

ONLY ONE TREAT IN FIFTEEN YEARS

Jeanett McDonald Had All Work
And no Play During Married Life.

SHE GOT HER DIVORCE TODAY.

Also $25 a Month Alimony and the Custody of Her Two Minor Children.

Judge Stewart today granted Jeanett McDonald a divorce from George D. McDonald on the grounds of cruelty and non-support. They were married at Hyde Park, Mass., on Sept. 25, 1893. The evidence showed that defendant had ever since their marriage insisted on making a drudge out of plaintiff and has compelled her to remain at home and refused her the privilege of visiting or being visited by her friends and has also refused to allow her to attend public entertainments and has only taken her to one entertainment in 15 years. It was also shown that he had failed to provide for her for several years past. Mrs. McDonald was also awarded $25 per month alimony, $50 attorney's fees and the custody of their two minor children.

REYNOLDS ON TRIAL.

Ipswase and Poowegup Tell How They Bucked a Brace Monte Game.

Robert Reynolds, the last of the liquor sellers, was on trial before Judge Marshall in the United States district court this morning, and at 2 o'clock his case was submitted to the jury. As in the two previous instances the two braves from Whitcomb told stories that were simple and impossible to puncture by any system of cross questioning. Today the legends of Ipswase and Poowegup were narrated to the court, and will furnish the testimony on which Reynolds will be convicted or dismissed. From their stories it appears that Reynolds and Wilkins, his star witness, were engaged in no reputable business on the strip, except that of gambling and incidentally clerking in a store. On this day the defense of Reynolds attempted to prove that he sat at the monte table dealing cards from 4 p. m. to 4 a. m. and the prosecution narrated that on this same night the main victim before the table was Ipswase, a "poor ignorant Indian" who was first deceived by the brace game of his money, then the game suspended while liquor was procured, and when Ipswase was in his cups, the saddle which he rode to the "strip" was sacrificed at the table where Reynolds dealt in cards. After that, next morning when Ipswase clanked for his saddle, a back, a trifle too sober for the best interests of the gamblers, another bottle was produced and Ipswase was sent back to the woods of the reservation gloriously reeking. The only contention is to prove who produced the bottles, and in their argument on this point the defense is attempting to prevent a conviction. The verdict is expected tonight.

Amusements

The stream of Salt Lake's theater goers, somewhat diminished by the approach of the holidays, divided into two branches last night of nearly equal proportions, one flowing in the direction of the Grand, the other in that of the Theater. At the Grand were seen the carriages, the auto, blue, and the full dress array that proclaimed the "society set." At the Theater the turnout was made up of the popular throngs, the sort that the average actor loves to play to. Both houses were about two-thirds full, the prices at the Grand being exactly double those at the Theater.

Mr. David Belasco's superb production of "The Darling of the Gods," which is famed the world over, and which comes to us fresh from its triumph of 150 consecutive nights in St. Louis, was put upon the Grand stage last night. It was a spectacle and a production in all ways worthy of its reputation. It was, of course, inevitable that it should be cramped by the stage accommodations, and to those who had seen the play in the east, one omission was especially noticeable, that of the wandering of the spirits through the clouds before the final reunion of the lovers, but barring this omission, everything about the presentation was of the highest type of the ideal. Miss Bates, herself, who has scored so heavily in Salt Lake on past occasions, memorably in "Under Two Flags," never did anything more bewitching in its lighter moods, and more pathetic in its serious ones, than her role of the Japanese princess. Under the guiding hands of Belasco, she has developed into the rarest sort of an artist, one who never forces her art and who never strains for effect, but grips hold of her audience by the most natural and artless methods. Good as our first nighters proverbially are, she had a warm number of recalls after each act, and deserved more of them. The support was as excellent as Belasco could have given us. Mr. Bruns as the liquor minister of war did some very strong work, and Mr. Ormond in the part of the prince, was thoroughly capable. George Wessels, as the father, was equally good, and everyone else in the long cast fitted into his or her niche admirably. The scenic production was bewildering in its magnificence, while the costumes were to the rarest degree magnificent. The same production goes tonight and tomorrow night, and is one that all ought to make an effort to see.

