BUSY LOBBYISTS.

Washington Teams With Them and the Brewery Interests Lead.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—Washington is swarming with lobbyists of the various interests which will be affected by the repeal of the war taxes. The most successful of all the lobbies is, no doubt, that which is working in the interest of the brewers. The House made a reduction from $1.50 a barrel to $1.00, and in response, it is said to an earnest request from Senator Hanna, the Senate has agreed to make a still further reduction to 75 cents. The brewers and proprietors who make and sell the patent medicines of the country are now all wondering what they can do to exercise as powerful a pull with Congress as the brewers are able to exert.

The House bill, it is true, took off all the stamp taxes on medicines and proprietary articles. It looks very much as though the Senate committee had kept the tax on the patent medicines. A big protest is going up against the action of the Senate committee and it is likely that the protest will be heeded. The manufacturers of the standard medicine of the country make the claim that the wealthy can afford to consult their physicians, but the poor must go without relief if they cannot obtain it by purchasing the proprietary articles sold through the 40,000 retail drug stores of the country. The stamp tax simply increases the cost of all these articles, and in justice to the poor it is claimed that they ought to have a share of the relief instead of giving so much of it to the beer interests. It is said, too, that it is a part of the Senate scheme to take off the stamp tax on medicinal compounds which might be manufactured by anyone. Thus all the various productions of which Hazel and Lister's formula were free from tax because their formulae were protected by patent. Patent medicines, tonics and similar compounds, in which there is a secret mode of preparation, or a method protected by patent, will be taxed as heavily as they now are.

It is certainly to be hoped that Congress will look thoroughly into the question of distributing relief among all the interests affected by the repeal of the war taxes, and to discriminate in favor of the brewers, who, unknown to many, are among the wealthiest of all manufacturers.

LIVE STOCK MATTERS.

A Goodly Number of Small Sales Made — The Denver Convention.

Nothing of an unusual nature has occurred in the live stock situation locally within the past week. That the market is strong and sound is evidenced in the large number of small sales that are being effected. The beef market is steady, and while there seemed to be some fear as to the mutton supply some weeks ago, that fear has been dissipated and the market is much easier. The price of pork remains about the same.

The present time, though deemed generally as the poorest season in which to purchase stock, the demand for them is emphasized from the fact that buyers are willing to pay a premium rather than to discriminate in favor of the brewers, who, unknown to many, are among the wealthiest of all manufacturers.

President John H. White of the Salt Lake Improvement company, has been in Logan for the past few days, supposed to be inspecting some stock there with the intention of buying. He will return to the city this evening.

That "coming events cast their shadows before" is true in the case of the Cattle Growers' convention to be held in Denver in March next. Already a lively interest has been evoked among many of the cattlemen and the local stock raisers. Utah will have a very creditable representation at the convention.

MORE BILLS IN THE SENATE.

New Measure Regulating the Taxes on Transient Stock.

ELECTION OF U. S. SENATOR

Concurrent Resolution Asking Congress to Call a Convention for Constitutional Amendment.

In the Senate yesterday afternoon Senator Allison introduced Senate concurrent resolution No. 2, requesting Congress to call a convention to make an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of United States senator by the people. The resolution set forth that the House of Representatives had favored such an amendment on four occasions, but the Senate had frowned it down. Article 5 of the Constitution provides that upon request of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the States Congress shall call a convention for the purpose of considering a constitutional amendment.

Gov. Wells sent a communication bearing on the subject, accompanied by a resolution by the Pennsylvania legislature. The resolution and documents were referred to the committee on federal relations.

Senate bill No. 35, by Alder—an act defining transient stock, prescribing a method of assessment, collection and division of taxes received from the same, fixing the penalty for violation of provisions and repealing chapter 44 of the laws of Utah, 1899.

This is the second bill of this character introduced in the Senate, there is, however, some difference between the two measures. This one provides that stock moved for grazing purposes from one county to another by residents of the State, shall be defined as transient stock. It also provides forms of certificates to be used by the owner or agent controlling transient stock, declaring intention to graze in other counties, and the owners must secure the payment of taxes in the county from which the stock is moved by depositing 40 cents for each head of cattle and 10 cents for each sheep, or by giving sufficient bond, or by owning enough real estate to secure such tax.

