

FEDERATION WILL NOT BE RECOGNIZED

Goldfield Mine Owners Refuse It Recognition as a Labor Organization.

NO DEAL WITH UNION AS SUCH

Decision to Ignore the W. F. M. is Irreversible—Atty. Hilton Telegraphs President Reversal of Offer.

Goldfield, Nev., Dec. 20.—The Goldfield Mine Owners' association refused today to recognize the Western Federation of Miners as a labor organization or to deal with the local miners' union as a body. A reply to the letter asking for a conference with Atty. O. N. Hilton was received by Mr. Hilton this morning saying that the executive committee of the Mine Owners' association would be pleased to receive him as an individual, but that the decision of the Mine Owners to ignore the Western Federation of Miners in the future is irreversible. This refusal to failure of the miners of Atty. Hilton to name the date proposed by President Morer to make a compromise with the Mine Owners' association left here late last night to meet at some point north of here a train bearing a number of strike-breakers who are coming from California, and who are supposed to be in cars attached to the train No. 44 on the Southern Pacific, which stopped with train here some time during the afternoon. Some trouble is feared when these men are landed here. Their number is not known.

Atty. Hilton, upon receipt of the refusal of the Mine Owners' association to confer with him as representative of the Western Federation of Miners, dispatched a telegram to President Roosevelt setting forth the fact that his offer of a possible compromise has been refused and asserting that the continuation sent here by the president to investigate the labor situation is leaving but one side of the case. He accuses the members of the committee of being prejudiced in favor of the Mine Owners.

CONFERENCE OF WOMEN DEANS ON SORORITIES.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Sororities under college control for women students was urged as a solution of one of the vexing problems connected with school life at a conference of women deans of colleges and state universities held here last night.

Mrs. Myra B. Jordan of the University of Michigan, president, representatives from 12 states were in attendance.

"Roominghouses are a poor substitute for home life," said Mrs. Jordan. "Of course, there is a great deal said against the sororities, and much that is justified. However, the sororities are in the jurisdiction of the college deans they offer the best solution of one of the most difficult problems that are presented in our work."

It was decided by resolutions adopted that each woman who was present at this conference should return to her home college with the determination to use her influence in obtaining better social conditions for women students.

The following were those present, in addition to Mrs. Jordan: Miss Lily Kellie, Illinois; Miss Louise Goodbody, Indiana; Miss Eugenie Gallo, Kansas; Mrs. Caroline Calvin, Maine; Mrs. Edna Barkley, Nebraska; Miss Alice Concock, Minnesota; Miss Mary Brown, Missouri; Miss Ethel Fulton, North Dakota; Mrs. Cora Woodward, Wisconsin; Miss Minnie A. Stoner, Wyoming; Miss Jocelle Holcombe, Arkansas.

ATTACKED BY DEER.

John Quinn, a keeper in Bronx Zoo, is Seriously Injured by Them.

SAVED THE GIRL.
But the Boy Probably Sacrificed His Own Life in Doing It.

New York, Dec. 20.—John Quinn, a keeper in Bronx Zoo, was attacked yesterday by a herd of deer. He was hit in the head and seriously injured. He entered the paddock where the deer are kept to feed them, when suddenly one of the animals rushed at him with lowered antlers, knocking him down and tearing his clothing. Immediately the four others joined the antler striking Quinn victim with their horns. Quinn fought back as well as he was able and his efforts attracted several other keepers. By the time they had entered the paddock and driven off the infuriated animals with clubs, Quinn was unconscious. A physician found that he had two broken ribs, several small scalp wounds and many bruises and abrasions about the arms and body.

WITNESS SWEARS HE COMMITTED PERJURY.

New York, Dec. 20.—When Pietro Giannone, recently convicted of a charge of attempting to poison his employer, will ask for a new trial and will offer in support of this application the affidavit of Bruno Codella, the principal witness against Giannone, in which Codella says that he deliberately committed perjury, on the witness stand during his testimony in the Giannone trial. He says that he was induced by a person who was interested in the case, and by an employe of the electric company, one of whom told him to hold on the stand, under a promise of freedom and $500 reward.

Codella testified at the trial that Giannone offered him $1,250 to kill Luigi Favetta, with whom wife, Giannone, had him here in New York. Codella accepted $250 of the money, but no more. Favetta was found severely wounded, recovered.