Miss Bates' mother, Mrs. F. M. Bates, who, in the old days played in the stock company at the Salt Lake Theater, and who knew President Brigham Young well, has a small part, that of the "fox woman" in "The Darling of the Gods." Most of the time last night she spent in the front of the house chatting with old acquaintances. She appeared in Salt Lake about 24 years ago with the Home Dramatic club in "The Red Pocket Book."

The new star introduced to Salt Lake by Messrs. Belasco, Mayer & Price, this Belasco being a brother of the famous manager of Blanche Bates—made his bow last night in "Heartsease," a play rendered notable to Salt Lake by Henry Miller's presentation. It may be said at once that Mr. Whittlesy established himself an immediate favorite and he is sure from now on to rank as one of the popular friends of Salt Lake theater goers. Mr. Whittlesy is a handsome man, a good reader, and an actor of experience, and while it may be said that he is given a little to posing in some of his scenes, that is not a serious fault and will be easily overcome. Last night after the scene in the lobby of the opera house where the young composer hears the distant strains of the opera which had been stolen from him by his rival, and recognizes it as his own work, he gained as many curtain calls as even Mr. Miller did after the same scene, and of course, Mr. Whittlesy is not an actor of Mr. Miller's gift or experience. He bowed his acknowledgments half a dozen times, and then responded with a short speech to the audience, and expressed his hope that the bill for the remainder of the week would please as much as "Heartsease" seemed to have done.

The support ranked as good, though there were one or two new places in the cast. The scenery and costumes were all excellent, and the entire production showed that the management have lavished the same care on their male star that they have done on Miss Roberts.

The same bill goes tonight. At tomorrow's matinee at the Grand Miss Bates gives her only performance here of "The Darling of the Gods," a one act sketch written by herself and Mr. Arliss, entitled "My Aunt's Advice."

A. C. NELSON SUBPOENAED.

State Supt. of Public Schools Will Go To Washington.

One subpoena in the Smoot case is the record for today in the U. S. Marshal's office. It is for State Superintendent of Public Instruction A. C. Nelson, and reads "forthwith," which means that he must leave at once for the capital city. From the nature of the American party's campaign this year it would appear that Nelson is wanted to be the target of questions tending to expose the horrible and terrible "inside history" of the Religion classes in the public schools.

Hon. C. W. Penrose and Hon. John Henry Smith, left for Washington, at 7 o'clock this morning.

students and always urged them to obey the law.

Joshua Hickman, a teacher in Brigham Young university, testified that he was married first in 1884 and again in 1890. The first wife died in 1890. For ten years, he said, he lived with two wives and had had children by both of them.

The witness said he went through the Temple with his second wife two or three years ago, and they were sealed, but no legal marriage had taken place. He said he had taken no steps to conform to the law in relation to marriage.

"Then as you understand it, you are not legally married to your present wife?" asked Mr. Taylor. "No, sir, not so far," said Mr. Van Cott, one of the attorneys for Mr. Smoot. "What did you mean by that?"

Mr. Hickman explained that he had been a little negligent, but that he and his wife had decided that they should be married. He said of the 30 or 40 teachers in the university he was morally certain that only two, Mr. Brimhall and himself, had been polygamists. The witness said he took the woman who became his second wife in 1890 to Mexico, and that the ceremony had been performed while they were walking through the country. He said there were no polygamist marriages performed in the United States at that time. He could not remember who had acted as witnesses nor if there had been any record made of the marriage.

MRS. DOUGLASS STILL IN JAIL.

Charged With Assault With a Deadly Weapon by Mrs.
Martin.

TWO ATTORNEYS ARE ENGAGED

By the Woman Who Was Shot Yesterday to Prosecute Her Assailant—Sympathetic Officers.

Mrs. Lottie Martin who was shot yesterday morning by Mrs. Ida M. Douglass, has employed attorneys D. O. Willy and Will Wanless to assist in the prosecution of Mrs. Douglass.