The presentation of a certificate to that effect shall free the owner from being taxed in other counties.

Referred to the committee on live stock.

Senate bill No. 36, by Alder, an act amending section 213 of the Revised Statutes of Utah, 1898, relating to the election of municipal officers.

The new measure provides that in cities of the second class of less than 1,200 inhabitants, a city marshal shall be elected. The present law does not limit the election of such officer to cities of the second class, but includes all cities under 1,200 inhabitants.

TO SECURE PURE FOOD.

Senate bill No. 37, by Murdoch (by request), an act defining adulterations of foods and drugs, and to prevent the adulteration of certain foods and drugs, and regulating the sale of the same.

It is a voluminous measure, being a scientific definition of the adulteration of foods, drugs, land, baking powder, honey, molasses, syrup, jelly, canned fruits, tea, patent medicines, and provides for the labeling and standard of purity of condensed milk. Violators of the act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. Referred to the committee on public health.

The Hearing of Prof. Paul Goes Over Until Next Saturday.

By agreement of the attorneys for the prosecution and defense, the case against Prof. J. H. Paul, charged with resisting an order of the board of health, was continued until next Saturday at 10 o'clock. The case was to have been heard by Justice Kroeger this morning.

UTAH BEET GROWERS TO CONTEST

Will Compete for Prizes Offered for the Best Results and Methods in Raising One Acre of Sugar Beets.

The Deseret News is in receipt of a letter from the Orange Judd company, the well known publishers of a number of agricultural journals, saying that a copy of it has been sent to the chairman of the committee on agricultural matters in the Senate and House of Representatives of the Utah Legislature; to the president and director of the State Agricultural College; to Hon. Thomas R. Cutler, president of the Utah Sugar company, and to Hon. David Eccles, president of the Ogden Sugar company.

Upward of $10,000 in cash prizes have already been pledged for the sugar beet growers' contest for 1901, to be conducted under the personal direction of Mr. Herbert Myrick, president. Orange Judd company, and other Orange Judd Farmer of Chicago, for the west, and American Agriculturist for the east. Under such management, previous crop contests have proven remarkably successful, very notably the wheat crop contest of 1883, when the first prize of $500 in gold went to William Gibbey of Salt Lake City, for the crop of 80 bushels per acre.

In all these contests, the prize winners are given a cash prize, and the prize winners are given a cash prize, and the prize winners are given a cash prize.

In the beet growers' contest for 1901, many prizes of generous sums are offered in class I, for the record that shows most clearly and accurately the method pursued in growing one acre of sugar beets and results obtained. In respect of what results may be. That class is open to the whole country. Class II is open only to the States where there are factories, offers many and big prizes for the crop of sugar beets grown on one acre that contains the greatest quantity of sugar. It is probable that a thousand dollars will be offered in special prizes in this class, especially to beet growers in Utah. It is desirable that the sample of beets from each contest acre be tested for sugar by the state agricultural experiment station at Logan, Utah. This would involve considerable work and the prize fund, the best by this contest should also be taken advantage of by the State of Utah, to encourage farmers everywhere, who have not yet grown beets, to raise at least one acre this year, to test the crop in all parts of Utah. Therefore, the Legislature might well appropriate $10,000 or $15,000 to the state experiment station to defray the expense of making such tests, and for additional prizes to growers of sugar beets in Utah under such rules and regulations as said station may prescribe.

It is believed that the result of this contest will be to demonstrate that the sugar beet is one of the most profitable of staple crops in Utah, also that Utah produces a larger average yield of beets per acre, and a crop richer in sugar, than any other State. Once let these facts become known throughout the country and capital will flow into new factories in Utah to the great profit of the whole State. Indeed, the State of Utah should get $50 to $100 benefit for each dollar of the proposed appropriation.

It should be understood that this contest is open to beet growers generally throughout Utah. The Utah Sugar company has already contributed liberally to the prize fund, and the factories at Ogden and Logan will doubtless do likewise. They are doing more than their share, generously, and any appropriation the Legislature may make will not be favoritism in any form, to these existing factories, however worthy they may be of such aid. The idea of this contest is to help the farmer, and to demonstrate the capacity of Utah to grow sugar beets in industry. Other States are acting on a similar suggestion and Utah will miss a grand opportunity if she fails to come in.