Codella was caught while running away from the spot and was convicted of assault and sent to prison for five years. He denied all knowledge of the offer, and said that he reached a settlement, it is said to have been agreed to, that the increase of such cases among native immigrants is an alarming proportion.

The story he is said to have told the officers in prison he repeated on the stand. Now he denies it all.

Miss Favetta was also a witness against Giannone. She said that the negro had furnished her poison and tried to induce her to put it in her husband's drink.

COMMON SCOLDS.

John Pfleiffer and Daughter Arrested On Indictments Charging Offense.

New York, Dec. 20.—John Pfleiffer and his daughter, Margaret, were arrested in Jersey City yesterday on indictments charging them with the somewhat unusual offense of being "common scolds." Pfleiffer is 50 years old and his daughter, 25. A score or more of their neighbors are also old and gray-haired, and the indictments were found under an ancient law of this Commonwealth. Pfleiffer is a widower and he and his daughter are accused of driving their neighborhood crazy with continual caustic remarks regarding their neighbors or any one who happens to pass their house. The statute under which they are charged provides a maximum of not more than three years imprisonment or a fine of not more than $500 for any person convicted of being a "common scold." The indictment charges that the parents of the neighborhood and of all good and quiet people, to the common nuisance of all the people there inhabiting, residing or passing.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Married Man Murders His Old Sweet-hear and Kills Himself.

Ogallala, Kas., Dec. 20.—Olive Bartlett, daughter of J. J. Bartlett, a retired farmer, was shot and killed at her home here yesterday. Her mother, Mrs. Kastenbach, a former sweetheart, who then killed herself. The parents of the girl were in an adjoining room when the two shots were fired. Kastenbach, 50, had not been married since their infatuation for each other years ago. Miss Bartlett secured a divorce from her husband, retaining the name of Bartlett, and subsequently left his wife and came here from Colorado to resume his attentions to Miss Bartlett. In a note left by Kastenbach, she says, "I am Bartlett now." She is a widow, the first having having "made out arrangements twice." Miss Bartlett was 30 years old and the man about 50.

DIAMOND DIVIDEND PASSED.

London, Dec. 20.—The deferred dividend of the De Beers Consolidated Mines company, limited, was paid today. Owing to the unfavorable outlook in the diamond trade, the restriction of purchases in America since the financial disturbances and the dumping of large quantities of stones in recent months before the agreement with the De Beers company demoralized the market, the company has decided it is necessary to strengthen its reserves in order to maintain prices. A telegram received here from Kimberly today says the company has ordered work in the diamond mines to be restricted to five days a week.

Huds Post, Dec. 20.—As a result of an allegation of political dishonesty made against him yesterday during the sitting of parliament, the Hungarian premier, Dr. Wickerle has challenged ex-Minister of Justice Polonyi to fight a duel with pistols. ONLY FEW OF THE VETERANS LEFT Number Now in Halls of Congress Not So Great as Formerly.

FIGURES IN THE HOUSE.

Ex-Speaker Keifer and His Pet Bill—"Kid" Congressmen, Wolf and Craig—Aged but Live Correspondent.

By Charles W. Arthur, Special Correspondent.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Ex-Speaker J. Warren Keifer of Ohio is still determined to press his measure to cut down southern representation in the house of representatives unless the states of that section restore the franchise to the blacks who have been disqualified. In the last Congress Representative Crum-packer of Indiana was foremost in this matter, but he gave it up as a hopeless task, not having been able to induce the Republican caucus to endorse the proposition. The question is before the high courts of the land, and eventually the supreme court will render a decision on the constitutionality of the acts by which the negroes were denied the right to vote.

NO NEGROES IN CONGRESS.

The other day a group of negroes were standing in the upper corridor looking down upon the house in session. Said one of the party who was of the untrained sort: "Dad was a thug when negroes had seats in that hall." But "was long time ago. You never give up for me another negro in Congress." "Please to me this done got to be a white man's country show." George White, a brown skinned negro, was the last of his race to serve in the house. Since his retirement he has been living in New Jersey and practising law in Philadelphia. He represented a North Carolina district. Several thousand of his fellow negroes have come here to New Jersey, where quite a negro colony was established.

A VETERAN CORRESPONDENT.

Talk about aged men in the senate and house. None of them equals in agility a veteran newspaper correspondent here. He is W. B. Shaw, who as early as 1862 was the Washington correspondent of the New York Herald and first to send news from the field of telegraph when news dispatches cost 10 cents a word. Mr. Shaw is still engaged actively in his work, goes to the Capitol every day and knocks around town in all sorts of weather. He's as lively as the average man of sixty. Ned a man now in public life was heard of when he became a well known correspondent before the Civil war. Hardly half of the members of the senate and house were born when he arrived at the capital. PEOP OF HIS COLLEAGUES LEFT.

