A PICTURESQUE CHAPEAU.

Over a wire frame strands of filmy-mallies are woven and interwoven, after the fashion of basket-making, to form this novel and decidedly original chapau. The crown is rather low and broad, fitted to the head with a bandeau underneath, this bandeau being treated after the same fashion as is the entire hat. The wire frame is bent in close to the coiffure in the back, pointed upwards at the side to admit a dainty pompadour of narrow ribbons, that suggests a chrysanthemum, and quaintly the fringe of narrow black velvet ribbon-erect from the back, and are tied with many long, and floating ends coquettishly under the left ear. A bunch of tiny orchids tips are posed at the right side of the hat, balancing the pointed other side and the ribbon chrysanthemum.

Edward and Alfred Nelson, brothers of the former.

Mrs. George Hanson pleasantly entertained a party of friends at a card party Friday evening. During the evening delicious refreshments were served.