Last evening a complaint was drawn up, charging Mrs. Douglass with assault with a deadly weapon, with intent to do bodily harm. The instrument is to be sworn to by Attorney Wanless, and will be filed today.

The arraignment is to take place this afternoon, late, or tomorrow morning. Mrs. Douglass spent last night in the women's ward of the city jail where she is at the present time.

She still refuses to talk for publication beyond saying she was justified in shooting Mrs. Martin. She repeats her statement about Mrs. Martin's intimacy with Douglass and that she has letters written by the woman. The officers at police headquarters deeply sympathize with Mrs. Douglass and express regret that she is in such deep trouble over the affair. Mrs. Martin's condition is not at all serious, but she is determined to prosecute Mrs. Douglass to the fullest extent of her ability to do so.

NO ARRAIGNMENT TODAY.

This afternoon Attorney D. O. Willy, stated that Mrs. Douglass would not be arraigned today, and that there was a probability that the woman would be charged with a more grave offense. It is likely that a new complaint will be drawn up, charging Mrs. Douglass with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

The attorney who called upon the prisoner today with Rev. Simpkins is Job Lyon, and it is understood he will look after her interests.

SANITARIUM SCHEME.

Eastern Parties Plan Big Thing Provided They Get Warm Springs.

A deal is under consideration for the acquisition of Beck's Hot Springs and the Warm Springs by mostly eastern investors, whereby they will be enabled, if the scheme goes through, to expend half a million dollars in the erection of a sanitarium and the improvement of the surrounding land, and also for the piping of the waters of the Great Salt Lake. E. W. Woodcock of Chicago is said to be the principal mover in the scheme, and Salt Lake people are interested as well as easterners. However, Cashier George M. Cannon, who is posted in the matter, said today that the whole thing was in the air, and there was nothing to show that it would or that it would not materialize.

MISS RAMSEY GOING EAST

Salt Lake Singer Receives a Flattering New York Offer.

Utah is soon to permanently lose one of her most capable singers, as well as teachers. Today Miss Emma Ramsey received a flattering offer from Liebling, of the Musical Courier, which calls for her presence in New York during the early part of January. At present Miss Ramsey has a large class of pupils, whom she will be obliged to turn over to other teachers. When asked today in regard to her offer, Miss Ramsey declined to state the exact nature of her engagement, for the reason she said that negotiations had not yet reached a stage where an announcement was called for. She said, however, that she would leave for New York as soon after Christmas as possible. Before leaving she may fulfill concert engagements already made at Provo, and in Idaho, but will not do so if they interfere with her departure early in the year.

SMELTER FUMES.

Committee on Health Meets Saturday To Discuss the Problem.

Commissioner Standish, chairman of the committee on health, has called a meeting of the committee for Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the county commissioners' rooms to consider the petition of the farmers of Salt Lake county relative to the smelters. The committee representing the farmers has been notified and appear as has also the representatives of the smelters and the matter will be thoroughly investigated.

FILED ON WATER.

E. C. Kelsey Claims 1,000 Second Feet Of Water from San Rafael.

E. C. Kelsey filed yesterday afternoon, a claim with the office of the state engineer, for 100 second feet of water, from the San Rafael river in section 29, for storage between January 1 and December 31, and for use in irrigation between May 1 and October 1. The dam will be 80 feet high and 100 wide on the top. The diverting canal is to be 16,500 feet long, 20 feet wide and seven feet deep, and the area to be irrigated is 50,000 in Emery county.

HE SHOT QUAIL.

T. Larsen Fined $10—Duck Shooting Ends on Thursday Night.

T. Larsen was fined by Justice Holm of the Murray precinct this morning for shooting quail. Larsen was arrested by Deputy Game Warden William Bingley and the experience cost him considerable unpleasantness to say nothing of the $10 fine.

Mr. Bingley wishes it to be borne in mind that the duck shooting and fishing season closes on Thursday night, December 15, and that anyone caught breaking the law after that date will not, perhaps, get off as easily as did Larsen.
