THE GUARD AT SALTAIR.

A Large Crowd of Excursionists Present—Many Sport Themselves in the Briny Waves.

Beautiful Saltair was the scene last evening and yesterday of merry revelries, it being National Guard day and one of the hundreds of attractions at this famous and soon to be national resort.

Immediately on arriving there, the time was passed in dancing, bowling or in the luxury of a plunge in the waters of this famous inland sea. In the evening the night was a most attractive one, the large company dancing to the strains of stirring music, which was kept up until late in the evening. Taste were present of the National Guard officials, Governor West and staff, consisting of Lieutenant Colonel Clayton, Lieutenant Colonel Driver, Adjutant General Cannon, Brigadier General R. W. Young, Colonel Page, Fire regiment, Lieutenant Colonel Donnellet, Major Naylor, First battalion; Captain Alford, Captain Lund, Lieutenants Wright, Lawrence, Dye, A. J. Lund, Infant Colonel Cooke, Lieutenant Preston; and of the Signal corps, Lieut. F. D. Richards and Lieut. Eimer; Captain R. H. Jones, Company A, Second regiment infantry; Captain Sterling Leger, Second regiment infantry; Captain C. H. Barlow, Ogden, Troop A; Captain Saunders, First regiment, Richfield, eighteen men; Captain Bean, First regiment, Company K, also Sergeant Wright; Captain Brady, Company C, First regiment, Mt. Pleasant, twenty men, with Lieut. Rich; Captain F. C. Nesbit, Second battery, Ogden, Second Lieut. Norris, same battery, with twenty men; Captain C. H. Naylor, Troop C, Salt Lake City, with eighteen men; Captain Grow, First Lieut. Webb, Second Lieut. Smith and thirty-two men, Company A, First regiment. It is estimated that there were upwards of 4,000 persons present about 1,500 of whom took a plunge in the lake.

Ejected From a Train.

Another passenger has been ejected from a train, and the Southern Pacific company has again made itself liable to a suit for heavy damages. A man named Thatcher, according to the story received at the general office of the company yesterday, says Sunday's San Francisco Chronicle, was traveling westward with his wife on the nonsmoking portion of a round-trip ticket to Denver, sold in this city. At Ogden, when the time came to collect the extra fare of F. M. Goodman's shrewd train "spotter" as a sculped ticket, and the holder of the suspicious piece of pasteboard was asked to write his signature. It was an unintelligible scrawl, and he was asked to write his name again. He refused and the ticket was confiscated. The holder of the ticket manages to fight his way on the train without a ticket until he reached Ogden. Then the conductor determined to put him off without further ceremony. That was on Friday night. There was a lively tussle in the car, and the conductor had to engage the services of a train dispatcher and two brakemen to put the unwilling guest off the train. The man's wife followed him peacefully, and they are now stranded at Ogden, unable to continue on their journey to this city for want of money to pay their fare.

Thatcher claims that he was traveling on his own ticket, and the company lost none by his presence. Thatcher claims to have been badly cut and bruised and greatly injured for life here by the rough handling he received at the hands of the train men. He says he has the intention of bringing a suit for heavy damages as soon as he reaches this city.

GAME IN ONE AT A TIME.

A Meeting of the Police Commissioners That Would Be Red—Since in the Ice Yard.

The fire and police commissioners stood over the dead—neither dead, however, but sick and feeble were present, and after waiting for a few minutes Mr. [illegible] announced that there would be no meeting, as [illegible] was absent and [illegible] with a cold.

This made the report of [illegible] to order while Kirby White, who [illegible] was ordered by [illegible] to [illegible] to the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
