durance vile. Finding that the Judge was unable to give the desired satisfaction, the woman changed her tactics and made an assault upon the newspapers, wishing to know by what right they accused a man of committing an offence, when, at the time, he was drunk and therefore incapable of criminal intent. The Judge quietly informed her that he was not "running" any newspaper, and she would therefore have to seek the establishment where the "offence" was committed for redress.

Small-Pox.—If, during the presence of epidemic small-pox, the patient is attacked with headache, drowsiness, irritable temper, dry heat and fever, drawing in the limbs, nose bleed, delirium, spasms, and colic in the case of children we may rest assured that small-pox is impending.

As soon as the fever breaks out give aconite six pellets, every two hours, for drawing in the limbs, rustox and aconite, in alternation, for delirium and spasms, belladonna in alternation with aconite. For pleuritic stitches, nose bleed, erythema and aconite. Scrofulous persons affected with tetter or other eruptions will do well to take a dose of sulphur, six pellets every day, and to prevent deep pitting and aggravating sores wash with carbonate of silver every morning.

J. D. M. CROCKWELL, M. D.

Conference at Manchester.—A conference was held at Grosvenor Street Temperance Hall, Manchester, Sept. 17th, as reported in the Millennial Star.

Meetings were held at 10:30 a. m. and 2 and 6 p. m.

"Present on the stand—Albert Carrington, Prest. of the European Mission; William H. Galbraith, Prest. of the Manchester Conference; James Mellor, Prest. of the Liverpool Conference; Elders David McKenzie and Arta D. Young, from the Liverpool Office; Hyrum Taylor, Traveling Elder in the Manchester Conference; William Taylor, Traveling Elder in the Leeds Conference, and Lorenzo D. Young, not yet assigned."

The conference was addressed by Elders John Schofield, John H. Sanegar, W. H. Galbraith, James Mellor, David McKenzie and Arta D. Young, and President A. Carrington.

Violation Frustrated.—On Saturday afternoon, in the Seventh Ward, a scoundrel giving his name as Jayne attempted an assault upon the person of a little girl six years old, having first enticed her into a barn for that purpose. He was thwarted in his designs by other children being around, and the ruffian desisted. He was subsequently arrested by officer Florida, at the instance of a neighbor named Brown. Such creatures as Jayne are not fit to live.

Before Justice Pyper, this morning, it was developed that, had not the villain become alarmed, the damnable deed would probably have been consummated. The defendant was ably represented by counsel, but no legal lore could by any possibility obscure the fact of the prisoner's guilt. The Justice, therefore, held Jayne in bonds of $1,000 to answer to the grand jury.

The Liquor Business.—Louis Ordner's case was brought up before Judge Schaeffer at one p. m., to-day, on the habeas corpus case previously announced in the NEWS.

Several witnesses were examined on behalf of the defendant. The case was continued till to-morrow.

For the East.—Judge Sutherland takes his departure for Chicago to-morrow morning, to be absent some time.

The Small-pox in Ogden.

There is quite a scare in town about the small-pox. The wildest rumors are in circulation and much anxiety is felt in all parts of the city. It is a fact that the dread disease has once more obtained a foothold among us. But its attacks are greatly exaggerated, and much needless alarm is created. The facts are three of the children at the pest house have died, and twenty persons in Ogden have all the symptoms of the malady.

It is quite probable that many others may be attacked, and unless some precautions are immediately adopted, serious consequences will ensue. We hear of persons coming from the pest house without a change of clothing, and of members of the afflicted families mixing with the public as though there was no danger of infection. This should be stopped at once. If any person employed to visit or attend upon the sick at the pest house comes into town with unchanged clothing, we call such conduct criminal carelessness. He ought to know better. Infection can be carried about in the clothing and communicated to others, although the person carrying it might be exempt. To take the small-pox, the blood must be in a condition favorable for its reception, and thus an individual may escape infection himself, while he becomes the medium of its communication to others.

Until some civic regulations can be adopted, we suggest that a yellow flag be hoisted at every residence of the afflicted; that the members of smitten families who are not seized with the disease, keep secluded until danger of communicating it is over; that schools and public entertainments be discontinued; that children be kept as near home as possible; that all physicians, attendants and others visiting the patients, change their clothing before mixing again with the public; that personal cleanliness be rigidly observed by the people of all ages and both sexes; that attention be paid to diet and food favorable to fever be avoided; that infected clothing be buried but never burned; and that everybody seek to preserve a calm and equable frame of mind, giving no heed to sensational rumors and scares.

As a preventive, which has been tried with wonderful success in the old world, we can confidently recommend the following: One ounce epsom salts; two ounces cream tartar; one lemon, sliced. Pour over it one quart of boiling water. Dose for an adult—a wineglassful, cold, every morning on rising.—Ogden Junction, Oct. 12.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Rain—Fruit—Grain—Small-Pox.

OGDEN CITY, Utah,
Oct. 12, 1872.

Editor Deseret News:

Our heated weather appears to have ended for this season. Last night and this morning we had a refreshing, cooling shower of rain which has laid the dust and made pedestrian locomotion more comfortable. Business for a short time past has been improving and business men are more cheerful. We have had an excellent fruit season and a market for all we could raise, in fact we could have found ready sale for as much more as we have exported if we had had it. Many are waiting for something like remunerative prices for grain; but at present it is low and as a consequence there has not been a great deal thrown on the market. Vegetables here are abundant and cheap.

Yesterday there was great excitement in this place, caused by the report that a number of cases of smallpox had been discovered, mostly on the Bench. Little credence was at first given to the report, but at the same time all precaution in the matter possible was taken, and hopes were entertained that the report was not true; but I am sorry to say that it is too true that the loathsome disease does exist here, and that it appears to have got a strong hold and is spreading rapidly in the eastern part of this city. The number of cases have been variously stated, but I believe at this present writing there are twenty cases, or nearly so. The quarantine physician and others are busy attending to those who have been brought down with the contagion, and the civil authorities are adopting measures to keep it under control. I have not yet heard of any case which is likely to prove fatal, and sincerely hope there will not be any to report. How the disease first made its appearance among the people here this time is not as yet really known. Rumor has it many ways, but I prefer to wait before I say anything on this point.

SEMPER.

DIED.

At Randolph, Sept. 26, 1872, JOHN EZRA, son of William and Susannah Pead, aged 3 years, 4 months and 22 days.

At Rockville, Kane Co., Utah, Sept. 25, of inflammation on the lungs and general debility, HENRY JENNINGS.

Henry Jennings was born in Waynesville, Warren County, Ohio, Aug. 6th, 1812; was brought up in the faith and doctrine of the Quakers, but upon hearing the gospel as revealed through Joseph Smith he soon identified himself with the Latter-day Saints; removed to Nauvoo in 1843, and while there performed two missions to the East; shared the expulsion of the Saints from Illinois, and, while laboring in Iowa in September, 1847, death deprived him of his wife; emigrated to Utah in 1856, settling in Provo; in 1862 was called with his family on a mission to the south, to which he promptly responded, locating himself in Rockville, where he resided until the time of his death; in 1872 was again bereaved of a companion in life.

Bro. Jennings was a man of unflinching integrity, zealously devoted to the advancement of the Kingdom of God; has been for many years Superintendent of the Sabbath School; was presiding teacher and branch recorder; held at the time of his death the office of Justice of the Peace; was a member of the 52nd Quorum of Seventies; lived a consistent life, and died in full faith of the work of the Latter Day.