ARMY BADGE BILL IS DEAD.

Was Killed in the House After Much Discussion.

OTHER BUSINESS DISPOSED.

Congress Memorialized to Aid in the Reclamation of Arid Lands—The Metric System of calculation.

The feature of yesterday afternoon's session in the lower house of the Legislature was the debate on Smith's bill, prohibiting the wearing by unauthorized persons of Loyal Legion or G. A. R. badges. The bill was finally killed by a vote of 24 to 17.

The committee on militia had reported favoring the passage of the measure. When it came up for third reading the author (Smith) explained that the prime object of the bill was to prevent the two orders named in it from being "passed" or "impersonated" by unauthorized persons.

Mr. Anderson thought that the singling out of these two orders would be class legislation. He suggested that the bill should include all orders in the United States.

The penalty for wearing the insignia of either of the orders without authority was fixed in the bill at from $10 to $200. Mr. Holtzheimer moved an amendment to the bill, to say a word on behalf of the Loyal Legion and G. A. R.

"These orders ought to be protected," said he, "because they are made up of men who have actual service in the United States army, and it should be an especially sacred duty with all patriotic Americans to protect that fast declining order, the G. A. R."

The speaker suggested the word "wear" be stricken out of the bill. He did not see any great culpability in wearing a button of an order if it was not for the purpose of defrauding or getting money or favors out of the members of those orders. Mr. Smith thought that any unauthorized person wearing these buttons should be punished.

Mr. McFarland went further, and suggested that the makers and sellers of these badges should be made liable. Mr. Van Horn explained that as the buttons were continually being lost it was necessary to leave the buttons in the hands of manufacturers and dealers, as otherwise the demand would be on the orders.

Mr. L. Morris moved an amendment to the bill that the words "for the purpose of imposing on any member of said orders" be introduced into the bill to qualify the act of wearing the badge by the unauthorized. Anderson and Smith considered that the wording of the bill covered this amendment. Mr. N. L. Morris thought that it would be all right for a son to wear such a badge on the event of his inheriting it from his father. It was suggested that innocent persons might wear the badges, being ignorant of the penalties. Mr. Hall considered that ignorance should be no excuse.

Then Mr. Harmon arose and said that he was not in favor of the passage of the bill in any shape.

A vote was then taken on Holtzheimer's and Morris's amendments, and both were lost. Other amendments were proposed and voted down. Axton declaring against the bill, said he thought it was unnecessary to clog the Statutes with unnecessary laws. He added that members of these orders and their comrades without having to be identified by means of badges or any other insignia. At this point Mr. Gardner moved that the enacting clause be stricken out. On a vote this was done by 24 to 17.

When House bill No. 7, by Stevens, came up for third reading the committee on fees and salaries were ready to make their report, fixing the salaries of State officers as previously noted in the "News." On motion of Van Horn the third reading was postponed till Monday, the bill not having been printed as the rules of the House demand.

House bill No. 12, by Van Horn, regarding the salaries of Supreme court justices was similarly postponed on motion of Mr. Hewlett.

A petition was received from a number of merchants in Park City urging the passage of Hewlett's bill on the garnishment of wages of married men.

A communication from the Senate penitentiary committee was received to the effect that the joint Senate and House committee had fixed on Wednesday, Feb. 6th, as the date to visit the penitentiary and would leave the Theater corner for that purpose at 9:45 a. m.

An invitation from President Kerr was received, to visit the State agricultural college at Logan. A committee of Maughan, McMillan and Axton were appointed to confer with the Senate committee to arrange for the trip.

Two Senate joint memorials, by Kiesel, were acted on.

No. 1, to memorialize the aid of Congress in reclaiming the old lands of the United States was passed, under suspension of the rules, by a vote of 42 to 1, and sent back to the Senate for engrossment.

The other, for the adoption of the metric system of weights and measures was tabled. It was thought that members of the House should know more what the Schaeffer bill, now before Congress, embraces, before sending a memorial to that body.

The McMillan bill prohibiting compulsory vaccination was signed by the Speaker and sent to the Senate.