Ex-Congressman O'Neill of Boston was here this week and visited the Capitol. He was a member of the house in the Fifteenth Congress, which ended March 4, 1863. Mr. O'Neill is 77.

On the Democratic side of the hill where he sat there are now only two men who served with him in that Congress—Livingston of Georgia and Delegate Mark Smith of Arizona. Talbot of Maryland was in Congress before O'Neill, but the former had several breaks in his service and was not a member of the Fifteenth. Only about five-six Republicans are left in the house who were here when O'Neill retired. Among them are Speaker Cannon and Messrs. Daizell, Bingham, Payne and Hepburn.

YOUNG MEMBERS FROM THE SOUTH.

Representatives Wolf of Maryland and Cook of Alabama are "kid" members of the house. Wolf is 27 years of age and Craig only 26. Hardwick of Georgia looks more boyish than either, but he is 35. When Hardwick first came to Congress he was frequently taken for one of the pages and various members called to him to run out to the document room and get bills for them until they discovered he was a member.

NOT BOUND BY RULES.

"You are violating the rules by smoking in the corridors," said a capital policeman to Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who was pulling away on a long black cigar.

"I am Senator Simmons," remarked the man who had been called down. "Pardon me, senator," answered the officer. "I am rather new here and did not recognize you."

"No harm done," replied the senator. But the policeman could not help reminding him that the body of which he is a member has made rigid rules, and the very first men to violate them are the senators themselves. "That's so," laughingly returned Simmons as he walked away, puffing his weed.

FAIRBANKS ENJOYS CARTOONS.

Vice President Fairbanks, like President Roosevelt, is a close student of cartoons and thoroughly enjoys them. "You know I am a third cousin of Homer Davenport," said Mr. Fairbanks, "and of course that accounts for my interest in caricatures." When Davenport first came to Washington he asked the vice president to let him do caricatures if he objected to being caricatured. After a moment's hesitation Fairbanks said "No" and told him he could do as he pleased.

NOT QUALIFIED FOR THE SENATE.

"No," said Representative Cushman of Washington, "but will never say again. This was an answer to a suggestion of a friend who thought the author ought to be transferred from the house to the senate. "In the first place I'm too poor now, and, in the second, too ugly."

PATRICIDE EXECUTED.

Perito, Ill., Dec. 20.—Edward Clifford, aged 27, was hanged here this morning for murdering his father Nov. 19. Clifford walked to the scaffold with a firm step and repeated a prayer led by Father Simon.

SCHOONER SINKS.

West Brook, Conn., Dec. 20.—An untried schooner bound east was captured and sunk two miles off this place shortly after 8 o'clock today and it is thought that every man of the crew perished. The schooner was 100 feet long and 30 feet wide, with top masts above the water. The seas are running high.

WIRELESS FROM THE FLEET.

On Board Flagship Conception (Thursday) Dec. 19, 1907, by wireless telegraphy to San Juan, Porto Rico.—The fleet at this hour has 100 hundred miles northward of the island of St. Thomas. The weather is fine.

AFFLICTED IMMIGRANTS.

New York, Dec. 20.—Immigrants afflicted with contagious diseases coming into New York faster than the local health authorities can care for them, on one day recently 10 immigrants suffering from contagion diseases were turned over to the medical authorities in the federal health inspectors. The government buys the local board two dollars a day for each such case, and a negro who assaulted Mrs. W. H. C. Hersey, the president of the Executive Board company, he grabbed her while she was in the cellar and started a rag in her mouth. She was found by neighbors.

MOR AFTER A NEGRO.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 20.—A mob of armed men, including mounted policemen, reached a stage where the accommodations are not equal to the demand. For aldermen is to be asked for $10,000 to purchase rooms. All the hospitals that accept contagious cases are over crowded, and Dr. Darlington, commissioner of health, says that the increase of such cases among native immigrants is assuming alarming proportions.

AN M. P. SENTENCED.

Doblin, Dec. 20.—Laurence Ginnell, member of parliament for North West-moth, who has been prominent in the cattle driving campaign, was sentenced today to six months' imprisonment for contempt of court in connection with comments in a recent speech upon the cattle driving trials.
